Turbulent World.
Talkative Ambassador.
An Engineer's Job.
A. P. Sloan, Jr.'s Problem.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AS PUBLISHERS know, circulation of the right kind, especially home circulation, counts, in depressions, when merchants must sell goods. This is proved interestingly by the fact that the American Weekly, a magazine published with the Hearst Sunday newspapers, carried in August, 1932, over ten per cent more advertising than it carried in August of the boom year 1929.

The weekly coming next, with about half the circulation of the American Weekly, carried in August, 1932, less than one-third of the advertising that it carried in August, 1929.

The American Weekly circulates far above 5,000,000 copies a week, at ten cents a copy, and it is all home circulation.

WE LIVE in a turbulent world, ladies and gentlemen, and more than a few kind words or debts forgiven are needed to smooth it out.

In Manchuria bandits wreck trains, kill many. Twenty-six of them are killed.

Far more important is the German news that Von Papen, head of the aristocratic "baron" government, dissolves the Reichstag autocratically. That is as though Herbert Hoover or the Secretary of State should tell the Congress to go home when in full session. The Reichstag votes, 513 to 32, to put Von Papen out.

The Hitler crowd joins the "Reds" in upsetting the present aristocratic government. The latter hints it may stay in office by force. There will be real shooting if it starts in Germany.

MR. EDGE, our ambassador in Paris, presenting to France an expensive memorial built by the United States near Meaux, supposedly in recognition of the Statue of Liberty sent to us, took occasion to say that when the American people see a territory overrun, they:

"Instinctively resolve to throw their moral, and, if need be, their material weight on the side of the invaded."

This half-way promise that if somebody attacks France or some other European country, the United States will rush in as it did in the last war, is fortunately not official.

Mr. Edge is mistaken. And, what is more, any president or public official that should undertake to send men and money from the United States into another war, without letting the American people vote on it, would be kicked out of office, and ought to be impeached for treason. ONCE IS ENOUGH.

WASHINGTON SUGGESTS that President Hoover may put Calvin Coolidge in charge of a committee to rehabilitate railroads, restore their prosperity and full usefulness. Mr. Coolidge's advice would be very valuable.

But what railroads need is NEW METHODS. Mr. C. F. Kettering, head engineer of General Motors, or some engineer of equal ability, if he can be found, should be invited to form an organization of engineers to suggest plans for railroad RECONSTRUCTION.

The railroads ignored automobiles and motor trucks until it was too late to do anything but weep about them, treating automobiles just as the old stage coach owners treated the locomotives. First scorn, then sorrow.

Mr. Kettering, with engineers selected from Standard Oil, General Electric, Westinghouse, United States Steel, and a few other inventive centers, would replace the heavy coach weighing 150,000 pounds, carrying 2,400 pounds of passengers, with a coach of duralumin, weighing 10,000 pounds, carring more passengers.

Modern engineers would change the foolish, slow, long string of cars and locomotive weighing millions of pounds, running hours apart, to light, high-speed, single units running 15 or 20 minutes apart, at 150 miles an hour.

The country needs a new railroad system; the old kind cannot be restored any more than the dinosaur or the stage coach could be restored to usefulness.

ALFRED P. SLOAN, Jr., president of General Motors, has been appointed head of a committee to study "the problems arising from war debts owed by European nations to the United States." A better man could not have been chosen.

Mr. Sloan will probably report about as follows:

"Europe owes us the money, billions of dollars. United States taxpayers were forced to pay that money, and are paying interest on it now. European nations should repay it, or continue owing it under such pressure as we can properly bring to bear to force payment."

DEMOCRATS TRIUMPH IN MAINE

Elect Governor, Two Congressmen in Amazing Upset

By JOHN T. LAMBERT
International News Service.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 13.—The Democrats have carried the state of Maine in the most extraordinary and amazing political overturn in the history of this commonwealth.

Their candidate for Governor, Judge Louis J. Brann, of Lewiston, had a small but evidently comfortable lead today with the returns tabulated from all but 36 of the 632 election precincts of the state.

LEADS BY 2,000

With this lead of more than 1,300 votes, two missing wards of his home city of Lewiston, and the sizeable town of Sanford, were ex-2,000 votes, two missing wards of pected to increase his lead. The other absent places were largely small and isolated plantations of negligible vote.

Thus it seems that Maine has elected a Democratic Governor for the first time in 18 years, and the only time in a presidential year since the Civil War.

In the extraordinary political overturn, Edward C. Moran, Jr., Democrat, has defeated Congressman John E. Nelson, Republican, dean of Maine's Congressional

Hutchinsons All Safe, But Face Winter In Greenland

International News Service.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 13.—The "Flying Hutchinsons"—father, mother, two little girls and a crew of four men—rescued on the east coast of Greenland early today after they had been given up for lost on their attempted New York-to-London flight, were landed at Finnsbu at 10 o'clock this morning by the British trawler, Lord Talbot, which found them after a search of more than 30 hours.

This word was received here this afternoon in a relay message from Capt. Thomas Watson, of the Lord Talbot, of the ship's owners at Aberdeen, Scotland.

SENDS WIRELESS

Watson wirelessed that he had taken the stranded fliers aboard his ship at 7 o'clock this morning and had proceeded at once to Finnsbu.

The Lord Talbot, first craft to go in search of the Hutchinsons when their amphibian plane was forced down south of Angmagsalik Sunday afternoon, made a brief stop at Angmagsalik, the message said, and then continued on to the fishing grounds.

Almost as soon as news of the rescue of the daring family of fliers reached here there arose the serious problem of how to get them, particularly the two little girls, Kathryn, aged 8, and Janet Lee, 6, out of the frozen Arctic, where the long and hard winter has already set in.

The last boat of the season has already left Angmagsalik and, un-

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A pilot, a nurse, a surgeon and a dog were roaring through azure skies today bound for Rome in the white and yellow plane American Nurse.

At 7:16 this morning Pilot William Ulrich took the heavily loaded plane off the 4,000-foot runway at Floyd Bennett field while Dr. Leon M. Pisculli and Miss Edna Newcomer, of Williamsport, Pa., settled themselves comfortably for what is expected to be a 30-hour flight.

The dog is Tail Wind, whom Dr. Pisculli found on a roadway suffering from a broken leg, and nursed back to health. The doctor said Tail Wind will serve as a detector of the deadly carbon-monoxide gas which he blames for failure of some ocean flights.

Each of the three human occupants of the plane, also has a definite purpose in making the flight. Ulrich's goal is a record breaking flight.

Dr. Pisculli says his only object in making the trip is to use the plane as a laboratory and his two co-passengers as subjects. He intends to study the effects of a long flight on the human body and from his observations he hopes to learn something of fatigue—its causes, its effects and possibly its cure.

Miss Newcomer was on the stage before becoming a nurse and was known as "The girl with the million dollar legs." She plans to make a parachute jump as the plane passes over Venice.

The exploit was to demonstrate the practicability of landing nurses from planes into inaccessible, stricken areas.

GARNER FUND MEANS JOBS FOR 600

War Department Set To Launch Vast Works Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP.)—A huge public works program calling for an early outlay of $56,741,260 for river and harbor improvement, flood control and army housing projects as provided under the Garner-Wagner relief act was announced today at the War Department.

This is part of the $200,000,000 of the $322,000,000 fund authorized in the relief act which President Hoover recently announced was available now for public works construction to relieve unemployment.

ALLOTMENTS MADE

Allotments, announced by Acting Secretary Payne, included $26,077,260 for river and harbors, $15,500,000 for flood control and $15,164,000 for housing at various Army posts.

These allotments will expedite work on many important projects, and are expected to provide employment for many thousands of men. The Garner-Wagner act provided a total of $30,000,000 for river and harbor projects, and the remainder of this sum is to be allotted later.

Among the big allotments for river and harbor improvement was $4,000,000 for lock and dam construction on the Allegheny in Pennsylvania.

JOBS FOR 600

More than 600 construction workers alone in the Pittsburgh district will be put to work within the next few months as a result of the allotment by the federal government today of $4,000,000 for dam and lock construction in the Allegheny River, according to Maj. W. D. Styer, United States Army engineer in charge of the Pittsburgh district.

The local projects consist of the dismantling of Lock No. 1, two miles from the Point; construction of a new Lock No. 2 and dam near the Highland Park Bridge, and a new Lock No. 3 at Fourteen-Mile Island.

Bids will be advertised upon official notification of the government's action, Maj. Styer said. The actual construction work will get under way shortly after that.

SCHOOL STRIKE JAILS NINE

ROCHESTER, Pa., Sept. 13.—Nine students of the Monaca High School were behind bars here for four hours today following a student strike at the Monaca school, the outgrowth of shaving freshmen's heads.

A dozen of the striking students, part of a parading body of several hundred that had crossed the bridge over the Ohio River to Rochester, staged a demonstration in front of the Rochester High School this morning, apparently in an attempt to call out the students here on a sympathy strike.

PLAN NEW RALLY

School officials notified police, who arrested nine of the Monaca youths on charges of disorderly conduct. All were around 17 years of age.

The nine students were released this afternoon in custody of their parents.

Meanwhile the Monaca strikers were planning another parade this afternoon.

Fight Over Rebuke To Hoover Will Go to Floor

BULLETIN.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—J. J. By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—The American Legion was lined up today to go dripping wet, demand immediate cash payment of the bonus and fight out the issue of censuring President Hoover on the floor of its fourteenth annual convention.

An International News Service poll disclosed an overwhelming majority of the state delegations favored outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but upon such conditions as will protect dry states and prevent the return of the saloon. However worded, the Legion apparently will put its official indorsement in effect on the Democratic prohibition plank.

CASH BONUS POLL

The poll further revealed the cash bonus demand would be approved by a terrific majority—more than 10 to 1.

Gandhi Will 'Starve' With New Teeth

POONA, India, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—At the very time the Mahatma Gandhi's starvation ultimatum was made public in Great Britain the Mahatma himself was sitting in an improvised dentist chair in Yeroda prison, having finishing touches put to a new set of teeth.

The Mahatma announced yesterday he would refuse all food after September 20 unless the government came to terms and revoked the communal settlement just outlined for India.

The dentist has been a frequent visitor to the prisoner because the Mahatma has proved a difficult case for him. He has made several dentures for the Mahatma only to have them discarded.

The Mahatma's plan to "fast unto death" unless British communal election plans are abandoned was expected to bring about his release from prison. Simla authorities were reported as saying they would send him to Sabhamati Ashram, his residence near Ahmedabad.

GLASSFORD CHALLENGES MITCHELL'S ATTACK ON B. E. F.

CAPITAL CHIEF DENIES TRUTH OF CHARGES

Dismissal Expected For Defense of Veterans

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The written word of the nation's Attorney General as submitted by the President stood bluntly challenged as inaccurate today by the police superintendent of America's capital city.

This was the dramatic crux of a maelstrom of controversy raging in the wake of Attorney General William D. Mitchell's bonus army report defending the action of the administration in calling out federal troops to evict the marchers from Washington on July 28.

FACTS DISTORTED

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, expected momentarily to be discharged from his office as a result of his sweeping denial of Mitchell's conclusions.

Glassford's statement dealing with the Mitchell report was lengthy, opened with the blunt assertion that he found the report at variance with facts known to the police, and went into details to deny a number of statements and conclusions embraced in the document.

The focal point of the Glassford-administration argument appeared to be over the statement contained in the report that the police executive asked for federal troops.

Glassford staunchly stuck to his denial that he sought troops. The administration just as staunchly stood pat on its assertion.

Glassford cited from the notebook of his personal secretary, Aldace Walker, to reveal that he "expressed strong opposition to calling for federal aid."

GLASSFORD'S DENIALS

He then took up some of the Mitchell report assertions in detail. He denied:

1—That one of the bonus camps was occupied principally by Communists.

2—That a large body of Communists was active among the bonus marchers.

3—That virtually the entire metropolitan police force was called to the scene of the bonus riots, leaving most of the city unpoliced.

4—That the blame for "unsatisfactory" results of grand jury action following the riots lay on the shoulders of police.

5—That police officers were ordered to stay away from the main bonus concentration on the day of the riots.

6—That the bonus army was composed largely of a criminal element.

CRIME NO NOVELTY TO G. O. P.

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Did you read Attorney General Mitchell's report that the bonus army brought 1,069 criminals to Washington?

Well, that's a lot. But it still ain't a record for a Republican administration.

Who fixed that report up? Looks like the boys who rewrote the Wickersham document and the Constitution are again doing a little toe dancing on dangerous ground.

Is crime in the corridor worse than malfeasance in office? Why doesn't the Attorney General concentrate on government house cleaning instead of shaking the table cloth out of the window?

It's dangerous to starve these days. Not because it makes you hungry. But because Washington is liable to indict you for cheating your stomach.

Looks like the Republican attempt to win over the Portland convention has backfired.

FLOYD GIBBONS, HURLEY CLASH AT VET FETE

War Secretary Denies Troops Started Fire In Bonus Camp

International News Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—A sensational verbal attack on Floyd Gibbons, famous war correspondent, by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley at the national commander's banquet, served today to split the ranks of the American Legion into two hotly debating camps on the issue of censuring President Hoover for using federal troops against the bonus marchers in Washington.

Gibbons, invited to the banquet as a distinguished guest, brought up the subject of praising the veterans for their discipline and spirit while in the capital. He praised their wartime commanders for teaching them "obedience and discipline in the war."

DENIES GIBBONS' REMARK

Hurley followed and hotly defended President Hoover's action in using troops against the veterans. He angrily denied one remark by Gibbons, that soldiers had burned down the homes of veterans. Hurley said:

"On my sacred word of honor, no soldier burned a home in Washington. The veterans set the fires themselves. Any one who states the contrary does not state the facts."

The two speeches were deplored by National Commander Henry L. Stevens, Jr., who said both Gibbons and Hurley had "spoken out of order."

The cash bonus advocates charged Hurley was afraid to defend the President before the rank and file of the Legion and had used the commanders' banquet to make his speech to an audience of "brass hats."

HURLEY BOOED, APPLAUDED

The cabinet officer appeared before the Legion yesterday to a mixed chorus of applause and boos. He won some more applause during a brief speech extolling the national defense, but when he finished, there were more boos amid heavier applause. Throughout his talk there, he made no reference to the President or the bonus riots.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Eight Doukhobors confined in the prison camp on Piers Island ended a three-day hunger strike yesterday. They are members of the Sons of Freedom sect sentenced to three years' imprisonment last spring for parading in the nude at Thrums.

LEGION READY TO INDORSE REPEAL

Fight Over Censuring Hoover Will Go To Floor

from censure for using federal troops to oust the bonus marchers from Washington. There was just a bare possibility, though, the convention might condemn the use of troops for such purposes, without directly naming the President.

The poll, as yet inconclusive, indicated defeat even of such a resolution, but a score of delegations would not commit their members on the issue.

The poll follows:

| Subject. | Ayes. | Noes. | Doubt-ful. | Un-polled. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Repeal Eighteenth Amendment | 869 | 139 | 253 | 48 |
| Cash bonus | 1,120 | 61 | 41 | 55 |
| Cens. use of troops | 168 | 542 | 481 | 108 |
| Censure President | 80 | 899 | 481 | 108 |

Despite its apparent opposition to censuring Mr. Hoover, the convention appeared headed for one of the bitterest fights in its history over the bonus riot issue.

It served to wipe out all resistance to the demand for payment of the bonus in cash. It likewise had its tentacles into the fight for adoption of an outright repeal plank, and its ramifications were felt in the naming of a new national commander.

Many observers regarded the convention as distinctly anti-Hoover. As evidence, they pointed to the sentiment for the cash bonus when the President has led the opposition. They indicated the rush toward the Democratic prohibition plank just when the President is seeking re-election on an entirely different plank. And they regarded the opposition to censure of Mr. Hoover as inspired just as much by his foes as by his friends.

One Republican Legionaire, high in his party circles, said:

"This convention will smash the President if it can. It doesn't want to give him any weapons in the campaign. It may make a mistake by indorsing the cash bonus but it certainly won't make the mistake of censuring him.

"A lot of people never liked that bonus march stuff and besides a direct shot at him might swing sympathy to the President. That's why this censure resolution is going to be beaten. Mr. Hoover's enemies will beat it."

CAPITAL CRIME LESS DURING B. E. F. STAY

Police Records Shown To Counter Charges Of Mitchell

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Police records today disclosed that crime decreased in the national capital during the occupancy of the Bonus Expeditionary Force.

The official statistics were seized upon by friends of the bonus army to counter the charge of Attorney General Mitchell that criminals formed a large percentage of the tattered band which sought cash payment of the bonus.

Police Inspector Edwards said:

"There was no increase in crime during that period. There seems to have been a decrease."

POLICE STATISTICS

The police statistics revealed:

During May, June and July—Embracing the bonus army's invasion from May 26 to July 28—there were 394 fewer offenses committed than during the same three months last year.

A sharp increase in the number of crimes was reported during August, after the bonus army had been evicted.

During July, the critical period of the bonus invasion, the number of offenses was 1,073, while in August the number rose to 1,152.

L. S. Ray, legislative agent of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which pushed the bonus drive, said:

"I do not believe that there is any justification in the statement of the Attorney General that 'it is probable that the bonus army brought into the City of Washington the largest aggregation of criminals that had ever assembled in the city at any one time.'

'NO CRIME WAVE'

"There was no crime wave in the city. All citizens know that.

"From my personal contact with hundreds of members of the bonus army I assert that most of them were good citizens. Of course, you can't assemble several thousand men anywhere without finding that some had committed offenses.

"In looking over the list of offenses listed by the Justice Department, I find that minor infractions of the law make up a large part of the total."

Officials of the bonus army maintain that they co-operated with Police Chief Glassford in maintaining order.

With the reopening of the controversy, it is expected that new efforts will be made to obtain additional indictments by the grand jury.

MITCHELL CHARGES AGAINST B. E. F. DECLARED OUTRAGEOUS, ABSURD

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—There was a day in 1917 when you and I stood on the edge of a city street and shouted until we were hoarse.

Thousands of other Americans were massed beside us . . . two solid walls of humanity, on either side of the street . . . walls that rocked and heaved and swayed with our hurrahing.

Streaming down between those walls, like a golden river in their new khaki, with drums booming and horns singing and flags foaming against the bright blue sky, went our boys!

The boys of America—young and eager and gay—going laughing off to war! The youth of America, leaving its home, its schools, its proud, first job, turning its back on young dreams and young love—marching off to fight for you and for me.

And you and I standing there, shoulder to shoulder, heart to heart, watching them go—shouting our pride!

Contrast When They Returned

And there was a day in 1918 when we stood on the edge of a city pavement, trembling with pity, choking back our tears.

Thousands of other Americans standing beside us—dark, watching walls of men and women from which came cheers that were wails and a silence that was one long groan.

And down between those dark walls, many of them with feet dragging, eyes listless, came our boys.

The boys of America, those that were left, broken and weary and haunted with horrors they would never forget, crawling back from war.

The youth of America that would never again be young, crawling back to the home it no longer fitted, to the job someone else held, to a dream it could not remember, to a love that looked at it with strange and startled eyes.

But at least they were back! And you and I sobbed our gratitude for that. Touched the soiled khaki and the shattered flesh with pitying hands. And promised—

How we promised!

Promised that we'd make up to them for all they had suffered and lost. Promised that we would never forget—that as long as American blood ran red, American hearts would remember the boys who had saved their land.

Listening, hope woke again in those listless eyes—youth broke again in those lagging limbs.

1932 Brings Different Day

And again there was a day in 1932. A day when we stood on a littered bank overlooking a blackened field where, for a few starved months, 7,000 to 15,000 men had made their pitiful homes.

Homes of tin cans and sacks and packing boxes for the men who had saved the hearths of America. Meals of slops, ratios of raw wheat mixed with cold water, for the men whose youth was rotted away in the front-line trenches of France.

That was what had come of our promises!

America's heroes, driven out like dogs from their last foothold in their country's capital . . . tear-gassed and bayonetted . . . their shelters burned behind them . . . their helpless wives and children routed pell-mell into the darkness, before the trampling hoofs of cavalry!

Three scenes that will stand forever in American history. And now today, there comes the most pitiful, the most shameful act of all.

It was not enough that these men gave their youth to a hideous war . . . that they returned demoralized to a land in which they could not find their place . . . that for the last three years they and their children had come nearer and nearer to death by starvation.

Officials Seek False Role

This week the American Legion meets in convention in Portland, Ore. It meets in anger. There is bitter memory of that day in Anacostia. And the men who fought for America will challenge the men who are running America. Perhaps, demand an explanation. Perhaps, issue such an indictment of a government as no body of citizens has ever before issued.

To an administration on the eve of election, this means a dangerous impasse. That indictment must be prevented. Anacostia must be explained away. And there is only one way to do it—

The bonus expeditionary force must be made to seem an abomination and a menace in the eyes of the American people. And the administration must assume the role of savior in ridding Washington of that menace.

And so, at the request of President Hoover, Attorney General Mitchell has prepared a report in which the Attorney General declares that an extraordinary proportion of these men were—not soldiers, but imposters . . . Communists and radicals . . . ex-convicts . . . criminals.

Not soldiers?

The Kind They Couldn't Fake

That statement is not only outrageous—it is absurd. And the dullest citizen can see the reason for its absurdity.

Those men went to Washington, expecting at least partial payment on their compensation certificates.

In order to get such payment they had to have certificates. They also had to have honorable discharges from the Army to back those certificates. And those certificates and discharges had to check with Army records.

There was no way out of this. Certificates might have been faked—discharges might have been forged. But no documents which were not absolutely authentic could possibly have gotten by the War Department and Veterans Bureau or resulted in bonus payment.

Faked records?

I saw records which could not be faked. I stood in the B. E. F. first aid tent, donated by a great-hearted American, after the Red Cross had refused to give such a tent. I saw the papers, the honorable discharges, the medals of these hungry, ragged men as they came seeking aid. I saw something more terrible and convincing than papers and medals.

Steel braces holding together shattered spines—

Ridged scars coiled like snakes around gaunt bodies—

Pit holes of blasted flesh into which you could have thrust your fist—

Silver plates that covered gaping skulls, but could not cover the hell of empty eyes—

Ragged stumps of legs that had once held flying feet—

And yet they dare to say—faked records!

Then, lest you and I press that claim too hard, comes the counter-claim that those men came to Washington "to live off the community."

That statement, if sincere, is a terrible indictment of the administration's ignorance of the condition in which these men did live. Not until the last few days, when they became desperate from prolonged starvation, did those men ask for food—though their eyes were hollow with hunger and their bodies afflicted by the sores of malnutrition.

Immediately upon the arrival of the B. E. F. in Washington, they set up headquarters for themselves. Adjacent to those headquarters was a general commissary. This writer, assigned for weeks on that story, visited the commissary daily, saw the food that came into it, saw how that food was obtained.

Supplies Given By Friends

Every pound of that food was donated by the friends of the bonus expeditionary force who sent either money or trucks filled with provisions. It was not obtained by panhandling. Nor was it obtained from the Red Cross.

Toward the end, some cracked wheat was obtained from the Farm Board's reserve supply and given through the Red Cross. No other food save that was given or obtained.

Forgers.

Panhandlers.

Even these charges are not enough. The job must be complete—there must be left no shred of decency whereby these poor souls may defend their name.

And so they are accused of every imaginable outrage, even to the act of molesting Washington women.

What would have happened to any American Attorney General or American President who had dared place such a charge against the honor of American fighting men during the war?

But these are no longer fighting men. These are homeless, hungry creatures—pitiful victims of our economic mismanagement—too weak, too desperate to defend themselves.

Vets' Leaders Vigilant

And so the well-fed politicians who would not face them in Washington, would not speak to them, would not visit their camp, would not even allow them to parade past the White House, can now—without fear—insult them as they will!

For all the weeks they were in Washington, I, an American woman, passed among those men—saw hundreds of other women mingling with them. And never once did I see an act of discourtesy to womanhood. Never once did I witness violence nor even vulgarity. Nor does the police blotter of Washington record any such lawlessness.

On the contrary there was ceaseless vigilance to prevent disorder on the part of the B. E. F. leaders, both before and after the adjournment of Congress. And there was constant co-operation with that splendid ex-soldier and police chief, Brig. Gen. Phelham D. Glassford.

The charges that these men were largely criminals is as great an affront to Gen. Glassford as to the character of the men themselves. He investigated their records. He supervised their activities while in Washington. He stood by them as their friend and former comrade. If these men are dishonored, he is dishonored with them, and the citizens of America share that dishonor if they permit this charge to stand.

But Mitchell says there were Communists there!

Yes, out of an estimated 7,000 to 15,000 men, there were shown to be 300 Communists. But those Communists had fought to save this country.

Method Irregular—So Are Times

"But even granted all this, they had no right to be there,"

You may say: "It wasn't the regular way to go about things."

That's a fair statement and, in part, a true one. It wasn't the regular way to go about things. But these aren't regular times. No one is going about things in a regular way.

If bankers and railroad presidents may openly lobby from Washington's beautiful hotels, why may not the men who saved America lobby from Washington's mud flats?

If it isn't a crime for a bank or a railroad to ask for emergency aid, why is it a crime for an ex-soldier to do so?

Eighty millions of dollars given without hesitation to save one bank in Chicago, but not even 80 cents given to ease the pains of thousands of starving veterans, 250 women and 350 children!

And even if these men didn't rate a bonus, didn't they at least rate a friendly hand? Didn't those scars rate respect, didn't those wounds rate pity? Didn't those blasted lives rate our gratitude?

Officials Smugly Satisfied

They had to be sent home? Maybe. But could they not have been sent home with a little of that consideration with which they were sent away from home? Could not at least one of those great men who are building their careers on the government those men saved, have gone down to Anacostia Field to show them honor and wish them God-speed?

No one went.

Smugly satisfied, the administration watched that pitiful rout. Smugly satisfied, one government official after another has risen to justify that shameful day.

And this week the whole administration unites in an attack on the honor of American ex-soldiers which is unparalleled in heartlessness and arrogance and delibcrate misinformation.

Are you going to join in that attack?

The men who defended us yesterday are up against the wall today, helpless to defend themselves. No longer useful to their government, they and their honor are about to be blotted out.

We shouted for those men in 1917.

PARLEY BY JEAN, RIVAL HINTED IN SUICIDE PROBE

BELIEVE BLONDE VISITED 'FIRST MRS. BERN'

'Other Woman's' Body Still Hunted; New Clues Revealed

By WOOSTER TAYLOR
Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—A wraith-like figure out of the past, Dorothy Millette was still sought today as a key to the mystery of Paul Bern's tragic suicide.

The Sacramento River, if it contains her body, had not given it up today.

One solution of Bern's sudden suicide was suggested yesterday by discovery that on August 18, Jean Harlow and her mother, Mrs. Marino Bello, flew to San Francisco, registered at a fashionable hotel, made numerous hasty telephone calls and departed the same night for Los Angeles.

After one of these telephone calls, a woman whose description generally answers that of Dorothy Millette was seen going up to Jean Harlow's suite.

Immediately afterward, Jean Harlow, who had been Mrs. Bern for about six weeks, put in telephone calls to two different firms of attorneys. One firm was telephoned seven times, so urgent was this business.

The conclusion drawn from this by the police was that Jean Harlow had learned of Dorothy Millette's existence, that she had come to San Francisco to get verification and had then sought legal advice as to what claims Dorothy Millette might have to regard herself as Bern's common law wife.

In California a common law wife has the same status as any other wife, and this would jeopardize the legality of Jean's marriage to Paul Bern. What she learned might explain Bern's farewell note referring to the great wrong he had done Jean.

Bern's Own Physician May Reveal Motive

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Arriving today from Honolulu, Dr. Edward P. Jones, personal physician to the late Paul Bern, motion picture executive and husband of Jean Harlow, screen star, was to be interviewed by friends of Bern in an effort to learn a possible motive for his suicide a week ago Sunday.

Dr. Jones cabled from Honolulu the day after Bern's body was found that he "understood the motive" of the suicide. He said, however, he would reveal his information only to "the proper authorities."

Miss Harlow, whom Bern married two months ago, resumed her work at the film studios yesterday. She said:

"This staying around home is driving me crazy. I've got to get busy—to forget."

GERMANY NEAR MONARCHY

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Chancellor Franz von Papen today announced the doom of the republican constitution signed at Weimar 13 years ago, and outlined a program which many believe will prove to be an attempt to restore the monarchy.

The Junkers Chancellor said the cabinet, at the end of its 12-months plan for the economic rehabilitation of Germany, will present the German people with the draft of an entirely new constitution.

Until then the cabinet plans to adhere to the present constitution and call new elections following the dissolution of the Reichstag yesterday.

FLYING FAMILY RESCUED

less the little trawler Lord Talbot can be induced to convey the Hutchinsons to Iceland or to Aberdeen, Scotland, they face no alternative but a winter in Greenland.

A winter at Angmagsalik would be extremely trying for the two children and also would involve hardships for the little colony there, since the colonists never have more food at hand than suffices for their needs through the long winter.

On the other hand, the Aberdeen owners of the Lord Talbot declare accommodations on the trawler are so restricted it would be difficult to find room aboard for the eight Arctic refugees.

DRAMATIC RESCUE

The rescue of the Hutchinsons was one of the most dramatic in the history of aviation. They were found ashore at the bottom of the Greenland fjord more than 30 hours after their first distress signals flashed across the northlands.

Authorities in Greenland had abandoned hope, but Capt. Watson refused to give up.

The thought of the little Hutchinson children was constantly in his mind and not only did he continue pushing his little boat through the treacherous ice fields, but he enlisted the aid of two other Scotch trawlers, the "Star of Victory" and the "Mount Ard," which he found in the vicinity yesterday afternoon.

Throughout Sunday night Watson had directed the searchlight on the Lord Talbot as it swept the icefields to no avail. Now, with the Star of Victory and the Mount Ard to assist him, he began a combing operation, the three trawlers steaming in parallel lines a few miles apart.

Shortly after dark last night there came the first flicker of hope—a flare in the direction of shore. The Lord Talbot put on full steam and pushed ahead, still fighting her way through the dangerous ice-pack.

Love Theft Charged To Scenario Writer

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Michael Romanoff, Russian scenario writer, was accused of stealing the love of Mrs. Serephine Davidoff in an amended divorce complaint yesterday by Alex Davidoff, film technician.

The petition charged that after Romanoff had allegedly attempted suicide by jumping from a pier, Mrs. Davidoff made daily visits to his bedside and returned home in tears.

Nine School Strikers Jailed for March

High School this morning to a ball field where a meeting was held. Principal E. G. Groleau refused information as to the number of pupils on strike.

The marchers' banners had painted on them the following slogans:

"We strike for what we like."
"Everybody goes to school or nobody."
"Football or no school."
"Ten days' strike."
"We want our rights."

MANY SHUN CLASSES

Principal Groleau, after refusing comment, admitted many pupils were absent from class. He said any information concerning the situation would have to come from Supt. David Locke.

The School Board took the stand, it was said, that it was not only banning hazing, but backing up the Beaver Valley school boards, which had ruled against hazing. It was said the pupils had ample notice of suspension, should they indulge in hazing.

Dr. I. Homer Todd, president of the Monaca School Board, said:

"Last year the boys started hazing. The parents criticized the board. We told them we could do nothing and they ridiculed us. This year we advertised in the local papers that hazing would be prohibited. On the first day of school, September 7, the boys violated the rule. Nearly every freshman had his hair cropped. One lad was thrown from a window of the skating rink, I am informed, and suffered a broken arm. About half of the student body of 450 is involved in this so-called strike. If the suspended boys will agree to behave they may be reinstated."

CROWD JEERS BOARD

Decision to strike was made last night when the board decided on the suspension of eight grid players while catcalls, hoots, jeers and "Bronx cheers" reverberated through the school house.

Fully 200 high school boys and alumni crowded the halls and the streets in front of the building while the board made its decision following the original suspension of the lads, last Wednesday, by Principal Groleau.

Meeting of the board last night confirmed Groleau's decision, extended the suspension until September 20, when, if the boys are penitent enough, it is said, they will be taken back.

The eight suspended students include Norbert Wasiloski, Eugene Pollock, co-captain of the team; Frank Renzo, Benjamin Faber, John Ungarean, John Kalcevic, Mike Lavrusky and Vincent Guinto.

It all started last week when, following the long-established custom, old students took it on their shoulders to discipline freshmen—principally by shaving heads. The eight were suspended, admitted their guilt, but denied authority of the board to control their actions outside the school.

BELL BONDSMEN DENIED PLEA

The trial of John A. Bell, convicted of embezzlement in connection with the Carnegie bank failure more than seven years ago, reverberated in Common Pleas Court today when Judge Elder W. Marshall refused to annul the $30,000 bond put up by Bell's friends to insure his $19,000 fine at the time of his appeal to Superior Court.

Judge Marshall refused remission of the bond on the ground that it had not be shown in court that enforcement of payment would penalize only the bondsmen. However, he indicated that there should be a remission of at least part of the forfeiture if applied for in the proper manner. He said:

"Fines and forfeits are imposed upon principles of public policies, to punish the prisoner and not to replenish the treasury. When the situation is such that enforcing payment will only penalize the bondsmen, the courts are wont to order remission."

Venezuela Extends Gold Production

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—William Joels returned on the steamer Munamar yesterday from the gold fields of Venezuela for a four-month visit to his home in Bisbee, Ariz. He said the Venezuelan gold fields were being extended into the interior because of an increased demand.

Maine Vote News Grips Pinchot On Vacation

MILFORD, Pa., Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Though comfortably secure in his home here, enjoying a rest of several days, Gov. Gifford Pinchot has not entirely forgotten politics.

His first question when called today by telephone was:

"What is the latest from Maine?"

TUNNEY TO SAIL TOMORROW

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, accompanied by his son, and the child's nurse, will sail on the liner Ile de France tomorrow noon for Paris where Mrs. Tunney is to undergo a mastoid operation.

Mrs. Tunney underwent an operation for an abscess in an ear on August 19, after which Tunney returned to the United States to assist in the Democratic presidential campaign.

Information received at the former heavyweight champion's office yesterday said Mrs. Tunney had had a change for the worse and had returned to the hospital. That a mostoid operation was inevitable was the word received today, which led Tunney to abandon his speaking engagements and hasten to his wife's bedside.

Widow Sues Dentist, Charges Jilting

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A $62,500 breach of promise suit was filed yesterday against Dr. J. C. Wiese, San Pedro dentist, by Mrs. Audrey Harding, Long Beach and New York widow, who charged the dentist jilted her after she had made all arrangements to be married.

Mrs. Harding said she met Dr. Wiese in Long Beach while she was there on a visit from New York. She said she was separated from her husband at that time and Wiese entertained her lavishly.

WIDOW TO FACE CORONER AGAIN

Homicide detectives for the third time in as many days were to take Mrs. Irene McShane, widow of John L. McShane, 34-year-old house painter, fatally stabbed in his home at 507 East Ohio street last Saturday, before the Coroner this afternoon and renew their request that she be held in connection with her husband's death.

After viewing her husband's body for the second time this morning, Mrs. McShane fainted. She was revived and taken before Chief Deputy Coroner John S. Aldisert, who told the detectives they had not yet furnished the Coroner with sufficient grounds for holding the woman. She has maintained throughout the investigation that she knew nothing about the stabbing.

The detectives returned the woman to Central Station and prepared all statements taken in the case, which they intend to submit to the Coroner later today.

Habeas corpus proceedings brought by Mrs. McShane's counsel were dismissed when the court was informed the police investigation had not yet been completed.

WIFE STARTS SEARCH FOR ROBINS

Leaves for Resort in Maine to Confer With Attorney

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Me., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Margaret Dreier Robins, wife of the missing Col. Raymond Robins, prohibitionist, was to leave today for Kennebunk Beach in her first personal effort to follow the trail of her vanished husband.

She was to motor to the home of Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago attorney, who is staying at the Maine resort, to question him as to his last conversations with Col. Robins the day after he left Southwest Harbor.

It was just a week ago this evening that Levinson telephoned Mrs. Robins to ask her if she knew her husband's whereabouts, only to discover she was as much at sea as he. Inquiries in New York City, where he had last been seen, and in Washington, where he had an engagement with President Hoover, failed to disclose any trace of the colonel.

Following the opening of a note Col. Robins had left behind, Mrs. Robins informed officials of her husband's disappearance and a manhunt, personally directed from the White House, has been in progress ever since, without result.

Mrs. Robins still subscribes to the theory that gangsters, whose bootlegging business was hampered by the political activities of Col. Robins in Hernando County, Florida, have kidnaped him, although she is trying to keep an open mind on the theory, apparently growing more acceptable to authorities, that Col. Robins suffered an attack of amnesia.

Promising Clue Spurs Chicago Hunt for Robins

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Asserting he had the most tangible clue since he arrived here to direct the search for Col. Raymond Robins, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, prohibition leader, today left on a secret mission to locate the missing social worker.

Dr. Poling admitted his new activity followed a conversation on the telephone with friends in New York.

Maine Winner Sees Roosevelt Victory

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Edward C. Moran, Jr., Democrat, who defeated Congressman John E. Nelson for the United States Representative's seat from the Second Maine District, today interpreted his election as demonstrating "an unmistakable trend that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be elected President in November."

AUDITORS CITE $226,510,976 INSULL LOSS

'Inconsistency' Found In Utility Concern's Records

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A deficit of $226,510,976 in the accounts of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was reported to the Federal District Court today by auditors for the receivers.

The auditors said they found "inconsistency in the accounting records of the company" and suggested that consistent records through the years of the investment company's operations in Insull Utility Securities would have shown losses throughout the period.

The report listed assets at only $27,473,364.

DIVIDEND RECORDS CLOUDY

George A. Cooke and Calvin Fentress are the receivers of the once gigantic investment trust, first of the Insull houses to make its financial report to the United States District Court since the Insull structure collapsed last June.

The auditors asserted that "income from cash dividends and interest had been insufficient to meet operating expenses and interest charges since 1929."

These operations at a loss covered the entire period of the company's organization, the audit indicated. The investment company was formed January 1, 1929, and Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley appointed the receivers April 15 of this year.

OFFERED $50 PREMIUM

Had the company's accountants followed a consistent method of showing stock dividends and other profit and loss items involving dividends, sales of stock rights and other payments, the auditors said the balance sheet would have shown losses instead of profits from the beginning.

Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was a half billion dollar investment trust formed by Samuel Insull, Sr., in the boom stock market days when he feared eastern capitalists were seeking to garner enough stock in his operating utilities to gain control of the electricity, gas and transportation systems.

The elder Insull was reported to have offered as much as $50 premium above the market price to keep control in the Insull family. Later, faced with defeat, he told a stockholders' meeting that he had made those purchases, and further purchases to sustain the stock prices as they crumbled away in the general debacle, in good faith, believing the investments were good.

'RAKEOFF' CHARGED

There are 4,240,897 shares of stock in Insull Utility Investments, Inc., outstanding today.

A petition filed in Federal Court, asking leave to intervene in the receivership proceedings, charged there was a "rakeoff" of $78,900,599 to the advantage of Insull friends who were alleged to have been allowed certain prior rights to purchase stocks.

At one time Insull Utility Investments, Inc., stock touched a peak of $149 in 1929. The lowest point that stock reached in 1929 was $30 a share, at which the entire issue was worth $22,920,000.

BRAND KREUGER CRIMINAL

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king who committed suicide in Paris last spring, was not a man of business, but a criminal, is the opinion expressed in the preliminary report of the administrators of the Kreuger & Toll bankruptcy proceedings, published in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter today.

Analyzing what they called Kreuger's gigantic frauds, the administrators reached the conclusion that Kreuger was not the great business man he made himself out to be.

From the time when he became able to maintain the pretense, he started "to bluff" with reports of vast, but fictitious profits, they said, in an effort to maintain the impression he was a great financial genius.

The report also accuses the directors of Kreuger & Toll who, it said, appeared frequently to have had a knowledge of the falsity of Kreuger's reports regarding the firm's position.

The pilots, Mermoz Maillous and Bossoutrot, said they hoped to take off tomorrow morning.

CURTIS SHOWS DISMAY OVER MAINE

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Frank dismay over the Maine election results was expressed by Vice President Curtis, President Hoover's running mate. Upon leaving the regular Tuesday cabinet meeting, Curtis said:

"We are greatly disappointed. This only makes us work the harder and we will carry the state in November."

Jubilant Democrats were preparing today to dust off the time-honored Republican slogan that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation," and apply it to their own use.

Returns indicated that the Democrats—according to all political history—had won a victory which entitled them to be distinctly optimistic about the chances of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt over President Hoover in November.

G. O. P. GLOOMY

Republicans were silent, but gloomy over the Maine elections. Secretary of the Treasury Mills, who was sent into Maine during the campaign, along with other G. O. P. heavy campaign artillery, was closeted with President Hoover for more than an hour prior to the cabinet meeting today, as was Postmaster General Walter Brown. The White House has watched returns from the Maine elections with keen interest.

Queried, Theodore Joslin, one of President Hoover's secretaries, said, however:

"There will be no comment."

Since the Civil War, Maine has been the traditional rock-ribbed Republican stronghold and the "so goes the nation" claim had come to be regarded merely as a catch-phrase. Today, however, G. O. P. leaders were worried for the first time in years, despite their outward display of a stiff upper lip.

Only once since the termination of the war between the States has has Maine cast its presidential electoral vote for a Democrat. That was in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson obtain a plurality over Taft and Roosevelt, although the combined popular vote was against him. A Republican Governor was elected by 4,200 two months earlier.

FEW VICTORIES

Only twice have the Democrats been able to put a man in the state house at Augusta. In 1910, they won by 8,700. In 1914, with the Progressive getting more than 18,000 votes, the Democrat slid in with a plurality of a little over 5,100.

In advance of yesterday's trek to the polls, Republican headquarters had been quite nonchalant in their predictions of victory. Nevertheless, they sent some of their heaviest artillery, including Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of the Vice President, into the state in an effort to influence the trend of the local election.

Democrats dispatched an array of their leading orators into the same territory, seemingly more sucessfully. These included Gov. Ely, of Massachusetts, who nominated Alfred E. Smith at Chicago, and Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, who led the winning convention fight for a repeal and modification platform.

Democratic Senators See Victory in November

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Democratic congressional leaders today said the Maine returns forecast victory for their national ticket in November. Comment follows:

SENATOR SWANSON (VA.), chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee: The Democratic victory in Maine is most significant and indicates a determined and widespread dissatisfaction with the present administration. All the information I have is that the dissatisfaction in other states is greater than in Maine and that the percentage of Democratic gains will be much larger.

SENATOR HARRISON (Dem.), of Mississippi: It shows the Republicans are through with the present order and are ready to join us for a new deal in November—the Republican wisecrackers cannot laugh off the Maine results.

SENATOR BROOKHART (Rep.), of Iowa—I think George Moses, the Jimmy Walker of the Republican administration, is to blame for all this. He put out so many wisecracks the "wild jackasses" finally got him. It looks like Roosevelt will carry every state.

Hague Sees Huge 'Protest' Vote Cast

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Mayor Frank Hague, Democratic national committeeman, issued a statement today in which he said the result of the Maine election "must be regarded as typical of conditions throughout the country." He added:

"The millions out of work and their families, together with those eking out an income and their savings exhausted, are not going to stay away from the polls. They will vote and their vote will be a protest against the way they have sufferred."

Roosevelt, Garner To Meet in Topeka

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Speaker John N. Garner plans to come direct to Washington the latter part of this week after he meets Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tomorrow in Topeka, Kan.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

HOOVER TREND INDICATED IN DELAWARE

By COLE E. MORGAN
United News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Delaware may be the next state to switch to President Hoover in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

The little state which was once facetiously described as having "three counties when the tide is out and two when it is in," showed a swing toward the Republican nominee in new returns tabulated today.

Of 530 new postcard ballots recorded, Hoover received 271 to Roosevelt's 259, a Hoover majority of 14. This was not sufficient; however, to override the previous Roosevelt majority of 64 on a tabulation of 490 votes. It indicated a turning of the tide toward Hoover in keeping with the recent swing of adjacent Eastern states, New Jersey and New York, and the narrowing of the margin in Pennsylvania.

Maryland continued to pile up a still larger Roosevelt majority, giving him 241 of the 338 new ballots to bring his Maryland total to 1,961 as against Hoover's 825.

Likewise, the border states of the South, which went Republican four years ago, all continued to augment their Roosevelt leads with the new returns of the last week. Kentucky gave the Democratic candidate 964 of 1,244 new ballots; West Virginia, 339 of 606; Virginia, 386 of 505; Tennessee, 230 of 385, and North Carolina, 851 of 1,062.

MAINE PLEASES ROOSEVELT

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, westward bound in his quest for the presidency, was having breakfast and studying Maine election returns when his special train passed through Cleveland today.

Former Judge Robert Marks, of Cincinnati, joined the Roosevelt party at Cleveland. The judge was Gov. Roosevelt's traveling companion in 1920 when the latter was the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency.

Roosevelt said he was pleased with the returns from Maine.

MAINE CARRIED BY DEMOCRATS

delegation, and will be the first Democrat to sit in Congress from Maine since Daniel J. McGillicuddy introduced his square-topped derby to Washington 18 years ago.

LONE G. O. P. VICTOR

John Utterback, ex-Mayor of Bangor, Democrat, has a comfortable lead over ex-Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, the Republican nominee in the adjoining district. The only one of the Republicans certain of victory in Maine's three congressional districts is Congressman Carroll L. Beedy, who defeated Judge Joseph E. F. Connolly, of Portland, by the greatly reduced margin of 3,000.

The Democrats administered smashing defeats to the G. O. P. in at least five of the 16 counties, capturing county offices they have rarely held in the past 70 years. They have greatly reduced the Republican majorities in both branches of the Maine Legislature.

Moses Fears Defeat; Eight States Voting

International News Service.

While the nation studied returns from the Maine election, voters in eight other states cast their ballots in primary contests today.

Primaries were held in Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, New Hampshire, Vermont, Washington and South Carolina. Georgia citizens will go to the polls tomorrow.

Senator George H. Moses, who led the unsuccessful Republican campaign in Maine, himself sought renomination in New Hampshire. He said implications of the Maine results could not be explained away by "the customary political alibi" and added that he regarded his own contest as the hardest he had faced in 15 years.

Today's run-off in South Carolina will determine whether Senator E. D. Smith or his former colleague, Cole L. Blease, will win the Democratic nomination for the Senate. Smith led Blease by About 20,000 votes in the first primary.

Senator Jones, veteran Washington Republican and author of the "five and ten" law, was opposed for renomination by Adam Beeler, repeal advocate.

Huey Long came up for another test in Louisiana. His friend, Representative Overton, opposed Senator Broussard for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

A total vote of more than 1,000,000 was expected in Michigan, where candidates for national, state and county offices were to be nominated.

The Donahoe Label Protects Your Table

For Your Health's Sake-

In the food business, particularly in the Fruit and Vegetable line, the depression has given rise to many pseudo-farmers, seeking to entice the dollar of the consumer by a display of seemingly low prices on the fruits and vegetables they offer for sale.

These pseudo-farmers infest the highways and byways, selling foods from roadside shacks, from trucks, from congested wharves, from house to house, etc. Foods which they expect you and your family to eat are transported and sold by them under the most appalling unsanitary conditions—with a most reckless disregard of health and pure food laws.

Transported in dirty, dilapidated trucks, displayed and sold from roadside shacks, exposed to all kinds of contamination from unhygienic handling; exposed to the dust and absorbing noxious fumes, gases and odors of the busy public highway, foodstuffs sold in this manner are a pernicious menace to the public health.

Why risk your and your family's health by buying fruits and vegetables about which you know nothing? Even if foods bought at Donahoe's were to cost you a little more, they'd be worth it—but THEY COST YOU NO MORE—in fact, at Donahoe's you receive far BETTER foods for LESS money.

At Donahoe's, too, there is one price for all. The value you receive does not depend on your ability as a haggler or bargainer—there's no hornswoggling at Donahoe's.

Donahoe foods are sold in strict compliance with all health and pure food laws—for LESS money.

The pickling and preserving season is here—you'll want to put up fruits and vegetables for the winter.

Yale Grad Faces Charges of Theft

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Ossian Ray, 53, Yale graduate and former Boston lawyer, was to be arraigned today on charges of stealing $1,263 from a corporation of which he was president until recently. The concern acted as American agent for a Swedish newsprint firm.

Indictments followed after the corporation complained it had lost about $39,000 in the last four years.

BAILEY IN DEBT STUDY

Pressley H. Bailey Named by Hoover

President Hoover has named Pressley H. Bailey, manager of the Westinghouse estates here, one of two Pennsylvanians on the administration's committee to study war debt cancellation. Bailey said:

"Unless and until we reach an adjustment with our European debtors which they feel they can meet, the whole question of restoration of normal conditions and world confidence and hope will be left open."

Bailey is of the opinion any settlement should be definite and not temporary "if the fullest benefit is to be gained both by us and the rest of the world."

Henry P. Fletcher, of Greencastle, former ambassador to Italy, is the other Pennsylvania member of the commission.

Socialists to Hold 12 District Rallies

Twelve campaign meetings will be held this week by the Socialist party of Allegheny County, starting today at Brighton road and Columbus avenue, and Forbes and Lorraine streets. Other meetings are Wednesday, Warrington and Melbridge streets, and Kenneth square and Ophelia street. Thursday, Middle and Ohio streets; Friday, Station street and Frankstown avenue, and Sixth and Braddock avenues, Braddock; Saturday, Second and Flowers streets, Thirteenth and Carson streets, Federal and South Diamond streets, Homewood avenue and Bennett street and Chartiers avenue and Thompson street, McKees Rocks.

24 Japanese Die In Upset of Ferry

KURE, Japan, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Twenty-four workers at the Kure naval arsenal, including several women, were drowned today when a ferryboat carrying 100 passengers capsized in the backwash of a passing steamer.

Sao Paulo Rebels Captured in Battle

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Federal troops captured the town of Capelladojacu, in the northern sector, from the Sao Paulo rebels and took 33 prisoners, the government announced today.

SLOCUM, NOTED ENGINEER, DIES HERE AT 76

Funeral services for Dr. Frank L. Slocum, 76, for half a century a consulting engineer, chemist and metallurgist in varied Pittsburgh industries, will be held Thursday afternoon. Dr. Slocum died last night at his home, 6814 Reynolds street.

Born in Wisconsin, he studied chemistry and pharmacy in this country and Germany, returning here in 1883 and settling in Pittsburgh. He was associated at various times with Park Brothers and Company, later absorbed by the Crucible Steel Company; the Mackintosh-Hemphill Company, the Sterling Steel Company and the Carnegie Steel Company.

He was a partner in Slocum, Lloyd & Orr, operators of the first coal tar refinery in this district, and was a consultant in mining, manufacturing and water power projects in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

He was a member of the American Chemical Society, the Chemical Society of London and other scientific bodies, and of Point Breeze Presbyterian Church. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Francelia H. Slocum; a daughter, Mrs. Morrison Fetzer, of Salinas, Cal., and a son, Dr. Morris A. Slocum, of this city.

Prosperity Sign! Railroad Head Needs Socks

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A railroad president has taken a look at his socks and finds evidence which, he says, convinces him that a new day is dawning in America.

He is Patrick H. Joyce, of Chicago, president of the Chicago, Great Western Railroad. He told the road's board of directors yesterday:

"I'm an optimist, and I feel I have reason to know. People have come to the point where they will have to buy. Take me for example. I have only two pair of socks to my name, and I used to have two dozen. I've got to buy some more."

6 Hold Up Truck 5 Captured, 1 Shot

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Six young men today held up a truck loaded with 1,500 tires en route from Akron to Longview, Tex., but five of them were captured soon afterward and the sixth believed wounded by police from whom he fled.

ORDERLY HELD FOR INQUEST IN LINTON DEATH

Edward Hennigan, 46, St. Francis Hospital orderly, was in the county jail today awaiting a Coroner's inquest in connection with the death of David M. Linton, 53, in the hospital last Thursday. Hennigan was refused bail.

An autopsy at the morgue resulted in a finding that Linton, a psychopathic patient, died from pneumonia superinduced by injuries allegedly inflicted by Hennigan. Linton suffered fractures of seven ribs and the breast bone and a discolored eye.

Linton, before his death, told relatives he met the injuries in beating administered by Hennigan. Hennigan denied the charge.

Homicide detectives' investigation resulted in finding two witnesses of the alleged abuse. They were quoted as telling the detectives Hennigan had beaten Linton and called him vile names when he asked for service.

On several occasions food was forced down Linton's throat when he was unable to eat because of the rough treatment, according to the witnesses' story to detectives.

The date for the inquest had not been set.

Turn Husband Over To Coroner in Killing

Declaring he knew nothing about the killing of his wife, except what had been told him in a hospital, Lancy Farino, 25, of 1731 Cliff street, arraigned in Central Police Court today, was turned over to the Coroner, accused of her murder.

Farino is alleged by police to have stabbed his young wife, Regina, 19, as she clasped her two weeks' old baby to her breast in her home. The couple had been separated. After the stabbing, police said, Farino leaped over a cliff near the Seventeenth street incline and his right leg was broken. He was released from the hospital today.

Commissioner's Old Home Now Speakeasy

HARRISBURG, Sept. 13.—(INS.) — Federal prohibition agents, testifying at a hearing, were surprised when U. S. Commissioner Sidney Friedman disclosed that he was familiar with the interior of a speakeasy they had raided.

William Rodenheoer, alleged proprietor, was being given a hearing yesterday on charges of illegal sale and possession, and the Commissioner, in cross-examination, described a stairway inside the house, declaring that he was "perfectly familiar with the entire house."

HANDING OUT DOLLAR BILLS LOTS OF FUN

Wrigley Reporters Bring Smiles to Hundreds Here

By MISS MINT

It's simply amazing the furore Mr. Spear and I and our assistants are kicking up in Pittsburgh. We are thanking our stars no one knows who we are. I'm afraid that if people could stop us we'd be mobbed before we got started in the morning.

And speaking of mobs, Mr. Spear was out at the bridge opening on Saturday and between getting stepped all over and pushed all around, he was a wreck by the time the crowds dispersed. The biggest difficulty people had was getting at their supply of Wrigley's—the crowd was so thick. Here are a few Pittsburghers who use Wrigley's Gum and gave their opinions to Mr. Spear at the new Westinghouse Bridge:

MRS. E. GREEN, 6222 Bartlett St.; MISS MILDRED SCHAFFER, 660 Sycamore St., East Pittsburgh; GLENN MURPHY, 370 Third St., Pitcairn; GLADYS BAUGHMAN, 543 Bessemer Ave.; JOHN BOYLE, 539 Center St., East Pittsburgh; M. S. ANGIER, 304 Thoburn St., Johnstown. Each received a fresh dollar bill.

MARIE BOUR, 5628 Margaretta St., had just left the dentist when I stopped her. Quick as a flash, she showed a package of Double Mint and said: "You can't beat it—it keeps the mouth so cool, especially after a visit to the dentist."

EDGAR ALCORA, 1537 Alabama Ave., Dormont, was on his way to a nearby tennis tournament. He had a couple of packages of Spearmint and a new dollar bill to make his "two-hour sit in the sun" more enjoyable.

MRS. J. SOBEL, 316 Hawkins Ave., Rankin, was doing a little window shopping when I tapped her on the shoulder and asked for her opinion of Wrigley's Gum. Sure enough, she had a package and said she never went shopping without a package of Wrigley's.

VIRGINIA WILSON, 5720 Darlington Road, received her dollar when she produced a package of Double Mint and said: "It's the best gum I have ever tasted."

NELSON GUTHRIE, 2656 Center St., Ingram, seemed to be enjoying his gum so much when I approached him that I knew his comment would be enthusiastic. Spearmint was the Wrigley brand he was using. "The new Cellophane wrap," he said, "seems to keep the flavor fresh longer."

MARY C. KELLY, 1509 Evans St., McKeesport, received a new dollar bill when she said "Wrigley's is a daily habit with me; it is satisfying and inexpensive."

CHARLES D. WILCOX, 6414 Jackson St., was stopped in a downtown bank. Before he had made his deposit, he received his dollar bill for having a package of Juicy Fruit and said: "This is once I get a break."

BERNICE GALLAGHER, 242 Shady Ave., was terribly busy at her job of selling tickets at the Cameraphone Theater when I reached the window and asked her: "Have you a package of Wrigley's?" She had time only to flash a package of Spearmint and say, "Boy, isn't this luck!" when I handed her a dollar bill.

KEEPS TEETH WHITE

MRS. H. C. SHENARD, 5300 St. John's Terrace, received her dollar and exclaimed: "This is the first time anything like this has ever happened to me; my little daughter always uses Juicy Fruit to keep her teeth white and shiney."

Here is only a partail list of a few others who received one of those new, crisp Wrigley dollar bills: STANLEY M. WRAY, 513 Pershing Ave., Leechburg; AGNES B. FINN, 1132 Race St., McKees Rocks; TILLIE B. FRANTZ, 103 Lennox Ave., Forest Hills; THELMA NEWMAN, 1440 Barnesdale St., PAUL REGAN, 5514 Center Ave.; ELIZABETH BROWN, 5437 Ellsworth Ave., MRS. E. McCABE, 3112 Fisk St.; JOHN W. KOTCHIN, 3022 Frederick St., MAE FISHER, 344 Garnett Way; ELEANOR C. BROWN, 902 Parkside Ave., Mt. Lebanon; G. S. KOBAL, 215 W. Thirteenth Ave., Homestead; JOHN W. HOLMES, 112 Kathleen St., and MRS. DOROTHY WRIGHT, 117 Roup St.

Now that all the children are comfortably settled in school again, Mr. Spear and I and our assistants are to be around many of the schools during this week, so the boys and girls had better be prepared for us by having a package of Wrigley's Gum in their pocket at all times. This warning goes, too, to the men and women all over Pittsburgh, wherever they are. We are all over town every day—you'll never know when you will be stopped and be one dollar richer for giving us your opinion of Wrigley's Gum.

and Higher Prices Are Around the Corner

THE higher prices which herald the return of prosperity are strongly present in the raw material markets. Cotton, Silk, Wool, and Hides have all risen sharply in the past six weeks. Many people, sensing the need of fall clothes and household necessities, have also sensed the trend of wholesale prices and are doing now about fall coats, hats, bedding, carpets, furniture, and other staple items, what they wish they had done a few weeks ago about U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Pennsylvania, American Can, A. T. & T., and other stocks, which have doubled, and in some instances tripled in value in the past month or two.

Our present fall stocks were purchased at the most favorable prices in twenty years, and reflect the fact in their attractive markings. Those who buy now have the advantage of these low prices, as well as the satisfaction of the complete choice which always marks the opening of a season.

Wear-Weave Coats

(Fur-Trimmed Models, $29.50, $39.50, $49.50)

Here is the new fall issue of Horne's showerproof, wrinkle-proof, and (practically) wearproof Wear-Weave Coats, which have become a classic with the practical-minded. Their unique fabrics, in autumn weight, comes in an infinite variety of diagonal, checked, flecked and silver-touched effects. The styles are delightfully smart with the interesting full-above-the-wrist sleeves, belted cuffs, with collars buttoning high and wide at the shoulder, and with form-fitting seaming. In black, oxford, green, black and white, brown, brown and white, gray and wine shades.

Fur-trimmed styles have collars of beaver, Magellan kit fox, sable-dyed squirrel, silver Jap fox, Australian opossum, raccoon and natural squirrel. Sizes 34 to 44 and 33½ to 43½.

People Should Be Careful in Picking Life Partner

He's discovered the girl friend is a hussy—

And far from being loyal to him, she's dating 'em out wholesale, be they married or single—

So he wants us to tell him whether he should go on and marry her—or give her the gate.

No. He isn't just a Silly Kid. He's a big grown-up gent, who has been married before—and has two kiddies he'd like to find a new mamma for.

Is he a sap? Yep. But he isn't alone. Believe it or not, scores of people bust into this department, asking us whether or not they should wish grief like that on themselves!

Are you one of 'em? Then get in on this.

"Dear Sally:

"May a Mere Man ask you a question? I hope so, and I hope you will help me for I have a problem that is bothering me considerable.

"Two years ago, my wife died, leaving me with two children, one 8 and one 10, to look out for. I have been very lonely without her, as she was a very sweet woman and we were deeply fond of each other. I feel, too, that my youngsters—a boy and a girl—would be much better off if I had a woman to look after them.

"Well, to make a long story short, I met a woman about six months ago who seemed to be very nice, and who appeared to like me, too. She is very attractive and I didn't know her very long before I began taking her out. I thought she was nice. She always seemed so when I was with her. I have fallen in love with her.

SEES OTHER MEN

"But lately I have discovered that she has been deceiving me. I had asked her to not go out with any other men because I loved her and felt that as soon as I knew her a little better, I would ask her to marry me. She agreed and I thought things were coming along fine.

"But now I find that whenever I am away (my business takes me out of town every few weeks) she is dating whoever happens to ask her, even married men. This isn't just gossip either. I know it to be true.

"What do you think she has broken her word to me because I have never definitely said that I wanted to marry her and she doesn't want to actually tie herself down until she is sure that my intentions are regular?

"What shall I do? Shall I give her up or tell her that I really do want to marry her? What do you think? Will she stop dating these other men if I ask her to marry me? I really do love her. "DAN R."

MUST BE SENSIBLE

What do I think?

What could anyone think, brother? At least anyone who didn't wear a gas mask and blinders—and who wasn't determined to deceive himself? Of course she wouldn't stop it. A woman who would barge in and date married men isn't going to stop stepping because she is married, and you don't need to fool yourself that she will.

"But I love her!" you wail. Oh, yeah! Maybe you think you do. No doubt she has a pair of big melting eyes, a come-hither smile, and plenty of nifty ankle. And maybe you are a glutton for punishment.

But you have no right to wish a woman like that on those two innocent children of yours whatever grief you may be willing to pile on yourself for the sake of your "love."

Use your head! It's just as important to use your head about falling in love as it is to use it about buying a piece of property, or an order of groceries. No one would deliberately go out and buy rancid milk, or a moldy turnip—but nine men out of 10 . . . and women, too . . . will do just that, when they go to pick a life partner—and then wonder what's haywire with marriage!

Marry Tall Girl if You Wish to Be Boss of Home, Fay King Advises

By FAY KING

The man who is thinking of marriage and wants to be boss in his home should by all means marry a tall girl.

For you invariably see a six-footer husband being ordered about by his small wife, who he has discovered is really a giant when it comes to running things.

On the other hand you will observe that it is the tall wife who most often has that timid, childlike, submissive manner which flatters a man so much.

And lest you think that I write this because I envy little women, let me state that I myself am five feet one inch tall.

Small women are not always as dependent as they appear or big women as independent as they seem.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cataract, Eye Affliction, Cured by Simple Operation

Within recent years a great deal of scientific research has been devoted to discovering the cause and prevention of cataract. As yet, the cause is unknown. Most authorities believe that the disease is brought about by some chemical change within the body.

Dr. Copeland

It is usually associated with advancing years. As we grow older, deposits of opaque material may occur in the crystalline lens of the eye. This condition produces a haziness of the vision in the afflicted eye.

Cataract is most commonly seen in old age, although it may occur in the young, at birth even. It is often seen accompanying certain general diseases. It is exceedingly common in elderly people suffering from diabetes.

It may follow the taking of certain poisons, such as ergot and naphthalin. They interfere somehow in the nutrition of the lens of the eye. The accumulated poisons attack this delicate structure.

Cataract may occur as the result of a blow or other injury to the eye. This is called "traumatic cataract." In this type the haziness is due to a rupture of the capsule of the eye. This break permits the watery fluid within the eyeball to enter the crystalline lens, producing cloudiness. Immediate medical attention is necessary in an accident of this sort.

Unfortunately, many a victim of cataract goes on for years, not knowing he can be helped. He may not go to his physician for relief until both eyes are involved. By a simple operation he may be kept from years of partial blindness.

The symptoms of this condition appear so gradually that the true cause may be overlooked. As a rule, there is a gradual decrease of vision without pain or inflammation of the eyes.

Contrary to a common belief, cataract cannot be cured by medicines, salves, drops or other forms of treatment. Surgery is the only means of cure. While there are on the market many alleged cures for cataract, none has been scientifically proved of real value. If a member of the family has a cataract, consult with your physician. He will advise you and recommend an eye surgeon. The operation is advised while vision of the other eye continues to be good.

Sometimes certain reasons exist for the delay of the operation. This can only be determined by the physician after a thorough examination of both eyes. Diabetic patients should receive careful general medical attention before undergoing the cataract operation. If necessary insulin should be given.

The operation itself is a simple one and need cause no fear. If surgery has been advised, do not delay.

By proper care of the eyes, many of its ailments may be escaped. If you need glasses get them. Never permit foolish pride to cause you to spurn glasses. Not only will you see better by having them, but they will help to prevent blindness, even cataract perhaps.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

When Bridge Players Nod

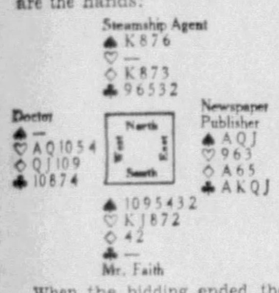
Contract Bridge is a game which requires concentration not only in the bidding, but in the play as well, and when the players become sleepy, it is probably just as well to end the session. At least, that is the view of Mr. Edward W. Faith, of Mobile, Ala., who recounts an unusual experience playing Contract with three other prominent men in his home town. Mr. Faith, a lawyer, was playing a game with a steamship agent as his partner, against a prominent newspaper publisher and an eminent doctor. It had been agreed that it was to be the last rubber, and at that time the lawyer and the steamship agent were about 2,000 points ahead. Both sides were vulnerable, there being no part-score, when the steamship agent made a blunder, due to lack of concentration, that proved costly indeed to the partnership. He was sitting North, and as fourth player picked up this hand:

♠K876 ♡— ◇K873 ♣96532

The newspaper publisher, sitting East, opened with one club, South passed, and West bid one heart. The steamship agent, thinking his partner had opened the bidding with one club, now bid five clubs, which the newspaper publisher doubled. Here are the hands:



When the bidding ended, the steamship agent, much to his disgust, discovered that he was the Declarer. Even the slightest study of the cards reveals the extent of the disaster. The contract was set 10 tricks for a penalty of 3,800 points, plus 100 in honors—a total loss of 3,900 points, converting a plus of 2,000 points to a loss of 1,900. Of course, as Mr. Faith recounts in telling the story, the next deal gave game and rubber to his opponents, which speaks strongly for Mr. Faith's good nature and possibly for the healing power of time, as he states that he takes great delight in telling the story whenever he can find a person who has not already heard it.

Today's Question

What is the correct bid by Dealer on the following hand after having opened with one spade and received a response of two hearts:

♠AQ654 ♡64 ◇AQ10 ♣764

Answer: The Dealer should pass, as the hand does not warrant any further bid. In other words, the spade suit is not rebiddable, the hand does not contain adequate trump support for partner's Takeout, and there is not sufficient honor strength in addition to that shown by the Opening bid to justify a bid of two no-trump.

Household Hints

Save the piece of sugar which is generally found in candied peel and use it for sweeting fruit tarts. It adds a great lusciousness to the fruit.

Buy a wire pot scourer and keep it for new potatoes, and you will find it will take the skin off thinly and much more quickly than scraping.

If a cellar is damp, place tins containing common salt in each corner. The salt will absorb the damp, and when it becomes very wet can be dried on top of the oven and crushed again for further use.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

At Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When one is served a dessert, when finished, should the spoon be left in the dish, or put on the small plate under the dessert dish?

2. When ordering with a man friend, should one give the order to him or to the waitress oneself?

3. When the knife is resting on the plate, should the sharp edge be on the inside or outside?

4. When one has finished eating, should the prongs of the fork be facing up or down?

5. When salad is served as a side dish (tomato and lettuce salad) should the lettuce be eaten? If it should, may the knife and fork be used or just the fork?

6. If the salad is ordered as a full lunch, should the lettuce be eaten? F.

1. The spoon is left in the dessert dish.

2. The guest gives her order to the man with whom she is dining, since he is the host. Then the host gives both orders to the waiter.

3. The sharp edge of the knife should be toward the center of the plate.

4. This is immaterial. In many foreign countries, the fork is placed with the prongs down, but here almost always the fork is placed with the prongs up.

5. The lettuce of a salad is always eaten, if we wish to eat it. And I can't imagine anyone's not wishing to eat delicious crisp lettuce leaves!

If a special knife and fork are placed for the eating of salad, then we use both, if we wish. At least there should be another fork placed for the lettuce.

6. Yes. I never can understand where this idea comes from, this idea of not eating lettuce. Why in the world shouldn't it be eaten?

After-Theater Eats

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When in the company of a young man, what is proper to order, if taken anywhere after the theater or during the evening? LAURA.

If you will be so kind as to send me an addressed envelope, I shall be very happy to send you my pamphlet on "After-Theater Eats." I have listed in this everything that I could think of, from "a cup of coffee, a sandwich and you, dear," through the list to elaborate food items "served under glass."

The Beauty Box

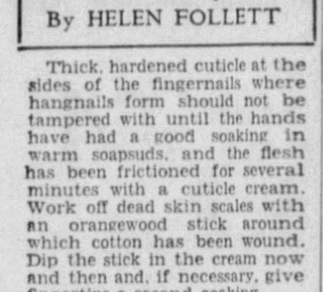
By HELEN FOLLETT

Thick, hardened cuticle at the sides of the fingernails where hangnails form should not be tampered with until the hands have had a good soaking in warm soapsuds, and the flesh has been frictioned for several minutes with a cuticle cream. Work off dead skin scales with an orangewood stick around which cotton has been wound. Dip the stick in the cream now and then and, if necessary, give fingertips a second soaking.

It is impossible to create an infallible standard of weights and measurements, because of the difference in bony constructions of the body. If a girl is 10 pounds overweight according to the charts, she needn't worry. Not if she is in good health and the excess adipose baggage is evenly distributed. Line and proportion mean more than the number of pounds the scales report.

Now is the time of year when necks and faces don't match in color. The back of the neck is especially in need of a whitening agent after a summer of flirtations with Mister Al Fresco, lolling on sunny beaches, exposure of neck cuticle on the golf links. Cut thin slices of lemon, place them in a row on a wash cloth, bind the wash cloth about the neck, let it remain on over night. Next morning bathe with clear cold water, dry pat in cold cream.

IN DEPTHS OF DESPAIR



MRS. MARY JONES lives in New England. Every month was a nightmare to her. Her letter says, "I suffered periodical pains through my head, backache and female weakness."

She tried everything. Visited clinics. Nothing helped her. Finally she gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial . . . scarcely hoping it would succeed where more expensive things had failed.

But she was surprised. Through its tonic action, it built up her health . . . lessened her pain. She says, "My backache is completely relieved."

COFFIN PRINTS CLUE IN DEATH

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Finger prints on a coffin were scrutinized by Coroner Virgil Fowler in connection with his autopsy on the body of Miss Carrie Pfaff, wealthy Kentucky woman whose death here August 20 was followed by a demand for a post-mortem.

Although reporting that a preliminary examination supported the claim of Dr. H. A. Schirrman that Miss Pfaff died of cancer, the coroner had the finger prints taken to see whether the body might have been tampered with since it was placed in a mausoleum at Ironton, O., he said.

Burgess Kinner, of Greenup, Ky., curator of the Pfaff estate, demanded an autopsy after Miss Pfaff's death at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hanna. Mrs. Hanna was named chief beneficiary of the estate. Miss Pfaff had resided with the Hannas for three months prior to her death.

TRIAL PICTURES TO BE SCREENED

Pictures projected on a full-size moving picture screen will be used in a court room here for what is said to be the first time in Allegheny County, next Monday, when Frank Getz, his wife, Rose; John Mihalchik and John Adrina go on trial, charged with arson.

The four are accused of being members of a Swissvale arson ring that set fire to several buildings.

Pictures taken for county detectives of the scenes of the alleged arson, of tools used in the crimes and of persons said to be implicated will be projected on the screen for the jury. They have been reproduced by a special process.

Leg Broken, Youth Crawls Four Miles

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Alone in the Wolf Mountains suffering a compound fracture of his right leg, Edward Garrett, 17, crawled 32 hours to reach the nearest ranch house, four miles from the spot where he was injured in a fall from a horse. From the ranch he was brought to a hospital here, where his condition remained uncertain today due to the danger of infection.

Fall Restores Sight Lost 45 Years Ago

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Forty-five years ago Thomas W. Mission was struck on the head with a lacrosse stick and lost the sight of his right eye. Last Saturday he tripped and fell at Thorncliffe Racing Park, hitting his head on the ground. He awoke Sunday, he said today, to find the sight of his eye restored.

Chapin Sees Record Year for Aviation

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Roy D. Chapin, secretary of commerce, speaking last night at the first anniversary dinner of the Pioneer Air Transport Operators' Association, said the year 1932 probably would be the greatest in the brief history of commercial aviation.

TRIAL IN NEW COURTROOM

A new trial room, known as No. 7 Criminal Court, constructed in the room formerly occupied by the probation office, on the third floor of the Court House, has been opened. Visiting Judge R. P. Sherwood is on the bench.

Assistant District Attorney M. Barney Cohen and Attorney L. J. Purpura tried the first case which resulted in acquittal and division of the costs. J. O. Hall, of Turtle Creek, was charged with giving a bad check for $10 to J. S. Carr, of Irwin, for coal. The defendant said the check was not to have been banked until the coal was delivered.

Boy Offers to Risk Life for $1,500

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Dr. J. C. # Miner Wins Fortune

JOE WALSH AND HIS $3,500.00 CERTIFIED CHECK

Great joy came to a miner's family in Bobtown, Pa., on Saturday, August 20, when Joe Walsh, 26, the oldest of 10 children, received a check for $3,500.00. It was the First Grand Prize in a contest conducted by one of the country's big distributors of beauty preparations, family medicines and food products.

It all started when Walsh saw an advertisement in a Pittsburgh newspaper on January 17. It read: "What Will You Do With $3,500.00 if I give it to You?"

Walsh's natural curiosity, stimulated by the scarcity of work in the Shannopin mine, caused him to answer the advertisement. In addition, he watched for other, smaller contests staged by the same company and received $1,800.00 in various cash prizes during the Spring months. With this money, Joe helped his father, Andrew Walsh, also an unemployed miner, his aged mother and his nine sisters and brothers.

Now Joe is one of the happiest young men in Pennsylvania because the $3,500.00 is quite a fortune to this Polish immigrant, who has been in the United States only nine years. It's a fortune to almost anyone today when money is so scarce. To Joe and his family it means they will not have to worry during the coming long Winter.

Another Big Contest! It's Your Opportunity

This company has brought happiness and prosperity into many homes, through the hundreds and thousands of dollars it has paid to folks living in all parts of the United States to advertise its famous products.

Another of their cash prize contests is now being announced, and equally big cash rewards will be paid to those entering their contests and following the simple rules which anyone over 16 years of age can do.

This company will be glad to mail all details and easy rules of its present contest to those writing to Richard Day, Manager, Dept. XM-9, 906 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, Ohio. Just furnish your name and address. A one-cent postal card can be used.

DON'T BE SLOWED DOWN BY STALE GAS

YOU PAY FOR POWER . . . GET IT!

Only FRESH gas gives you all the power you pay for. Why? Because as gas gets staler, it gets weaker. Loses volatile "easy starting" elements. Falls victim to a chemical change—and gets sluggish and feeble.

Another thing. The staler the gas, the stickier it is. And the more apt it is to knock.

That's why Gulf is pleased to announce a system that assures you of getting FRESH-MADE gasoline. Two things make this possible . . .

First, Gulf refines out of its fine gasoline certain complex elements—the very elements that cause rapid deterioration.

Second, Gulf takes pains to speed this FRESH gas to you in a hurry, before it can get stale.

Huge Gulf refineries are located in many parts of the country—so that every Gulf station is close to a source of FRESH gas. A vast fleet of tank trucks rushes FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day.

DOUMER SLAYER MUST DIE

PARIS, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—President Albert Lebrun rejected the final appeal for the life of Dr. Paul Gorguloff, slayer of former President Paul Doumer, today and the Russian was ordered guillotined tomorrow.

Even before formal announcement of the execution, passes were being issued by the prefecture of police for the occasion. Father Gillet, a priest of the Greek Orthodox Church, arrived to administer last rites to Gorguloff.

The execution probably will take place at dawn.

The prisoner, held in Sante prison, confessed the slaying but appeals had been made on grounds he was insane. President Doumer was shot fatally at a public gathering here last May.

October 8—Third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

10 BOAT BLAST BODIES FOUND

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Ten bodies came to the surface of the East River today in the vicinity where the labor ferry Observation sank Friday morning after her boiler exploded.

These brought the total of known dead in the disaster to 56. Of the original list of those believed to have been on the boat and reported missing, nine remained unaccounted for today. Twenty-eight injured were still in hospitals.

Islam Grotto Ready To Present 'Tommy'

Opening tomorrow night, the Islam Grotto Cast Players will present "Tommy," a three-act comedy, for which they have been rehearsing for several months. Frank L. Furlong is director, and Irwin Eiseman plays the title role. The supporting cast includes Elva Stuertz, Elva Bourdon, Grace Logan, Clarence W. Hoffman, Ivor M. Lowrie, Earl E. Haig and John G. Harris. The play also will be presented Thursday and Friday.

EASTMAN HEIRS GAIN MILLIONS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—An estate of $25,561,641, or approximately $5,000,000 more than the estimates at the time of his death, was left by George Eastman, the kodak magnate, according to the transfer tax affidavit filed here today. Of the total estate, $8,319,553 was in cash. Eastman committed suicide by shooting himself at his home here last March 14. He was 77.

A surprising disclosure was the fact that Eastman carried only $16,951 in life insurance, all of which was payable to his niece, Mrs. Ellen Andrus Dryden, of Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Dryden also was bequeathed $206,015, including $100,000 in cash, $100,000 in New York City bonds now valued at $91,500 and personal items including silverware, jewelry and household effects.

Mrs. Alice K. Hutchinson, for years secretary to the philanthropist, was left $100,573, represented by $100,000 bonds of Jersey City, N. J., with accrued interest.

LINER BATTERED BY HIGH SEAS

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The French liner Ile De France arrived last night 12 hours behind schedule after battling a gale of hurricane proportions in mid-Atlantic which sent 30-foot waves over the decks.

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherill, retired, ambassador to Turkey, here for a three-weeks vacation, said it was the roughest crossing of the 82 he has made.

Among the other passengers, were Louis de Cappdelaine, member of the French Chamber of Deputies; Beatrice Lillie, the actress, and Prof. William Maynard Hutchins, 33-year-old president of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Hutchins, who spent a vacation in a lugger on the Holland canals.

CURLEY SCORES BRITISH TARIFF

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Ireland's farmers are suffering heavy losses as a result of England's new tariff laws, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, said today upon his arrival from Ireland.

When the White Star liner Adriatic docked early today after a battle with heavy seas, the archbishop had completed his twenty-ninth crossing of the Atlantic. He went to Ireland to attend the eucharistic congress and also to visit with his mother, with whom he had spent the last 11 summers.

Archbishop Curley declined to comment on the political situation in either Ireland or the United States.

2 BOYS HOLD UP WEST PENN CAR

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Two youths held up a West Penn street car at the Country Club stop last night and fled with the fare box.

The car was in charge of James A. Miller, of Greensburg, and Harold Schrock, of Uniontown, another West Penn employe, was the only other person in the car.

The youths forced Miller to hand over $15 and took $25 from Schrock. Then they removed the fare box and disappeared.

TEXANS URGED TO ACCEPT 'MA'

LUBBOCK, Tex., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—An official canvass by the executive committee of the Texas Democratic party shows Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson holds a majority of 3,333 votes over Gov. Ross S. Sterling for the gubernatorial nomination.

This canvass of the August 27 run-off primary was certified to the state convention today with a recommendation Mrs. Ferguson be declared the nominee. Gov. Sterling has given notice he will contest the nomination in the courts, claiming several thousand persons voting for Mrs. Ferguson had not paid their poll taxes and were not entitled to exemptions from the requirement.

The committee in accepting the returns as certified to it by county chairmen complied with a ruling by the state supreme court that it and the convention lacked authority to go behind the returns.

LABOR SCORES ARMY ENGINEER

GULFPORT, Miss., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Resignation of Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers, has been asked by the Mississippi Federation of Labor on a charge of "prejudice against workers on the Mississippi River levee system."

The action, taken last night, was urged by Holt Ross, president of the South-Central Labor Congress, who charged near-peonage conditions existed among workers on Mississippi River levee projects after a private investigation last year.

Jury Frees Woman In Slaying of Man

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Without leaving the courtroom, a jury yesterday acquitted Mrs. Elizabeth Delfi on a charge of murder in the shooting of Frank Chancey, who she asserted had killed her husband.

Mrs. Delfi testified she shot Chancey in self-defense after he fatally wounded her husband, Louis. Chancey's wife, who was shot in the shoulder, testified she knew nothing of the affair.

W. C. T. U. Assembles In Beaver Falls

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 13.—Three hundred delegates from Beaver County gathered here today for the fifty-first annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The Rev. John N. Hempstead, pastor of the host church, will extend greetings, Mrs. Charles Casner will respond. The Rev. Clarence Kerr, Monaca, will make the address. Mrs. M. J. Patterson, Beaver, will preside.

SCORES CALL ON STRICKEN PRIEST

Aide to Father Cox Ill In Hospital, Greets Many Friends

In his room at Mercy Hospital where he was taken more than a week ago, the Rev. Father A. J. Zapora, assistant priest at Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church, is anything but lonely. So far the priest has proved to be one of the most popular patients at the hospital. On Sunday, between 1 and 10 p. m., 109 persons called at the hospital to visit the priest.

Father Zapora two weeks ago suffered a stomach ailment and was taken to the hospital for observation.

EX-FOLLIES GIRL WEDS HEIR

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—(Universal.)—Elsa Peterson, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, and E. J. (Jerry) Miley, son of the millionaire oil operator, were married secretly in Tia Juana last Tuesday, it was learned today. The bride said:

"Jerry and I met here two years ago. It was just a matter of waiting until the right time to get married. We wired his father in Oklahoma after the ceremony and received his blessings."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sunday, son and daughter-in-law of Billy Sunday, were present at the wedding.

Miley, well known in motion pictures and aviation circles, has been married once before, as has his wife.

Mrs. Miley appeared as prima donna in the Follies of 1923 and 1924. She also played with Marilyn Miller in "Sunny."

Indiana Village To Levy No Taxes

BOSTON, Ind., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Residents of this Wayne County village will pay no corporation tax next year, inasmuch as funds already in the treasury or collectable will care for the community's needs.

Boston has no town marshal, no traffic lights, and all roads entering it are state highways.

New Bank Sought For Masontown

MASONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 13.—Permission to organize the Second National Bank of Masontown has been sought from the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington. George McLeod, in his application, stated the bank is to have a capital of $50,000.

Holmes' Shakespeare Given Library by Son

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A volume of Shakespeare with prized marginal notes in the handwriting of the elder Oliver Wendell Holmes has been presented to the Folger Shakespeare Memorial Library by Holmes' famous son of the same name.

THREATS TO KIN CAUSE ARREST

Mourning cards, bearing pen and ink drawings of a skull and crossbones, a black hand and dripping daggers, sent to Frank Gazzo, of 751 Upland street, and his daughter, Mrs. Clara Mascaro, 1011 Brushton avenue, today resulted in Frank Nero, 56, of 2432 Hillside street, being held for court by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. He was charged with sending threatening letters through the mail and was turned over to postal authorities for further investigation.

Police said Nero admitted sending the cards, with death threats written in Italian. At the hearing, Nero said his brother-in-law, Gazzo, took advantage of him through a judgment note for $13,000, causing him to lose his property.

Man Rolls in Front Of Passenger Train

Several score commuters on a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train were shaken up when the engineer halted the train amid a shriek of brakes late yesterday to avoid striking a man who rolled from a hillside on the tracks in the Brilliant cut-off, near Larimer Avenue Bridge. The man fled before his identity could be learned.

Child Hit by Auto, Driver Arrested

Struck by an automobile in Wick street last night, James Summerfield, 3, of 839 Diaz way, is in Passavant Hospital suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries.

P. J. Jennings, of 162 Whitridge street, was held on a reckless driving charge, police reported.

Man Seeks Change Of Name in Court

Because his name is difficult to pronounce and causes him embarrassment, and because he has been known for years as Jack Peters, Julian Paszkowski, employed at the King Edward Apartments, and living at 2826 Louisiana avenue, Dormont, filed a petition in Common Pleas Court asking permission to use the shorter name.

THE CALL OF THE WILD
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Paul Bransom, America's foremost animal painter ...inspired by the savage struggle between the ferocious wild dog and the vicious wolf... as described in Jack London's famous novel of combat against crude nature in the frozen north.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

BEN BERNIE -:- Edgar Guest, Aunt Jemima -:- BACK ON AIR

'Ol' Maestro' Wisecracks On WCAE

Yow-suh, he's back!

Ben Bernie, that wise-cracking "ol' maestro" of radio, and all his lads return to the air over an NBC network, including WCAE, tonight at 9 for his "good old alma malta."

The first three of Bernie's weekly broadcasts will come from as many different places between the Atlantic and Lake Michigan. Tonight he plays from New York; next week, from Buffalo, and on September 27, the cigar-smoking violin-carrying band leader will face a microphone at Detroit. From that time on, each Tuesday night will find Ben on the air from Chicago.

Ben Bernie

Another one of radio's "prodigal" sons, Edgar Guest, make his first appearance after a vacation spent at Point Aux Barques, Mich., on the Musical Memories program over KDKA at 9 o'clock with Alice Mock, soprano, and Josef Koestner's orchestra. The noted poet and newspaper writer will be accompanied tonight by his daughter, Janet, who will see her father broadcast for the first time.

Tess Gardella, known to radio, the stage and talking picture as "Aunt Jemima," the blues singer, returns in a new series of song recitals on WJAS at 2 today, as previously announced in this column. She is currently co-starred in the revival of the Ziegfeld production, "Show Boat," with Helen Morgan. Her programs are scheduled tri-weekly—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—at the same hour.

Mayor Anton J. Cermak, who arrives in New York from Europe today, speaks in a special broadcast over an extensive NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 10:30.

Program Pointers

Prospects for improvement in the railway industry and conditions in the transportation business generally are discussed by J. P. Deasy, vice president of the Central Region, Pennsylvania Railroad, on KDKA tonight at 7:15 . . . Harry W. Shepard, secretary of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, who is a recognized authority on economics, philanthropy and welfare work, speaks on "The Way of the Panhandler" over KQV tonight at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Shepard

"The Motor Parkway Murder," the thrilling story of the solution of a gangster's last "ride," is the dance hour dramatization on WCAE at 10. Jack Denny provides the rhythms.

On WJAS at 9:30, "The Mystery of Fifty-Two," another puzzling detective story from the inventive mind of Walter S. Masterman, English writer of murder yarns, is presented.

Tommy McLaughlin, lyric baritone, is featured in a program of musical show hits with an 18-piece orchestra under the direction of Andre Kostelanetz on WJAS at 9:15.

LISTENING IN

'Orphan Annie' Glad.
Globe-Trotting Barbara.
Carries His Piano.

Shirley Bell, the 12-year-old "Little Orphan Annie" of NBC networks, is bubbling with excitement. A baby girl, born August 14, has just been named for her. She plans to visit her namesake as soon as possible . . . Barbara Maurel, the CBS singer, has been to Europe 18 times, which makes her somewhat of a commuter . . . Dick Gasparre takes his large grand piano with him wherever his band plays. It's been on millionaire's yachts and in Europe, and when he thinks of what he's spent transporting the instrument, he wishes he'd studied the flute instead.

Charles Dornberger, zooming by judges at 240 miles per hour, won the Canadian Army and Navy Veterans' Air Sweepstakes, a feature of the Canadian Air Races at Montreal. You hear Dornberger's Orchestra on late NBC dance pickups.

Graham Harris has a collection of jade elephants with their trunks down, despite superstition that elephant figures are unlucky unless the trunk is uplifted.

There's a Jack Denny Club with a strictly Oriental membership in New York's Chinatown.

Henry Shope, the singer, also is a talented violinist . . . Peter van Steeden likes to play with toy trains . . . William Brenton, CBS announcer, studies Greek in his spare time.

Victor Young made $8,000 on his first song, "Sweet Sue," more than he was guaranteed 10 years ago for an entire season of violin concerts.

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit open their first personal appearance engagement outside of New York in three years on October 1 in Boston.

Pat Binford says the one time he ever made good on the stage was when he and friend imitated Gallagher and Shean at a benefit. They were worth $2,000 that night, but the following week Pat tried it as a professional and his manager lost money.

DON'T BUDGE From Your BUDGET!

Of Interest To Collegians —And All Girls!

Our "Campus Corner" assembled three budget wardrobes with a half-year's needs at $118, $190 and $325—to prove you can budget low and still rate high in fashion. Think of it! Everything below's just part of the $118 wardrobe!

"MUST-HAVE" OUTFIT

CAMPUS COAT
$16.50

SWAGGER SUIT
$16.50

Four smart pieces priced at one! Kemp tweed, well made, choice colors, 11-17; 14-20.

JERSEY DRESS
$2.95

Stripes emphasize this classroom model's newness. Two pieces. Others, $1.95.

SATURDAY "EVE"
$16.50

GUIMPE DRESS
$5.95

Separate the jumper and blouse and make added costumes! Note—plaids! 11-17.

"SUNDAY MORN"
$10.75

Becomes "triple duty" with throat unbuttoned or white collar added. In crepes.

"SIDE-FLIGHT"
$3.85

Emphasizes the smart left side and back ascension with a perky "wing!" Felt model.

"FRAPPE" VELVET
$3.85

As luscious as a cherry frappe—for your crushed (frappe) velvet frock! Note Veil.

"DIPPER"
$5

Very little brim, much less crown—yet it "eclipses" every other all-around model! Felt.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along.)

That is one second of the Philippines a death is celebrated by a show to keep mourners from getting depressed. A birth is the occasion for "funeral trimmings" because the tribe grieves long and loud over what the newcomer "has to go through in this life."

That if you owe a debt in France they won't let you leave the country. And if you find anything there you must turn it over to the police and the owner must reward you with 10 per cent of the value.

That you are not so tall when you stand up as when you lie down. You often stretch an extra inch on your back. (They figured this fact out all by themselves down at Johns Hopkins.)

That in Japan, until 1868, a social superior had the right to kill a social inferior if he failed for an instant to keep smiling in the great one's presence. (Today they are more "civilized.")

That the Smiths in the Manhattan phone tome outnumber the Cohens by a small margin—1,848 to 1,760.

That Minneapolis is hushing early morning milk deliveries by making them use among other things pneumatic tires, rubber horseshoes and rubber-lined bottle carriers.

That Eugene Meyer, the big Federal Reserve and Reconstruction Corporation man, is color-blind. (To which the wits counter: "Who wouldn't be after seing so much red on financial statements?")

That you don't laugh because you're glad, or cry because you're sad, but vice versa! (According to the James-Large Theory in psychology, your muscular activity frequently determines your emotional state, rather than the other way around. Haw!)

That a red rag means nothing to a bull. (It's the motion, not the color that burns him up, you dope!)

That the world-shaking doctrine of evolution was conceived independently and almost simultaneously by both Darwin and Wallace. (And they never sued each other for plagiarism or credit.)

That Eskimos never had toothaches until white men came.

That the Budapest Opera helps finance itself by peddling admission to the ballet dancers' green-room and the singers' smoking-room. (The fee is $150 a year. You get a silver key opening both doors.)

That in several of the lumber camps of the Great Northwest you can be shaved with an ax.

That a fish in pure water would smother to death.

That John Keats pulled one of the greatest literary boners in history when he hailed Cortez (instead of Balboa) as the discoverer of the Pacific Ocean. In a sonnet which will live forever: "On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer."

That a pinch of salt in your glass of water will help you to stand the heat. (Now he tells us with fall almost here!)

That not one Chinese in 10,000 can afford to buy a whole stick of chewing gum. (Dealers have to provide shears to retailers—for cutting up the sticks.)

That the profits taken by the "illicit" liquor industry in the past 12 years are officially estimated at 17 billion smackers.

That the Department of Agriculture at Washington, in order to prevent advance "leaks" of crop estimates (that might be worth fortunes in grain markets), seals the rooms in which the tabulators work.

That a fishing or hunting license is available only after six months in Nevada. But you can get a marriage license any minute now!

That you can get a divorce in Reno after six weeks' residence there but it takes a year to go crazy!

That there are now 200,000 unwanted, homeless boys—with a scattering of girls—wandering about the United States.

That since the establishment of the federal government's unwalled prison camps, 6,678 persons have been confined in them—with only 161 escapes. Of these 131 were recaptured.

That you can still find a chunk of Noah's Ark in an Armenian church on the Turkish frontier.

That the Soviet's gigantic steel plant at Magnitogorsk tops anything in Europe. It will eventually exceed the capacity of the United States Steel works at Gary, a plant that took 12 years to build, while the amazing Russian lay-out was made in only two years.

That it costs the Pullman Company $54 daily to run one car and anything over that is their profit. (They need a benefit, yet.)

And that the total population of the world today is 2,000,000,000, or 2,000,000,000½ including you—if you doubt it.

By GEORGE SEIBEL

"So this is a theater," said the man in front, "with a real curtain and real actors, regular human size and no tin foil on their voices." Following the man in front into the Nixon, which was fragrant with honeysuckle or tuberoses or something, the rest of us again saw what a theater is like. It is really an interesting experience. They had many theaters in the days when the horse was man's friend. The Nixon was a happy place last night—lots of people willing to be amused—actors perspiring as they dragged the laughs from the first-night audience—everybody feeling that they were doing something different and inscribing their names on the scroll of fame. A world premiere—a real theater—real actors—and an old-style show with a new angle.

Mr. Seibel

They have called it "Humpty-Dumpty." That has nothing to do with the case—it might have been "Puss in Boots" or "Little Jack Horner." It's an old-fashioned revue—but it is set in a backstage atmosphere of rehearsal, with backers and actors furnishing the criticism as the show unfolds. So really there is no need of a critic. Lou Holtz is invited to be the angel of the new show—he takes his family to the theater—they sit in the boxes and offer their comment, and the comments are the funniest thing about the show, especially those of Lisa Silbert as Lou's mother.

"MIGHTS AIN'T ISSES"

If the show did not take so long to begin and so long to end, it might be a great hit. But "mights ain't isses," as Lou Holtz says in one of his happiest moods. For instance, there is the opening scene of the second act, supposed to present five years of musical comedy in five minutes. It was turned around—it was more like five minutes in five years. "It's a little mixed up," is the family criticism. "I don't know what it's about," is another footnote. Which nobody will deny.

So it is with the "Humpty-Dumpty" number in the first act. There may be some political satire hidden in it. Somebody said so—it must be there. But if the number were out, nothing would be lost but the title of the play.

And there would be enough play left to let the audience go home at half-past-eleven. And enough to amuse them hugely—what with Lou Holtz's sure-fire comedy, what with Ethel Merman's ultra-marine blue singing, what with the rough-and-tumble song-and-dance of the three Diamond Boys.

Ethel Merman has a song, set in a New Orleans scene, "Eadie Was a Lady," that is the gem of the show. And there's a comic parody of "Daniel Boone's Dread Plight" which Lou Holtz makes an uproarious scream in the manner of the play scenes from "Midsummer Night's Dream."

BIG SONG THRILL

A theme song is needed, and Lou Holtz's brother, the amusing Sid Silvers, throws his sheet music down on the stage. "Turn Out the Light" is the big song thrill of the show. Lou Holtz's comic ditty, "She's Nuts About Me," comes a close second. Charm and rhythm also mark "Laughing Our Way Through Love," sung and danced by Eddie Foy and Miss Jersey City. The music on the whole is above the average, for which thanks go to Brown Herb Nacio and Richard Whiting. The same might be said about the book of B. G. DeSylva and Laurence Schwab, if there were not so much of it.

Filled with many good things—as when Harry T. Shannon does a piece of dignified and impressive acting as Abe Lincoln, and is hailed as "Landsmann" by Lou's mother in Israel—as when the chorus in an old-fashioned beer-garden traipses down among the audience with glasses of the foaming amber fluid, which some lucky aisle dwellers absorbed with gusto—filled with many such things, this "Humpty-Dumpty" would be much better if it were not so full. Lou Holtz is a vastly amusing fellow, J. C. Nugent is another comedian of fine caliber, but they have to work almost continually and in the same key. June Knight is a delight to the eye, and so is Doris Groday—but too much cream pie dulls the appetite. After the blue pencil and the shears have trimmed away a few of the excess frills of "Humpty-Dumpty," it will be a very savory revue in a somewhat novel setting. And it is so well cast, from Lou Holtz and Ethel Merman down, that it can hardly fail to find favor.

Y. M. & W. H. A. Players To Meet Tomorrow

The Co-operative Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. announces a meeting open to the public tomorrow evening. Anyone interested in the various activities of the Playhouse is invited to attend.

Columbia Borrows Carole Lombard

Carole Lombard, star of "No One Man" and "Sinners in the Sun," was borrowed from Paramount this week for the leading role in Columbia's "Virtue," described as a daring story of a modern girl.

Apache?

Waiting to Hear

Colleen Moore, it has been announced, will return to the screen, and s he is waiting to hear what vehicle has been selected for "comeback."

-:- Plays and Players -:-

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Like numerous successful actors, J. C. Nugent, player in "Humpty Dumpty," which had its premiere in the Nixon last night, began his acting career in Pittsburgh. A native of Niles, O., he made his stage debut at the age of 7 in a Pittsburgh stock company in "The Danites," which had served as a vehicle for McKee Rankin, a noted actor of a bygone day. However, it was in vaudeville, quite a number of years later, that Mr. Nugent became established as a thespian, appearing in "The Veteran," in which he became a headliner. He is the head of an acting family, the most prominent member of which is his son, Elliott, now popular in the movies. J. C. and Elliott wrote a comedy, some years ago, that was destined to become one of the big hits of its season in New York. This was "Kempy," in which both father and son were featured. Mr. Nugent's most recent Broadway appearance was in the Frank Craven comedy, "That's Gratitude." The first matinee of "Humpty Dumpty" will be held tomorrow.

Your old pal of Pittsburgh stock days, Thurston Hall, who was seen here last season in "Mourning Becomes Electra," Theater Guild play, continues to be one of the Guild's helping hands. As such, he is on the books for an early appearance here. The Guild now has in rehearsal "The Pure in Heart," which will be presented in the Nixon October 10 as the first offering of the subscription season of the American Theater Society, which has offices in the Nixon Building. Others in this play, which was written by John Howard Lawson, author of "Processional," produced by the Guild several years ago, are June Walker, Osgood Perkins, Paul Kelly and Helen Flint.

* * *

Comes a statement from the office of Arthur B. Beckhard, producer of the New York hit, "Another Language," that it will be presented on tour, including Pittsburgh, by Mr. Beckhard, himself. The announcement is sent out, it is stated, to correct any idea that may exist that this play will be included in the subscription plays sponsored by the American Theater Society, which is a merger of the "road" activities formerly separate under the banners of the Theater Guild and Professional Players.

Emil Jannings An Actor Still

By MILDRED FILLMORE

That fine actor, Emil Jannings, who used to be the bright star of the silent screen, came back in German yesterday at the Cinema, and showed he is still the fine actor he was in the days before the talkies. Jannings appears in a story of love and jealousy, called "Stuerme der Leidenschaft" (Storms of Passion), and the opening scenes show him in prison, while the closing scenes show him again being taken to prison. Since the prison has "radio and running water," he doesn't mind it so much. His wife, played with rare art by Anna Sten, is one of those temperamentally fickle females who can't help it. When her husband returns from prison, she has become involved with a photographer; when he kills the photographer, in a scene punctured with fine symbolic fireworks, she takes another lover as soon as she sees him. And then there is a reckoning—all tremendously acted with utmost naturalism. There are few such stars as Emil Jannings on the English talking screen.

BITS OF LIFE

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Success

PIETRO WAS a devoted son. From the time that he was 9, he helped his father in the fields on their Italian farm. He worked in the heat of the day without complaint. On Sunday, when his father gave him a few coins for his work, Pietro would walk two miles to the village and buy a corsage of flowers for his mother.

He was a moody kid, this Pietro. He would laugh and play with the other children of the village for a moment, and then he would stop suddenly to listen to some Neopolitan folk song played by the street musicians. Sometimes, when listening to music like that, he would cry.

And sometimes, the other kids would laugh at him . . .

But Pietro didn't mind that. He knew that it must look funny for a young boy to be standing in the street, crying because of a song. But he couldn't help it.

The boy's father finally decided to make a musician of him. Not an ordinary musician, mind you. A maestro. No less.

At night he would sit in the kitchen beside his wife, and discuss plans for the boy's future.

"Maria," he would say, "I will take Pietro from the farm. It is no good for his hands. Then I must buy a good violin from Verazotti in the Village."

Eventually, the violin was purchased. Eventually, the father made enough money on his crops to send the boy to Rome to study. And eventually, the father died.

The boy cut short his studies, and came, of all places, to America. At the ripe old age of 17, he landed in New York and promptly went to work in a cheap orchestra in a cheap dance hall.

Of course, he met a girl there. And of course he fell in love.

Pietro was stupid. He didn't know that she was hoodwinking him. And so they were married.

Within a month, every member of the orchestra wanted to put the boy wise to what was going on. He was a nice kid, and they liked him. But husbands react very strangely to people who wise them up, so Pietro wasn't told.

But even the blindest of husbands sometimes see, and Pietro was by no means the blindest. He had been married about four months when he caught his wife standing in the hallway kissing the corner butcher.

The boy forgave her that time. She explained that the butcher had cornered her in the hallway and that she had been defenseless until Pietro came along. After a while, the boy nodded his belief of her story, and the incident was closed.

They still make 'em that way, too . . .

It was a scant two weeks after that when Pietro was fired from the band. The dance hall owner said that his work was terrible, and that he ought to trade in his violin for a pick and shovel.

The boy walked home slowly. His mind was tortured with thoughts of how he should break the bad news to the girl who waited for him, and who depended upon him.

You know what happened. Sure. It just had to be, that's all. When it was all over, Pietro stood in the center of the floor, shaking, and staring at the butcher at his feet. The knife fell slowly from his hand.

They cited the old unwritten law, which has so often been proved better than many of the written kind. At the end of the trial, Pietro heard the judge say "Twenty years," and they led him away . . .

In prison, he got along very well with both the inmates and the authorities. Sometimes, when the warden had company to his home, Pietro would be invited to play the violin.

A few years ago, the warden had a novel idea. Why couldn't Pietro make up a prison orchestra? Other jails were doing it.

Pietro went wild about the plan. He canvassed the entire prison until he got the men he wanted. Then he got enough subscriptions, with outside help, to allow him to buy music for the group. Then they rehearsed.

The boy's band became the most popular feature of the prison. Quartets were arranged and the radio executives weren't long in arranging for a broadcast.

Soon the music of these men escaped from the prison walls and floated free all over the country. In a mild way, the prison band became a sensation. Radio listeners began to listen for that sad Neapolitan theme song. Letters poured in by the thousands.

I heard the finish of the story two weeks ago. A well-known conductor made a special trip to the prison to see Pietro. He told the boy that, due to his popularity over the radio, it would be a comparatively simple matter to arrange a pardon for his crime.

Further, he said that Pietro, once free, would be able to get a job in a good New York orchestra. That he would be a drawing card on account of his prison record, and that he could command a high salary.

Pietro shook his head and smiled.

"No," he said. "I will not go. I am happy here, and I have kept my word. I am a success." . . .

Winning Frock
Pattern 2398
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

We simply must shout to the whole world about this adorable frock. It's so different, so captivating and so smart! There is something very jaunty about the way the front panel butons on top of the pleated collar. Puffed sleeves are always winning on tots. Make the collar of a perky pique or organdie to contrast with a gay cotton print.

Pattern 2398 may be ordered only in sizes 4 to 12. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards 36-inch fabric and ⅜ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Sent 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE FALL AND WINTER EDITION OF THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN CATALOG IS READY! Charming, flattering models — 32 pages of the newest and best house, street and formal frocks—cleverly designed styles for large figures—and beautiful, practical models for juniors and kiddies. Lovely lingerie patterns, and suggestions for gifts that can be easily and inexpensively made, are also included. SEND FOR THE NEW CATALOG. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS; CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS. Address all mail orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

M'KEE ACTION CONTESTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The Board of Elections today decided to refer to Corporation Counsel Arthur J. Hilly papers served on the board in the taxpayers' action brought yesterday at the instance of Mayor Joseph V. McKee to prevent a special election for mayor this year.

The board's vote means that Hilly, whose services in the matter were waived by the Mayor, will represent the board in the court action.

The order to show cause why the Board of Elections should not be restrained from preparing for a mayoralty election this fall is returnable tomorrow.

The election suit came in the midst of a busy day for the Mayor during which he announced that he would make every effort to maintain a five-cent transit fare and summarily dismissed Thomas F. Dwyer as commissioner of markets because of Dwyer's failure to submit a plan to make the Bronx Terminal Market self-supporting.

After personal inspection of the Bronx market, the Mayor found that it produced annual revenue of $26,000 at a cost of $162,485.

Thiel Club Here Plans for Winter

MARKET STUDY FOUNDERS' AIM

Efforts to bring order out of the "wild scramble" method of getting business at any cost will be made during the two-day first fall regional conference of the Steel Founders' Society of America, which opens tomorrow in the William Penn Hotel.

Leading executives of the industry will attend, according to Managing Director Grantville P. Rogers, of New York, who estimates an attendance of 50.

Director Rogers said:

"The most important problem is to bring order out of the present conditions. The unusually keen competition has caused price cutting. This wild scramble to get business at any cost must be remedied to prepare the industry for the upward trend now evidenced."

Assistant Director R. L. Collier said President Arthur Simonson, of Milwaukee, will preside. Mr. Simonson is vice president in charge of sales of the Falk Corporation.

FATHER FIGHTS KIDNAP CHARGE

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Whether Hubert J. Jenkins, Sr., of Louisville, must return to Dallas, Tex., to face a charge of kidnaping his 10-year-old son, Hubert, Jr., rested today with Gov. Ruby Laffoon, before whom an extradition hearing was scheduled.

Jenkins is fighting extradition on the ground kidnaping one's own son is not an offense under Kentucky law.

The charge against the father was filed after he took the boy, heir to part of a $1,000,000 estate, from the home of his step-grandmother in Dallas. Jenkins and the boy's mother were divorced and the mother later was killed in an automobile accident.

'HUNGRY WEEK' LOOMS FOR DESTITUTE OF COUNTY

E. Brookline Girl on Stage Tour Abroad

Appears in Hamburg As European Trip Begins

Opening with an acrobatic act at the Ufa Palast Theater, Hamburg, Germany, Miss Hannah Becker, 19, a Pittsburgh girl, will begin this week a stage tour of Europe, appearing in Berlin, London and Paris.

Miss Becker, whose home is at 1409 Blair place, East Brookline, has made appearances throughout the country; and, in Pittsburgh. She is the youngest of a family of eight sisters and three brothers.

JURORS BEG OFF ON WORK PLEAS

A pickup in employment was indicated by jurors seeking excuse from service in Common Pleas Court yesterday, when jury trials were resumed after the summer recess. A number pleaded they had just procured employment after months of idleness. Others said they were helping to care for relatives—in one case three or four families—and they could not do it on a juror's compensation.

Of the panel of 230 jurors, 30 sought to be excused and 15 were successful, in addition to a few who were excused for one week, by Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

The term started out industriously, under the supervision of Chief Clerk R. J. Moore, nine courtrooms being employed, with a number of verdicts of small sums handed down during the day.

LIQUOR SUPPLY SOURCE HIT BY RAIDERS

Rum Seized in Cleanup; Speakeasies Keep Under Cover

Although the cleanup drive against vice ordered by Judge Frank P. Patterson has resulted in a number of the smaller fry speakeasies closing up, prohibition agents and Constable Sam Graham, of Glenfield, last night raided what they said was the source of supply for numerous clubs in the East End district.

Prohibition agents arrested Michael Picillo, at 514 Larimer avenue, after they said they had purchased a bottle of gin. Then, with the constable they raided an alleged cutting plant at 512 Larimer avenue and reported confiscating 25 cases of whisky, 70 gallons of moonshine and bottles and other paraphernalia.

CHOICE DRINKS GONE

Some speakeasies are still doing business, but not in the style of 10 days ago, according to reports. The array of choice liquors, which once greeted customers across the bar, has disappeared, and it is rumored real beer has vanished, the explanation being it is harder to dispose of in case of a raid.

Hearings to padlock 20 of the so-called "hot spots" overlooked by constables in their quarterly returns were being held by Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court today.

Included in the list were Showboat, a cabaret in the basement at Fullerton street and Wylie avenue; the Rosebud Inn, Wilkins Township; Long Run barbecue, Versailles Township, and the North Star Hotel, on the Steubenville pike in North Fayette Township. The hearings today were the last on injunction proceedings brought by the prohibition bureau.

DELAY AMERITA RULING

A decision on the Amerita Club, 34 Fernando street, was held up pending the filing of briefs by the District Attorney. Counsel for the club contended that the nuisance was abated following a raid on June 9. Vitro Foglia, president, said the bar was removed two days after the raid.

WELFARE HEADS WON'T STRETCH RELIEF FUNDS

Poor Directors Hope For Approval of Bond Issue

The Allegheny County Emergency Association today continued administration of fast dwindling state relief while it made clear that county destitute could expect nothing between September 23 and October 1 unless the County Commissioners permit the Poor Board to issue relief bonds.

The Poor Directors were seeking to arrange a meeting with the Commissioners at which some arrangement for floating the bonds could be reached.

Meanwhile, Commissioner C. M. Barr continued his opposition to the bonds—opposition voiced by the three commissioners when they asked Gov. Gifford Pinchot to veto the bill permitting issue of the securities.

WON'T 'STRETCH' RELIEF

A statement issued late yesterday by Director S. E. Claney, of the Emergency Association, outlined the association's stand. He said:

"There is available from the Talbot bill funds for relief in the county outside the city $100,000. This sum at the present rate of $3 per family per week will provide for 17,644 families until September 23.

"The Emergency Association's relief committee does not deem it advisable under the present circumstances to lower the amount of relief per family in the hope that between now and September 23 other funds may be made available for such cases."

CONFERENCE SET

The statement today was interpreted as a flat refusal to tide county relief over while the County Commissioners dally with the idea of approving the Poor Director's bond issue. Another alternative was appropriation from current county funds to last until state money for October is available. Maj. J. Clyde Miller, chairman of the poor directors, said:

"We're doing everything we can. We hope to meet with the Commissioners late this week."

Meanwhile, announcement was made in Harrisburg that the State Emergency Relief Board had approved allocation of $225,944 to Pittsburgh and Allegheny County for September. It was first drawn on last week.

City Council's Finance Committee today was expected to approve use of $50,000 to buy shoes for the city's needy—16,000 of them, and 1,000 blankets for Mayview. Number of children estimated to need shoes in the city, exclusive of adults, has been set at 17,000.

WOMAN DOCTOR FOUND DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Police were puzzled today by the death of Dr. Irene P. Chandler, found dead in her Overbrook apartment-office, where her body was believed to have lain for about nine days.

Authorities were inclined at first to consider her a suicide by poisoning, but they said a search failed to reveal any poison or poison container in the apartment. The body waas found last night.

Dr. Chandler was 43.

Dismissals of Arnold Firemen Re-affirmed

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 13.—Dismissals of two fire truck drivers will stand, Otis A. Wells, president of Arnold Council, has notified Fire Chief Frank Kratz. When the two drivers, Charles Geisinger and Elmer A. Roberts, were dismissed, effective next Thursday, the firemen declared a strike and presented a protest to Council.

Receivers to Run Traders' Restaurant

The dining and pool rooms in the Chamber of Commerce quarters will be operated by the receivers for the Pittsburgh Hotel Coporation, operators of the William Penn and Fort Pitt hotels, as result of authorization by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson. E. C. Eppley and H. V. Blaxter were granted permission to execute an agreement.

LIQUOR SEIZED AFTER CHASE

A truck load of whisky was seized following a chase from Ross Township to the North Side, and a small quantity of whisky and coloring matter confiscated in a raid on a McKeesport hotel last night, federal prohibition agents reported.

Fifteen gallons of alleged whisky were seized when the truck was headed off in Preble avenue, North Side, and Frank Artimiso arrested, agents reported.

Mike Mamas, McKeesport, was arrested after a raid on a hotel at 408 Market street that netted 18 pints of whisky and a pint of coloring, agents said.

PEACE LOOMING IN P. O. STRIKE

Action by the Chamber of Commerce on the strike which has been holding up Pittsburgh's new postoffice was expected today following a series of conferences with officials of the Hoisting Engineers' Union and Building Trades Employers' Association.

The matter is being handled by Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber, and Senator Frank J. Harris. They were to report their findings to a meeting of directors this afternoon. Dunn, in discussing the work of the committee, said:

"We think we can begin to see daylight."

Councilman Sues West View Man

A suit for $15,000 damages was filed yesterday by Walter F. Hunt, West View councilman and cashier in the sheriff's office, against A. E. Torrens, West View School Board head. Torrense is alleged to have made statements reflecting on Hunt after a neighborhood newspaper published a story that an unknown councilman had borrowed $2,000 from the borough treasurer before the death of Harry Wagner, Jr., who was treasurer 15 years.

Daugherty Addresses Odd Fellows Outing

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 13.—N. R. Daugherty, Pittsburgh, deputy grand master of the I. O. O. F., addressed 3,500 persons from Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, who attended the annual Odd Fellow-Rebekah outing at Jacktown.

Victim Picks Out Suspects in Two Robberies

Charles Sasella, in Carrick Police Station to view two men accused of robbing his restaurant at Carrick avenue and Brownsville road, Sunday, pointed out Albert Bodnic, 18, of 2423 South Eighteenth street extension, arrested in John Emmerick's store, adjoining the police station, which police said he was attempting to rob, and said:

"He's the fellow that robbed me of $95 last August 10."

Bodnic admitted the charge, police said. Francis Labella, 23, of 126 Maxwell way, and Beno Orifido, 34, of 205, Dodge way, arrested as suspects in the restaurant robbery, and Bodnic were held for further investigation.

CRUELTY LAID TO PARENTS

Five children, ranging in age from four to eight years, were being cared for today in Juvenile Court detention home after their parents were arrested late yesterday on complaint of the Humane Society.

The parents will be given hearings tonight on charges of cruelty and assault and battery before Alderman Edward W. Haas, of 1811 West Liberty avenue. They were arrested by Constable C. W. Loxterman at their home after neighbors complained.

2 WHARF PLANS GIVEN COUNCIL

Two proposals for Allegheny River wharf improvements, one involving expenditure of more than $1,000,000 by the city and private interests, headed by George Vang, sand and gravel magnate, were to be discussed today by a councilmanic committee.

The second, an offer by John M. Douglas, Jr., to rent the wharf from Stanwix to Ninth streets, for $25,000 yearly, will be considered, according to Finance Committee Chairman W. Y. English.

Vang and a group of associates propose to lease the river front for 15 years and spend $750,000 for improvements, including parking and docking facilities. The city would spend $350,000 for construction of a new street paralleling Duquesne way. At the end of the lease the improved property would revert to the city.

Douglas proposes to rent the wharf, allowing the city to reserve the right to rent other parts of it, providing his interests are not hampered.

Swissvale Garage Damaged by Fire

Swissvale firemen extinguished a blaze in the garage in the rear of the home of William Austin, 7503 Calumet street, last night. The fire damaged Austin's automobile in the garage. Firemen estimated the damage at $600.

Radio Among Loot Of Store Thieves

Thieves early today forced their way into the store of Leo Smolder, 324 Edmond street, and escaped with a radio, $20 worth of cigarets, a box of stogies and other merchandise, according to a police report.

RAILING PLANS BRING PROTEST

Specification that the "Hunter safety railing" be used in repairs to the Schenley Park bridge drew an objection from the Pressed Steel Car Company, of Pittsburgh, which informed Council the action stifled competitive bidding.

The city Public Works Department contends that the railing specified is the best that can be obtained. Pressed Steel Car Company representatives told Council the specifications prevented bidders from offering an alternate type of product. Taxpayers will be forced, they declared, to pay a large price for an article "no more artistic, efficient or durable than fence manufactured by other concerns."

The car company asked that the specifications be changed so that it might submit a bid.

STATE CLOSES IN TRIAL OF 7

The prosecution of seven Moon Run men, on trial in Criminal Court for the five-year-old slaying of two strike breakers, closed today with the testimony of Mrs. Margaret Dizhazi, of Cleveland, sister of Joe Vargo, one of those slain.

The information against the defendants was made by Mrs. Dizhazi on information she testified she received from Charles D. Jaick.

Jaick testified Constable Thomas Drexler, a defendant, was one of the men who had taken the victims away in an automobile shortly before their bodies were found.

Vargo and James Toth, of Drexler, arrested at the time, was exonerated by the Coroner's jury, and the case was dropped. Recently, Mrs. Dizhazi made an information charging murder against Drexler, his brother, Henry Drexler, Basil Petholina, Newell Cumming, Nick Nosik, Sturat Obenauer and Paul Digas.

Nurse Granted $462 For Care of Calvert

For her services as a nurse to George H. Calvert, adjudged mentally incompetent after his disbarment was sought, Beatrice Woodcock was awarded $462 by Judge William H. McNaugher yesterday in Common Pleas Court through the committee in charge of Calvert, composed of his wife, Virginia A. Calvert, and Joseph A. Trefaller.

Boys' Stable Hangout In Whitaker Burns

An old stable used as a loafing place for boys, in Marigold street, Whitaker, owned by John Sacico, was destroyed by fire early today, causing $200 loss. Origin of the blaze was undetermined.

Motorist Arrested For Burning Auto He Can't Sell

James Thomas, 35, of Clairton, was arrested today, but no charge has been placed against him because Police Chief J. F. Brennan, of Clairton, said that Thomas' violation was unusual and unheard of in the annals of Monongahela Valley.

Thomas drove his automobile to the Clairton-East Pittsburgh road and set it afire, Brennan said. He stood and watched it burn and when the chief drove up he said he received this explanation:

"Well, chief, I tried to sell it but I couldn't find a buyer. This is one way of getting rid of it."

Skeletons of Ancients Unearthed Near Here

ELRAMA, Pa., Sept. 13.—Between 10,000 and 25,000 years ago, 45 mound builders, members of a pre-historic American tribe, roamed this part of Pennsylvania with no idea that twentieth century archaeologists would dig up their bodies with many scientific "ohs" and "ahs."

But within the last two weeks State Archaeologist G. S. Fisher, of Finleyville, exhumed that many skeletons of the mound dwellers.

Campers who turned over the soil of their camping ground on Pollock Hill, in Union Township, Washington County, discovered the skeletons, together with flint knives, stone tomahawks, boar tusk drills, shell ornaments, mortars and pestles, and work stones.

Fisher will wash the bones and send them to the Pennsylvania State Museum, at Harrisburg, where he is chief archaeologist.

His description of the bones shows the owners to have had more intelligent heads than the Indian, with thinner, longer skulls but heavy, primitive jaws.

One body, that of a man, showed the aborigines were no dwarfs—he was 6 feet 10 inches tall. Women and children were represented. The bodies were buried in the mound about five feet above ground level, in a large circle, with children on the inside. One girl died when she was cutting her first teeth.

Fisher estimates their period at 10,000 years ago, although by one scientific index they would be placed 25,000 years back.

Death of Father Held Accident, Girl Faints

Disturbed by the verdict of a Coroner's jury holding her father's death accidental, Sadie Schnitzer, 19, of 1331 Reedsdale street, fainted when leaving the Coroner's office today and rolled down six steps. She was able to go home after being treated for bruises by the matron.

Witnesses testified the girl's father, Samuel Schnitzer, 53, a tailor, while running for a street car at Reedsdale and Manhattan streets, September 2, struck the side of an automobile driven by Joseph P. Stack, 326 Maple terrace, and was injured fatally. Stack was exonerated.

Miss Schnitzer once interrupted the testimony by declaring the "truth was not being told."

ISSUE WARRANT FOR MAN AFTER FREEING CAR

While police today had "backed water" on their policy of seizing automobiles to collect for old traffic tags after a warrant had been served on one policeman and informations made against two lieutenants and a towing concessionaire, a Traffic Court warrant was issued for Attorney Alexander J. Bielski, who started the squabble.

Bielski's action had forced the return of his machine yesterday. A second attorney, Harold Herwitt, likewise charged his car was towed illegally, and had the machine returned.

Bielski had made informations before Justice of the Peace J. R. Schwerha, of Glassport. They were withdrawn when the city agreed to release the machine. It was delivered to a designated downtown parking lot. Fines totaling $48 on the disputed violation tags were dropped, Bielski said.

CASE NOT DROPPED

Traffic Magistrate J. Scott Morgan today denied the fines against Bielski had been dropped. He said:

"Patrolman Thomas Morley made repeated efforts to reach Bielski but could not. He has ignored 18 tags. So he towed in his car. There was no agreement to settle the case when Bielski was before me Saturday. I have instructed Officer Albert Florig to arrest him."

Morgan also denied a statement attributed to him by Bielski that Mayor Kline had instructed him to collect $75,000 in traffic fines this year.

OFFICER PAYS COSTS

Morley paid $3 constable costs while Henry Hirsh, of the Webster Avenue Garage, was to pay $9.35, when Bielski's charges were withdrawn, the attorney said. Morley had been charged with larceny and Hirsh with receiving stolen goods. Lieuts. J. J. Kirby and Bert Keller had been charged with obstructing a legal process, resulting from an alleged threat to arrest Bielski and Constable Sol Wingert on suspicious person charges if the garage arrest was made.

Bielski declared that his automobile, properly parked on Third avenue, between Smithfield and Grant street, was ordered towed away Friday afternoon by Patrolman Morley for the delinquent tags. Protesting the action Saturday to Magistrate Morgan, Bielski said he claimed some of the tags had been paid, but no records were available on the violations. He declared Morgan informed him Mayor Charles H. Kline had ordered his division to produce $75,000 this year and efforts were being made to collect back fines.

LIEUTENANTS ACCUSED

Bielski then made informations against Morley and Hirsh on "John Doe" warrants, he said. The former was served but Bielski charged the lieutenants prevented the arrest of Hirsh Saturday afternoon. He then made informations against Keller and Kirby, he said. Backed with assurance that the District Attorney's office would provide county detectives to prevent interference at the garage today, Bielski said, Assistant City Solicitor Oscar Taylor sought settlement of the case yesterday as the second effort was about to be made to arrest Hirsh. Taylor called his office, according to Bielski, and suggested the terms for withdrawal of all actions and delivery of the car.

Herwitt demanded his car after Bielski's action was dropped. Herwitt said a demand made to Taylor brought the immediate release of his machine yesterday afternoon, though no disposition was made of $148 claimed in back fines.

WILKINSBURG 'BROKE,' SAYS BURGESS

Wilkinsburg, Pennsylvania's largest borough, is "flat broke," said Burgess William M. Turner today when he declared he did not know where the borough was going to turn for funds to operate its police, fire or municipal business.

Supplementing his statement to the Borough Council last night that the municipality would be unable to meet its bills after September 15, Burgess Turner said today:

"I don't know where we are going to get any money. The loan we got from the First National Bank of Wilkinsburg is exhausted. We are not allowed to float a bond issue to pay wages and we will not have any money to pay for fire or police protection, garbage disposal or street lighting.

"But I warned Council several months ago."

The borough will face a deficit of $100,000 by January 1, 1933, unless drastic reductions in operating costs are effected, Turner told the Council last night.

Council will meet in a special session Friday night to consider plans for economizing.

CHILEAN FLIER LEADS REVOLT

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A revolt against the administration of Provisional President Carlos Davila broke out today. It was headed by Aviation Commander Merino.

Military air forces led by Commander Merino asserted they had the support of part of the Santiago army garrison and also of the navy.

This was denied by the government, which announced that both the garrison and navy remained loyal.

Col. Arturo Merino Senitez was dismissed from the Chilean air corps last March after he had attacked government officials, foreign diplomats and foreign business organizations in a series of magazine and newspaper articles. Col. Merino was one of the chief supporters of former President Carlos Ibanez.

COACH WINNER TO GET CUP

Presentation of the tri-state championship cup of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Chapter Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, was to be made today to William E. Epley, 19, 527 South Fifth street, Jeannette, at a luncheon of the Jeannette Chamber of Commerce directors.

Epley's entry in model coach construction carried honors to Jeannette and the local business men were to express their recognition of the achievement in craftsmanship at their luncheon meeting in the Sands' Tea Room. President Morris Kelley was to preside.

The cup was one of four awards received by Epley, a student at the Westinghouse Tech Night School in mechanical engineering. Epley received $25 cash as first prize in trimcraft, $15 as second prize in paintcraft and had honorable mention in the state senior division.

REDS HOLD 120 IN STALIN PLOT

LONDON, Sept. 13.—(Universal.)—The Central News Agency today reported from Warsaw that 120 persons, including officers of the Soviet army, had been arrested in Moscow for plotting the assassination of Josef Stalin, red dictator.

Gen. Voroshiloff, war commissar, was said by the agency to be implicated in the plot, the discovery of which brought Stalin hurrying to Moscow from his country retreat. Voroshiloff has recently been mentioned as Stalin's probable successor.

"Increasing breakdowns in industry, the growing food shortage and mass diversion of workers have undermined Stalin's authority.

NIGHTCLUB MEN FACE COURT

Because they are alleged to have run the Plantation, a Babcock boulevard roadhouse, without workmen's compensation for their employes, Eddie Klein, Charles Wolfe, Andrew Gadavini, John Duffy and Al Steel, the owners, were held for court today under $500 bond each.

At a hearing before Alderman Edward W. Haas, South Side, the five were held on complaint of the State Department of Labor and Industry, following burning of Anna Burnahart and Enid Harris, of Murray avenue, when the Plantation was destroyed by fire in May, 1931.

Miss Burnahart was later awarded $6,500 damages; Miss Harris $482.

ACTION URGED ON GARBAGE

Immediate authorization of advertisements for contracts for collection of garbage and rubbish next year was asked of City Council today by Dr. Charles B. Maits, health director.

Several firms, including the Harper Brothers Disposal Company, of Cleveland; H. B. Walters Company, of Columbus, O., and the Richards-Kelly Company, of Philadelphia, have signified their intention of bidding, Dr. Maits said.

The present contracts, held by the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company, expire December 31. Dr. Maits said he would advertise for contracts for one, two and three-year terms.

Asking Council for immediate consideration of the problem, Dr. Maits said:

"Because of the fact we will have competitive bidding this year, I am sure hundreds of thousands of dollars might be saved the taxpayers."

STATE HISTORY GROUPS JOIN

An effort to co-ordinate the work of Pennsylvania historical research will be made when members of historical societies from all sections of the state meet Thursday, Friday and Saturday at State College. The convention is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies and the Pennsylvania State Historical Commission.

Robert M. Ewing, of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, will represent Pittsburgh at the convention. Dr. John W. Oliver, Nathan Shappee and Randolph C. Downes, all of the University of Pittsburgh, will speak.

Washington Painting By Stuart Revealed

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A painting of George Washington, described as the first President's favorite portrait of himself, has come into the possession of Joseph Field, of Chicago, it was learned today.

The portrait, painted by Gilbert Stuart, was given to John Jacobs, of Chester County, Pa., by Washington, and remained in the Jacobs family for 125 years.

Independent Outing Events Arranged

Boxing bouts, dancing and parodies on political oratory will feature the program of tomorrow's first annual Independent outing in Spreading Oak Grove, South Park, announced last night by Ralph H. Smith, general chairman.

At least 2,000 "Independent" workers in past campaigns are expected, from all parts of the county.

2 Injured in Crash Of Auto and Trolley

Two men are in a serious condition in the Rochester General Hospital today from injuries suffered in a street car-automobile crash on the Monaca-Rochester road near Rochester shortly before midnight. They are John Patterson, 46, and Sam Crum, both of Adams street extension, Rochester.

Aged Woman Killed On Rail Crossing

Mrs. Palma Funicello, 70, of 1 Higden street, was killed when struck by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train at Tecumseh street, Hazelwod, late yesterday. The aged victim was crossing the tracks when struck. She was pronounced dead at Homeopathic Hospital.

Store's Warehouse Damaged by Flames

Damage estimated at $300 resulted last night from a fire in a one-story corrugated sheetiron building of May-Stern & Company, at East Lacock and Hope streets. The structure, in which mattresses were stored, adjoined the company's brick warehouse. The cause was not determined.

3 Women and Man File Divorce Suits

2 Die in Flames, Firebug Blamed

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Police suspect a firebug started a tenement house blaze which killed Mrs. Rose La Biraba, 43, and Charle Da Gavonni, 5, early this morning. Five others were injured.

FOUR FLEE FIRE IN CURTISVILLE

Four persons fled to safety in night attire through smoke-filled hallways early today when flames swept through their apartment in a three-story brick building at mine No. 2, Curtisville, with an estimated loss of $20,000. Awakened by smoke, Morris Kaufmann 23, aroused members of his family, including his mother, Emma, 60, and escorted them from the building.

The blaze started in the basement of the building housing a barber shop on the ground floor and a general merchandise store on the second floor. The Kaufmanns lived on the third floor. Lack of water hampered firemen summoned from Cheswick and Culmerville.

HEARING ASKED BY FARMERS

An early conference to discuss alleged interference with farmers occupying sidewalk space at the North Side Market House was asked of Council today by members of the Farmers' Protective Association.

In a petition counsel for the appellants asserts the farmers are a benefit to the location and serve a genuine need in the North Side community. Should the conference be obtained, it was said the farmers would ask councilmen why efforts have been made to prevent their selling produce after 11 a. m. daily.

President John S. Herron said the hearing would be granted soon.

GIRL ACCUSED BY CLERIC HELD

Mary Howard, 19-year-old blonde, of 4617 Carlton street, was held for court on a robbery charge by Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court today.

The Rev. I. S. Hawn, retired minister of the Reformed Church, 124 South Negley avenue, pointed her out as the young woman, who, from an automobile, watched two male companions rob him of $52 in Kirkwood street the night of September 5. Miss Howard denied the charge, testifying she was with friends at a camp in Oakmont at the time.

Gilbert Martin, of 809 Warrington avenue, arrested with the girl, was discharged when Hr. Hawn was unable to identify him.

Engineer Beaten And Robbed of $24

Walter O'Donnell, 46, of 512 Cedar avenue, a stationary engineer employed on the Mt. Washington road construction job at South Fourth and Manor streets, was in South Side Hospital today with a fractured nose and a possible fracture of the skull inflicted by a Negro who robbed him of $24.

O'Donnell and the Negro were said by police to have been drinking. As they chatted the Negro slugged O'Donnell, and took his cash, according to police.

HOOVER WORDS USED IN B. E. F. REPORT

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—One very interesting thought occurs in connection with Attorney General Mitchell's extraordinary report on the eviction of the bonus army from Washington, and that is that the Department of Justice wasted a lot of time—from July 28 to September 9—ascertaining a lot of facts which PRESIDENT HOOVER KNEW ALREADY!

What a lot of misdirected effort! Here's the Attorney General of the United States compiling a report in September to establish information which Mr. Hoover knew 43 days earlier, and which the Attorney General—if he reads the daily newspapers—must have known that President Hoover knew.

PROBE ORDERED

Mr. Mitchell prefaces his report by stating explicitly:

"Immediately following the riot by the so-called bonus army on July 28, you directed that an investigation and report thereon be made in this department."

That is to say, that Attorney General Mitchell was directed to make his investigation subsequent to July 28, and that thereupon with great diligence he labored for some 40 days on the task.

The nub of his report is contained in one sentence—a deadly and devastating sentence, if it were true. That sentence, on page one of his report is this:

"A considerable number of the marchers were not in military service during the World War."

FORTY DAYS LATE

It took the Attorney General's vast machinery of espionage 40 days or so to establish that fact, a fact that might have been ascertained from a White House "hand-out" issued on July 29.

And even stranger, for not only could the Attorney General have ascertained the nub of his report of September 9, from the official White House "hand-out" of July 28—the day of the raid, mind you—but that hand-out was issued not only in the name of the President, but of Attorney General Mitchell too.

In that official White House "hand-out" of July 28 appears this sentence:

"An examination of a large number of names discloses the fact THAT A CONSIDERABLE PART of those remaining ARE NOT VETERANS."

As Attorney General Mitchell puts it, 40 some days later, after a most scrutinizing investigation:

"A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF THE MARCHERS WERE NOT IN MILITARY SERVICE DURING THE WORLD WAR."

Note the use, in both the statement of July 28 and September 9, of that word "CONSIDERABLE."

Mr. Mitchell had to take 40 days to make an investigation, but not Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover knows things by intuition. President Hoover's mind might even be said to work on the Lewis Carroll plan.

"'What sort of things do you remember best?' Alice ventured to ask.

'Oh, things that happened the week after next.' Queen replied in a careless tone.'"

B. E. F. WOMEN WIN PRAISE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(Universal.)—What sort of women followed men into the mud of Anacostia flats? What sort of women lived among what Attorney General Mitchell believes probably "the greatest aggregation of criminals that had ever been assembled in the city at any one time?"

Decent women, housewives, mothers. They composed the majority, the big majority, of women with the bonus army, Lieut. Rhoda Milliken, of the Women's Bureau of the Washington Police, said today.

The bureau, Lieut. Milliken said, appealed to relief agencies in an effort to care for the women and children, and to contact each family with an agency in the event of the disbanding of the army. She succeeded in contacting only 95 women, she said, because many of the organization appealed to feared their aid might be misinterpreted.

Legion 'Dugouts' Raided for Liquor

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—In a major offensive against alleged liquor dispensing "dugouts" set up to catch American Legion convention patronage, W. K. Newell, federal prohibition administrator, last night announced that in one of four places raided, 434 pints of moonshine, 10 gallons of liquor in jugs, 76 gallons of alcohol, more than 60 quarts of gin and 21 quarts of wine were seized.

This haul resulted from a raid on the "dugout" headquarters of the 18th Engineers. Other professed "soft drink" concessions raided were the 6th Artillery, 42nd Division and the Rose City (Portland) entertainment camp.

Mackey Withdraws From Congress Race

HARRISBURG, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Harry A. Mackey, former Mayor of Philadelphia, has filed withdrawal papers in the State Bureau of Elections as a candidate for the House from the Twenty-second District of Philadelphia.

Defeated for the Republican nomination, Mackey procured enough votes on the prohibition and liberal tickets to have his name on the ballot.

HOOVER AWAITS LEGION ACTION

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—President Hoover intends to make his stand against excessive relief to World War veterans and payments of the bonus a major issue in his campaign for re-election, it is learned.

It was with this purpose, those close to him say, that he directed and had published the result of an investigation by Attorney General Mitchell, charging that large numbers of the B. E. F. were criminals or Communists.

It is pointed out, however, that Hoover's plan depends on the action of the American Legion convention, now meeting in Portland, and the general reaction throughout the country to his blast against the veterans.

The President will insist, it was said, that only veterans who are willing to certify to a "pauper's clause" shall be entitled to relief.

Stevens Praises Legion Auxiliary

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Reporting the American Legion auxiliary had been faced with the most difficult year in its history and forced to fight to maintain every point of its program, Mrs. Frederick C. Williams, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., its president, said in her annual report today the organization had responded ably and was in a stronger position than ever.

Her statement was seconded by Henry L. Stevens, Jr., national commander of the legion, who declared in greeting the auxiliary that "the support of the women has made the American Legion the greatest force for good today."

Phila. May Delay School Term Again

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Opening of Philadelphia schools may be further postponed, health officials intimated today, as two additional deaths and 11 new cases of infantile paralysis were reported.

NOWAK FUNERAL SERVICES SET

Funeral services for Martin J. Nowak, of 902 North Canal street, former athlete and overseas soldier, who died Sunday in the Allegheny General Hospital, will be held Thursday morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church, North Side.

Mr. Nowak

Mr. Nowak lived in Pittsburgh all his life. In his youth, he was well known as a football and baseball player on local teams. Joining the army in 1916, he saw service on the Mexican border and in France. He was a member of McKinley Post, 111th Infantry, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Mary Nowak; one brother, Benjamin, and two sisters, Mrs. Bertha Flora, and Mrs. Stella Dzubinski.

19 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

TEXT OF PENNA. VETS' REBUKE TO HOOVER

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A proposed resolution censuring President Hoover for the use of troops to drive the bonus army from Washington, which Pennsylvania Legionnaires assert they will carry to the convention floor here, is identical with one adopted by the department convention in Pittsburgh. It reads in part as follows:

In the glorious month of July, 1918, American soldiers turned back the enemy from the gates of Paris, driving him farther and farther until he sued for peace; turned a dark prospect of defeat into a brilliant noonday of victory; as a convincing proof, laid at the feet of the the immortal Lincoln, that "government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

'ALIEN SPECTACLE'

Fourteen years later, on the twenty-eighth day of July, in our own city of Washington, we witnessed a spectacle, alien to the pages of our history—when federal troops, moving under orders of the President of the United States, attacked and drove from the capital city these selfsame war veterans who such a short time before had saved this nation in its hour of need.

The American Legion is perfectly aware of the official explanations offered in justification for this act. For we had been watching with keen interest this most novel method used by war veterans under the constitutional right of peaceable assembly and petition.

We are equally aware that such methods are not to be encouraged.

These war veterans marched into Washington, exhibiting their deplorable condition—hoping a tiresome and inept Congress would hear their appeal. Regardless of the technicalities of law and police regulations they should have received at the hands of the fathers of the government a becoming syspathy and leadership—in order that they, hungry and homeless though they were, might have been inspired after the Congress had abandoned them to do their duty; to go home; to go back to their friends; to cease annoying the President and the good people of Washington.

GLASSFORD PRAISED

That they did receive such sympathy and leadership from that able soldier, Gen. Glassford—and we have out of the mouths of veterans themselves, the evidence of his kindly influence and their respect for his proper authority—is to his everlasting credit.

And when it came the time that he had to enforce the government's orders he went about his task manfully and unafraid. But in the midst of his own police operation he had his authority struck from his hands by the appearance of sabers, gas bombs, firebrands, bayonets and tanks. An awesome spectacle this display of force, commanded by the very head of the Army himself. Resplendent in his hastily-donned uniform—only less impressive than had he donned gold braid.

This comic opera spectacle of generals commanding battalions was a revealing thing to us old soldiers and relieved an otherwise deadly occasion.

The military operation must have been planned in advance with a sinister regard for its effect on the American people. For it produced precisely the impression which ordinary and traditional statesmanship would seek to avoid.

With the necessity to maintain law and order at all times and in all places, the American Legion will not quarrel; for it is to maintain this principle that we exist.

HARRASSED VETERANS

On the night these harrassed and hungry veterans straggled along the roads out of Washington, leaving behind their food and pitiful belongings which had suffered the flames of war, no rations from a well-equipped army were offered them; no medical corps moved along the line seeking out the possible injured; and no spring ploughing awaited these men—that they might do homage to the god of seasons and with a new pride—eat, in the midst of plenty.

We of the American Legion have the privilege of our own recollections and when we witnessed the burning of the miserable little huts of our country's one-time defenders, even in the face of that exultant boast, "Mac did a good job today," we remembered instantly that other day when we marched into the enemy's country in Germany, but we never did such a thing as this.

If the lurid flames of this Roman holiday reflected against the cold, white face of Abraham Lincoln, seated eternally in his nearby memorial, could but blush into the blood of life, he would rise in the night and majesty of his God-annointed love—and render judgment against those who do insult to the loyal impulses of our people.

Therefore, it is the opinion of American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania, that the President of the United States, being charged with high duties over and beyond the execution of the law, handled the whole situation in a regrettable manner which contributed to this said incident.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

In the lobby, the foyer, the aisles of the Nixon last night there was a jam—such a jam as only a premier of a musical comedy or a revue or the Follies can cause in Pittsburgh. There was even a crowd on the sidewalks, of spectators, to see ticket-holders for "Humpty-Dumpty," the opening show of the season.

For so early in the fall, the "400" representation was good. Many probably preferred to wait until the show has been cut down.

In the one belated intermission I had a glimpse of the Alan Magee Scaifes and the junior W. W. Blairs smoking and chatting in the crowded foyer.

Mrs. Scaife chose a dinner gown of heavy cream lace with a cape of the same material, edged in mink, and Mrs. Blair wore ruby-red satin.

Seen at Premier

One of the smartest looking women there was tall, slender Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, who wore a fitted gown of black chiffon having long sleeves banded in white. And her black bobbed tresses were finished in the back with two rows of neat curls.

Young Martha Yost looked most attractive in a scarlet georgette frock having a cape collar, and Betty Harris looked quaint in a vivid orange-red crepe frock having cartridge pleating over the shoulders to the waistline.

Wears Black

Mrs. A. P. Woolfolk, I saw, and Catherine Suydam in ruby-red georgette; Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., in royal blue crepe with a bodice of dull red, Mrs. Charles L. Flaccus in shell-pink lace and a powder blue velvet jacket.

Mrs. Simon T. Patterson chose an informal gown of black crepe, and Mrs. Feliz Snowdon was in ruby-red satin. Caroline Crittenden's gown was of heavy cream satin, and she had a jacket of the satin having long, flaring sleeves banded in kolinksky.

Mrs. James McKay chose black chiffon with twisted shoulder straps of shell-pink chiffon to match that bow at the deep back decolletage.

In Black Chiffon

Mrs. William A. Duckham joined the throng during intermission with Mr. Duckham. She wore a gown of garnet crepe with a tier of the material set low at the hem-line, and she had a fascinating tippet of gray squirrel.

And the John W. Ritchies were there, as were Mrs. A. P. Brill in orange crepe, her daughter, Margret, in orchid taffeta, and her son A. P. Brill, Jr., the Albert Horne Burchfields, the Edward W. Gwiners, Miss Josephine O'Neill, the John F. Caseys.

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Miss Rachael MacDonald, daughter of Mrs. Orie Harper MacDonald, of Pittsburgh, became the bride of Kenneth Clawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Clawson, of Springdale. The Rev. E. P. Harper, pastor, and an uncle of the bride, officiated.

In Gown of Blue

FASHIONABLE NEW EVENING WRAPS DISPLAY NOVELTY OF DESIGN

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Paris is going in heavily for a new kind of evening wrap. It is the exact opposite of practically all the wraps which have been worn for the last few years—in that it is neither short, nor very long, nor is it wrapped tightly around the figure to show every possible curve. This new Paris wrap varies in length from a line that is between the fingertips and the knees, and hangs loose from the shoulders.

* * *

NEW STYLES and a desire for change—the usual reasons for a change in fashion—are not entirely responsible for this new kind of wrap. Often enough it is made as it is for purely practical reasons. Its length is one which keeps frocks from being crushed and soiled without the undue heaviness of a long wrap, and its ample width is designed with the full puffed sleeves and frequent ruffles and flares of this year's evening dresses in mind.

* * *

MIRANDE, FOR one, goes so far as to make her new evening wrap a classic cape—not one which is held close about the hips, but flaring loose. It is of heavy navy blue velvet, and has an added shoulder cape of the same material. A little upstanding collar is finished at the front with two cut-steel buttons.

* * *

B. P. W. Starting Year Tonight At Dinner

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Another club that is inaugurating a new season this week is the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club, which is having a dinner at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel tonight. The hostess is Miss Sarah Braden, research chairman, and her aides are Miss La Rue Hall, who is to give the vocational roll call, and Miss Bertha McElroy, Miss Nannie Fordyce and Miss Dorothy Stern.

The research aim of the club is to make a systematic investigation of the conditions affecting women in business and in the professions and to present constructive recommendations for the improvement of these conditions. The members will begin the study of economics and will make it their objective for the next 10 years, taking as their first step a consideration of economic problems and their effects. As its initial speaker the club will hear O. B. Hughes, of the Pittsburgh Public Schools, who will give a "Preview of Economics."

Barbara Nellis Becomes Engaged to A. W. Mack

Mr. and Mrs. John Ambrose Thompson, of New York, gave a reception recently at their summer home in Sasqua Hills, Norwalk, Conn., at which they announced the engagement of Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Miss Barbara Granville Nellis, to Alexander Wolfgang Mack, of New York.

Miss Nellis attended Mlle. Boulign's School in Warrenton, Va., and last winter studied music in New York. Her father, the late Edward Granville Nellis, was a former president of the Chemical Catalog Company in this city. Mr. Mack is the son of the late Alexander W. Mack, of Summerville, N. J., and of the late Mrs. Charles Kelly King, of Mansfield, O.

ARSON CHARGED IN HOME FIRE

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 13.—John Witchkoff, 37, today was held for court trial charged with felonious arson and arson with intent to defraud, following a $500 fire in his home at 317 Fallowfield avenue early today.

Dewey Cole, of Washington, and Arthur Jones, of Charleroi, were held as material witnesses.

Police and state troopers, tipped off a week ago, they said, had been watching the house and when it burst into flames after Witchkoff left early today they arrested him, they testified.

They said oil had been sprinkled over furniture and two kerosene containers had been found near the house. Mrs. Witchkoff and three children were not at home when the fire occurred.

MYSTERY PLANE FOUND IN SEA

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Raised from the Pacific Ocean by a fishing boat's trawler net, the skeleton of a Navy pursuit monoplane presented a problem for naval authorities here today.

Its wings gone, its propeller and nose snapped off and its fuselage ripped to shreds, the wreck was towed into San Francisco Bay last night. Navy headquarters here had no record of a missing plane. It was thought the craft may have been an experimental plane from one of the Navy's aircraft carriers.

Fishermen estimated it had been in the water about a year. When recovered in 50 fathoms near San Francisco, one bomb was still fastened in place under the fuselage. In the cockpit was a rusted flare gun with one cartridge discharged.

Girl in Hospital After Autos Collide

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 13.—Miss Esther Forsell was in Oil City Hospital today with a scalp wound and possible injuries to the skull following an auto accident near Rouseville. Miss Forsell was a passenger in the car of O. J. Wheeling, which collided with a roadster driven by William Ashton, Plattsburg, N. Y. Drivers of both cars were cut and bruised.

Water Restriction Caused by Drought

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 13.—The long drought in this section of Westmoreland County has resulted in one community's water supply being restricted and contemplated courtailment in others. Ligonier residents have been urged to cease using water for flower beds and gardens.

Enters Guilty Plea In Court, Collapses

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Sept. 13.—A few minutes after he pleaded guilty to obstructing a highway and was fined $5 by Justice of the Peace Eli N. Fair, Anthony Grewell, 63, Newcomerstown, collapsed from a heart attack. He was revived and, being unable to pay his fine, went to jail.

W.C.T.U. Opens 2-Day County Convention

In her address at the fifty-eighth annual convention of the Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union this morning, the president, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Gibson, suggested that history be read to find the reasons for the present economic situation. One of these reasons, Mrs. Gibson said, is that we are following in the footsteps of many of the nations of old who in their prosperity forgot God, and another is that after every great war there has been a time of spiritual depression.

It was after prohibition, Mrs. Gibson said, that this country became the greatest nation in the world in wealth and leadership. In refuting the charge that all young people are drinking she cited the 1,045,000 who have signed Youth's Roll Call. There have been gangsters, she said, for 75 years, according to an official of the New York police.

Mrs. Gibson lined the county up with the national organization which decided it could indorse no political party, but she urged the women not to stay at home on election day.

The two-day convention opened this morning in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. and was characterized largely by reports, Mrs. H. B. Littell, county vice president and the only woman from Pennsylvania who attended the national convention held this summer in Seattle, reporting its developments.

Election of officers is taking place this afternoon.

WOMAN ROUTS 2 WITH GUN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 13.—Posing as telephone inspectors, two young men who invaded her home, near Scottdale, today were driven out by Mrs. Mary Catherine Hoke, who threatened to kill them with a shotgun. She forced them from her home, followed the pair to a country road, and stood with the gun to her shoulder until they entered a car and disappeared.

Later she said:

"I would have sent a charge of shot into each one had they made a step toward me. I wasn't afraid with that trusty old shotgun as my nearest friend."

State police were trailing the pair through the mountain.

Doheny Library Gift To U. S. C. Dedicated

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—(AP.)—The new $1,000,000 University of Southern California Library, erected as a memorial to the late Edward L. Doheny, Jr., by his family, was dedicated yesterday. The library is a gift to the Trojan institution.

Edward L. Doheny III represented his family at the ceremony.

Mayor and Wife Hurt in Separate Accidents

DOVER, O., Sept. 13.—While preparing to accompany her husband to a physician's office after he had suffered a broken rib in an automobile accident, Mrs. A. C. Baker, wife of Mayor Baker, Boliver, north of here, fell through an open trap door in her home and broke two cervical vertebrae of her neck.

Mrs. Baker, who is at Union Hospital, is expected to recover.

Plans for Bramhall Nuptials Completed

Miss Charlotte Lewis Bramhall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Bramhall, of New York, has completed plans for her marriage to George Munson, son of Mrs. Edgar Munson, of Philadelphia and Muncy, Pa., and the late Mr. Munson, which will take place Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents in Morristown, N. J.

The Rev. James M. Howard, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Morristown, will perform the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

Miss Parthenia B. Ross, daughter of Mrs. Paul Downing, of Parland House, Madison, N. J., will give a dinner on Friday night at the Morris County Golf Club in Morristown for Miss Bramhall and Mr. Munson.

Current Events Class Lists Speakers

The Wednesday Current Events Class, which usually lists only one or two speakers during the season, will hear a number of them during '32 and '33. Judge Sara M. Soffel, who has been the club's regular lecturer for a number of years, will address the club twice, first in November and again in April.

Meetings will be held in the blue room of the William Penn Hotel, with the exception of the president's day, which is to take place at the Longue Vue Country Club on October 19. Other speakers who will appear before the class are Miss Gertrude B. Heard, Prof. A. J. Kostellow, Dr. A. P. James, Elmer Kenyon, Dr. William T. Root and Mrs. James G. Chalfant. The Christmas luncheon, a Pittsburgh day, and the spring luncheon are included in the season's special events.

Morristown, N. J., Girl To Wed Brooklyn Man

Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Daly, of Spring Lake and 81 Miller road, Morristown, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary T. Daly, to John William Sullivan, of Brooklyn, N. Y. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Daly attends Marymount College in Tarrytown, N. Y., and Mr. Sullivan attends John Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Jefferson Club Meets On Thursday Evening

The Jefferson Club will hold a meeting in the William Penn Hotel on Thursday evening. Mrs. Anne E. Felix, the president, who is a candidate for Congress from the Thirty second District, will introduce William N. McNair and Miss M. Blatt, the speakers of the evening.

Voters to Hold Membership Campaign

A drive for new members is to be undertaken shortly by the Wilkinsburg League of Women Voters. Included in plans for the season opening today are a silver tea to be held at the College Club on September 29. This afternoon's tea is marked by an address on "How a Lawyer Looks at Politics," by Joseph A. Richardson, former assistant United States District Attorney, and a musical program by Carolyn Hunt Mahaffey, contralto, with Beulah Taylor Marston at the piano.

The unit will give a benefit bridge at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel on the twenty-fourth with Mrs. J. W. Nesbitt as general chairman and Mrs. C. I. Bepler assisting.

M'CURDY'S COMEBACK TO HELP SKIBOS

ONE FAMILIAR NAME that is figuring more and more prominently each succeeding day in the news from Carnegie Tech's football training camp is that of Harry McCurdy. The former Skibo quarterback was entirely out of sight last year. He was ineligible and dropped out of school, but now he is back for his final year, and by reporting for practice in excellent physical condition, and with a very evident determination to regain his old job, has served notice that his name may once again be linked up strongly with Tartan football.

Harry McCurdy

No boy ever started his career on a college team under a greater handicap than the Monongahela lad. As a sophomore he was asked to fill the shoes of Howard Harpster, who had just completed three of the most brilliant seasons ever enjoyed by any modern quarterback. To McCurdy were assigned the punting, passing, field general and safety man duties of probably the greatest player Carnegie ever had. And from his first game, he was a stormy petrel. He was either criticized or highly praised. It was admitted he could pass, kick, handle punts, run and tackle, but his choice of plays was said in some quarters not to have been of the best.

IT WAS McCURDY'S misfortune to play his greatest two games on foreign fields. Against New York University in 1930 he was virtually the perfect quarterback. He followed that performance by giving a great exhibition against Southern California in Los Angeles, when he played through the entire game without relief while his mates were wilting all around him.

Then Harry's star again appeared to set, until he passed out of the picture with little noise. However, his return has pleased the coaching staff greatly and is viewed as being particularly helpful this year, for Carnegie's backfield problems must be ironed out if the Tartan is to be a factor in Eastern football.

OTHER COLLEGES THAT play the majority of their football games at night are following the example that Duquesne University set at Forbes Field last year in putting in improved lighting arrangements to give the mustomers a better view of what is going on down on the playing field.

One of the schools that found night football to be more popular in its district than the daylight kind was the University of Cincinnati. Encouraged by last fall's business it is spending $15,000 on a new lighting system.

Joe McCarthy didn't stop at the first warning he gave the Yankee pitchers recently that they'll have to treat Riggs Stephenson with particular respect if the Cubs are their opponents in the world series. Joe keeps drumming it into them at every opportunity. John Kieran reports that Lefty Gomez started to ask questions again about the Chicago hitters and Jimmy Burke gave him the old formula: "Give them a curve outside, and then turn their caps around for them a couple of times with a fast ball and they'll behave." But McCarthy seized the chance to hand out another warning about Stephenson. "Old Hoss is a real hitter," he said. "He hits anything and he hits in all directions."

One of the older Yanks remarked that Stephenson had been a dead rightfield hitter in his American League days, with Cleveland from 1921 to 1925, but McCarthy insisted that he's liable to hit anywhere now. Earl Combs observed that Kiki Cuyler had begun to hit recently and might cause trouble in the series, but McCarthy wouldn't weaken on Stephenson.

Riggs Stephenson

"A tough hitter," he repeated. "And, listen, with two strikes on him he's tougher than ever. He just camps right on that plate and you can't get anything by him. He's the best hitter on the club. Why, he carried the team on his back for the first half of the season. They wouldn't be anywhere if it hadn't been for Stevie."

The recent illness of Babe Ruth with a world series approaching recalled another occasion when it looked as though he would be unable to play in the title games. That was in 1922, against the Giants, Ruth was suffering from an infection on his right arm.

Babe insisted on playing, and did take part in all five games, but his famous punch was lacking. He made a single in the first game and a double in the second, but didn't get one safe in the last three contests, and for the whole series his record was only two hits in 17 times at bat for the feeble average of .118.

IT WAS A sort of family victory when Ted Phelps, the English sculler, successfully defended the world professional rowing championship at Los Angeles recently by defeating Major Goodcell, the Australian challenger and former title holder. For it develops that the boat used by Phelps in that race was built by his father, and his brother, Eric, helped Ted to train for the event. Phelps comes from a long line of rowing champions and expert scullers. Almost everybody in his family and its branches is connected with the sport in some way. Ted has held the world championship since 1930, when he won it from Bert Barry, also of England, who had taken it from Goodcell in 1928.

JOHN CAMPBELL, an engineer of Newport News, Va., has returned from Scotland with 80 golf clubs representing the evolution of the stick used in the game between 1800 and 1895. He also brought back two ancient golf balls, which he says were made of feathers and were the vogue until last year.

"These golf balls and clubs are to be turned over to the James River Country Club, which plans a museum exhibit," Campbell said. "There are only seven clubs in existence older than the ones we now have, and those are in the trophy room of the Troon Golf Club at Troon."

THE GENERAL OPINION that nothing but failure could come of the attempt of Al Banuet, national handball champion, to convert himself into a right fighter, has been borne out by results in a very short time.

Banuet, though just about the best performer of all time on the four-walled court, was unable to develop anything like the same measure of skill in the roped square, and is reported ready to abandon the idea.

IT'S ANOTHER CASE of a champion gone wrong in trying to play the other fellow's game. Banuet is only one more addition to a long list including Frank Gotch, wrestler, Rusty Gill, football player, Art Shires, baseball player and many others who found that making good in the professional fight game was something entirely different from winning success in their own sports. Banuet found out that what his friends had tried to tell him was true—that even the footwork is not of the same kind, and that while striking successfully at a small, elusive and bounding ball requires great skill of a sort, it is not the kind of skill, nor does it involve the same kind of judgment of pace and distance demanded in the ring. Neither does the action of handball necessarily develop the punching muscles essential to success in the Queensberry sport.

BRAND POSSIBLE QUALIFIER WITH 153

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

FIVE FARMS, Md., Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Jack Westland, finalist for the title last year, topped the early finishers in the qualifying round of the national amateur golf championship this morning by shooting a faltering 75 that still was good enough to total 146 and give him a lead over the field. Westland's 71 of yesterday and his par 35 to the turn this morning gave promise of bringing in one of the low totals of qualifying-round history, but he blew up on the back nine to take a 40. His card:

Out.. 4 4 4 3 4 5 3 4 4—35
In... 6 4 5 5 4 5 5 4 2 5—40—75—146

In second place at this juncture was Lawson Little, San Francisco, and Maurice McCarthy, with totals of 150. Little had a 72 this morning and McCarthy a 73.

Meantime, Wilfred Crossley, Dedham, Mass., a Harvard football player, had gone streaking to the turn in 33 strokes, two under par, for the lowest nine-hole score of the tournament to date. Crossley had a 73 yesterday.

JOHNSTON FAILS

Shooting a 78 for a two-day 36-hole total of 155, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, eliminated himself from qualifying for the third straight year since he captured the national title in 1929.

Watts Gunn, of Pittsburgh, beaten by Bobby Jones in the 1925 final at Oakmont, also shot himself out of the picture by adding an 81 to his 82 of yesterday for a total of 163, but Fred Brand, Jr., another Pittsburgher, was on the qualifying borderline with 74-79—153.

Denny St. Clair, of Kiski, and Knox Young, Jr., of Pittsburgh, tied at 76; George H. Flinn, Jr., of Oakmont, with 77, and Ray Babcock, of Oakmont, with 82 yesterday, were late starters today.

PLAYOFF TOMORROW

So far as the early scores indicated, there was no let-up in the swift race or any change in the prospect that nothing beyond 153, or, possibly, 152, would figure in the qualifying list. Today's 18 holes complete the 336-hole test to decide the 32 match play participants.

Officials announced that the playoff, if any, among those tied for the last qualifying positions, would be started at 8 a. m. (eastern standard time), tomorrow, instead of tonight. This decision was the result of previous experience in trying to finish playoffs in semi-darkness.

OLD TIMERS PLAY FRICK PARK

Homewood-Tresers stars of years past will gather once again this evening and meet the Frick Park nine at Frick Park, the contest being slated to get under way at 6 o'clock.

Included in the Old-timers' lineup will be Carl Stewart, Jerry Totten, Lefty Westerick, Red Gannon, Bill Davis, Harry Dunn, Chuck Waite, Det Rowe, Larry and Wargo Anthony, Hank Kelly, Ladley and McShanic.

Red Gannon will be playing against his son, who is a member of the Frick Park nine.

The championship playoff series in the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Church Mushball League will be staged this week between the Tabernacle and St. Peter's team. The Tabernacle nine leads, two games to none, with one tie. Tonight's game will be played at Morningside playgrounds and tomorrow's at Greenfield.

Thursday, the trophy will be presented the winner and plans drawn up for next season.

The final game for the second half championship of the County League will be decided at Enright Field, Wilkinsburg, this evening as the Millikens and Bellevue clash in the final contest of the season.

At present, the Scott Morgan club, of Homewood, is tied for the lead with the Millikens, and should the North Borough team win this evening, a playoff will be necessary between the Millikens and Morgans. Should Millikens win, the season will be over, as the Wilkinsburg club won the first half title.

Edgewood defeated Springdale, 14 to 4, in the first game of the three-game playoff series for the Greater Pittsburgh League championship at Swissvale last evening.

The Homestead Grays nosed out the American Giants, of Chicago, 4 to 3, in the third game of their series at Greenlee Field last evening. The final game will be played this evening, beginning at 6 o'clock.

EXPLANATIONS OF YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOONS: A GASOLINE MIRACLE—On December 8, 1922, 34 city blocks of the business section of Astoria, Ore., burned, resulting in the destruction of the entire district and leaving only a smoldering mass of ruins. Because of the tremendous amount of gasoline stored in underground tanks of filling stations and garages, a series of explosions was momentarily expected. But, paradoxically enough, the gasoline was the only commodity salvaged from the flames. FANNED 32 BATTERS AND LOST—Harry Ponas, pitching for the Holy Cross Boys Club, of Scranton, Pa., on May 7, 1932, struck out 32 batters of the Cathedral Club, yet lost the game by a score of 7-6. The game went 15-innings. Ponas gave up only seven scattered hits during the game, but was the victim of ragged and loose playing by his mates, whose errors allowed the runs of the opposition.

TOMORROW: A DESPOT'S WHIM

CIVIC LEADERS WIRE SUPPORT TO GIBBY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The moral and civic support of Pittsburgh's citizens today was officially given the city's baseball club, the Pittsburgh Pirates, who, in Boston, are carrying on their heroic fight to win the National League pennant.

The Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, through its president, Thomas D. Dunn, this morning telegraphed this message of support and felicitation to the Pirates:

"Pittsburgh Baseball Club,
"George Gibson, Manager,
"Boston, Mass.

"Pittsburgh baseball club is going to win the pennant. You tell the boys the Chamber of Commerce members are watching every move, and we only ask you to go down the stretch to the glory of Pittsburgh and your wonderful club.

"THOMAS A. DUNN,
"President.
"Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh."

The Chicago Cubs, under the leadership of Charles (Lefty) Grim, former Bucco first baseman, were in front by a margin of five full games over the second-place Pittsburghers, before today's games got under way. Each of the two contenders had 14 games to play. The Pirates banked heavily on four battles to be staged between them and the Cubs in Chicago next week.

George Gibson's team had won 14 of the last 16 games up to today in its magnificent drive toward the top. It will have to maintain a terrific pace to finish ahead of the Cubs. The local civic leaders admire the gallant fight the city's diamond representatives are making and they decided to show their appreciation in a formal manner.

CHILLYSAUCE

From New York comes the news that Billy Terry has been signed for two more years as manager of the Giants. Wonder hat will happen to Freddie Lindstrom, a rival for the berth?

The four-game series between the Pirates and Cubs, slated to be staged at Wrigley Field, Chicago, next week, may have some fireworks after all.

The league leaders and the runnersup will tangle in a doubleheader next Tuesday, single games being scheduled for the succeeding two days.

George Gibson will bring his club to Pittsburgh Monday after finishing the last eastern excursion in New York Sunday. The Buccos will depart for Chicago Monday night.

Lefty Grimm's hustlers this morning owned an advantage of five games; if they can be chisled down a game or two in the ensuing week the impending set at their home park should be a little world series in itself.

To date the Buccaneers have an edge on the Bruins in the season play, ten decisions in 18 fights have come the way of the Freebooters.

In the season's play the Pirates have been especially tough on the Giants, Cardinals and Reds. They have copped 13 out of 19 from the Giants, 12 out of 18 from the Cardinals and, completing their card with the Reds, they own 14 verdicts in the 22 fights.

LOCAL SENIORS IN TOURNEY

By TOM BIRKS

Western Pennsylvania has ample representation in United States Seniors' Golf Association annual championship tourney, which gets under way over the links of the Apawamus Country Club, at Rye, N. Y., today.

This the twenty-eighth annual championship tournament of the association and will continue through tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. The four-day session became necessary when 299 members of the association were allotted starting times.

It is a 36-hole test. Half the field will play today and tomorrow, while the other half tees off Thursday and finishes on Friday.

The players are divided into five classes according to age, Class A being comprised of members 75 years and over, Class B, 70 to 74 years; Class C, 65 to 69 years; Class D, 60 to 64 years, and Class E, 55 to 59 years.

DR. GREGG ENTERED

The Pittsburgh delegation is headed by Dr. George T. Gregg, of Oakmont, former champion. The Oakmonter has been playing fine golf, and stands a great chance of again gaining the title. He is paired with Robert C. Mitchell, of Siwanoy. Thomas H. McGraw, also of Oakmont, is playing with Albert A. Harrison, of Fall River.

John M. Jamison, of Greensburg, plays with E. C. Keating, of Upper Montclair, while C. B. Hollingworth and David P. Hudson, of Greensburg, are playing together. Tom S. Jamison and Attorney Robert Smith, of Greensburg, also start out together.

The annual meeting of the association will be held tomorrow night.

MRS. BLAIR VICTOR

Mrs. Eva Blair won medal honors in the Woschengo Club's annual championship tournament, which got under way at Schenley yesterday. The former city champion turned in a card of 43-40—83. Mrs. Margaret Curry was two shots in the rear with an 85.

The pairings for the first round of match play follow:

Mrs. Curry vs. Miss Clark, Mrs. Floyd Hadlee vs. Mrs. O. L. Long, Mrs. Frank Zwinggi vs. Mrs. Harry Evans, Eleanor Moran vs. Mrs. M. B. Callahan, Mrs. Eva Blair vs. Mrs. S. Morton, Mrs. Carrie Josephson vs. Mrs. A. G. Wallerstedt, Mrs. Harriet Masury by Mrs. Fred Friz and Mrs. S. E. Donald vs. Mrs. T. H. Stephenson.

The Notre Dame Alumni Association stages its annual tourney at South Hills and the local chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution hold their final tourney of the season at St. Clair.

W. H. Morgan won the medal in the qualifying round of the annual Hill Crest championship tourney yesterday, turning in a score of 78.

PIRATES SWEEP PHIL SERIES

BOSTON, Sept. 13. — Paul Waner's homer with Brother Lloyd aboard in the first inning gave the Pirates the right edge to trim the Phillies yesterday in Philadelphia in the last meeting of the two clubs this season, 4 to 2, and they were here today to open a three-day siege against the Braves. The Buccos scored a clean sweep of the three-game series in Philadelphia to make it eight triumphs in the season's play over the troublesome Quakers. Shotton's team copped the verdict 14 times.

Bill Swift registered his fourteenth victory of the season as the Bucs continued their drive on the Cubs. Swift was opposed by Flint Rhem through six innings. Liska and Elliott finished for the Phillies.

L. Waner started the fight by beating out a hit and P. Waner smacked the ball out of the lot for two runs. Doubles by Traynor and Piet added another run in the inning. Traynor, Suhr and Piet merged their forces to score the fourth marker in the fifth.

Klein's single and two errors by Traynor gave the Quakers a run in the third and they picked up their second counter in the sixth on singles by Whitney, Mallon and Heathcote.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—If you reckon the season's all over for our Washington club, there's a gadget loose in your adding machine. We concede the world series will be held more than a nickel's carfare from Pennsylvania avenue, but remember second and third places pay off, too, and we've got that cold scent of currency in our nostrils.

Nick Altrock

Uncle Nick wouldn't mind picking up that consolation prize for cigaret money, even though he only chews tobacco. And maybe we won't give the A's a grapple for perch No. 2.

As the newly married couple said, we have just begun to fight.

STEFFEN GIVES TARTANS HARD WORKOUT

By JESS CARVER

The old crack about the empty taxi drawing up to the gate of the ball park and the Red Sox pitching staff stepping out is recalled by Coach Elmer Layden, of the Dukes, as he worries over the carryings-on of his Red and Blue gridders, just three short days before their opening contest of the season.

Larry Sullivan

The Dukes are due to pry off the lid with Westminster under the lights at Forbes Field Friday night. So far, according to the Duquesne mentor, the boys haven't looked very much like the sort of a ball club he'd like to show off, even in an inaugural.

"Supposing," says Coach Elmer," an empty taxi rolls up to Forbes Field Friday night and our attack steps out? Then what? I'm asking you."

LAYDEN WORRIED

Brother Layden isn't kidding as he worries over the antics of his Dukes. The boys are not functioning as well as Elmer would like, and they are up against a tougher brand of opposition Friday than might be imagined. Layden is tearing his hair over the backs and Joe Bach, the hard working line coach, is struggling valiantly to whip the forward wall into trim.

The two mentors gave the squad a workout fit to kill yesterday. The results were nothing to send the coaches home to their evening meals in any sort of rosy frame of mind. Three more days and Westminster. Three more days and the touchoff of the toughest season a Duquesne eleven ever has been called upon to face. Three more days—and the boys are acting like they were planning to compete for positions on the Vassar daisy chain rather than an honest-to-goodness college varsity.

Is it any wonder that deep lines are beginning to form on the fair phizzes of the Laydens and the Bachs and touches of gray appear about their noble temples?

SULLIVAN SHINES

About the only member of the entire Bluff cast who looks like he knew the time of day is stocky Larry Sullivan, the red-headed quarterback. Larry is using his coco in calling the plays and is lugging the ball well, but other members of the team appear to lack the drive and zip that is so necessary.

Westminster, by the way, will not come to town until Friday afternoon. The Titans are scheduled to work out under the lights at Taggart Field, New Castle, Thursday evening, instead of coming here for a drill at Forbes Field.

The fireworks were touched off at Carnegie Tech yesterday as Jedge Steffen sent the Skibos through their initial hard scrimmage. The drill furnished plenty of toil for the linemen. The boys were kept at it for an hour, which, coupled with a strenuous morning session, provided the hardest day of action the squad has experienced since training opened last week.

O'TOOLE AT CENTER

During the scrimmage, two or three shifts in classification were made. Ray Tesser, who believed himself to be a halfback, was correspondingly startled to find himself playing an end, and Jack Croissant, who thought himself an end, discovered himself beset with the multiple duties of a tackle. Jerry O'Toole, who played fullback last year, was plunked over the ball and given instruction in center play. He shared the snappy-back job with Rudy Jones, Henry Dresher and Moscript.

Bill Carlson, who quarterbacked last year's Plebe eleven, was used as a running back and Tom Coulter, the hurdler, who has been innoculated with the game of the gridiron, received his baptism of fire as a ball toter. His comment after the drill was brief, but squarely to the point. Said he:

"There is one thing about a hurdle when it gets you down. It don't give you the feet."

The Tipoff

For four years, Joe (Fullback) Morbito had 'em guessing out at Tech. All the time he was bustin' opposing lines, chopping down ambitious enemy backs and wise-cracking all over the lot, and keeping the boys puzzled by the way he steered clear of the fair ones, cagy Joe was married. Morvoldi, as he was nicknamed by Max Hannum, told the boys all about it yesterday, revealing that he was married in 1928 to the former Theresa Holland, a Leetonia (O.) girl. Leetonia also claims Joe as a favorite son.

The executive committee of the Athletic Council of the University of Pittsburgh will gather today to take up the matter of football broadcasting. The committee will make recommendations to be acted on by the entire council at its regular meeting next Tuesday.

It would have been too bad had the tummyache developed yesterday by Johnny Luch, Pitt's big fullbacker, really been appendicitis, as it was at first feared, for it looks like Luch, along with another sleeping beauty at Pitt, Paul Cuba, has suddenly aroused himself.

Cuba and Luch, big, fast and with everything it takes to make great players, save aggressiveness, fiddled through two campaigns without doing much of anything. This year, both appear to have shaken from their sturdy frames the mantle of lethargy and to be primed for big things.

Rip Miller, head coach at the Navy, isn't going in for a lot of talking with his Middies. In the first place, Miller says, it isn't necessary, and in the second, the Sailors probably would not stand for it.

"I didn't have to go into any tirade to tell them about keeping training," he said. "All I did was to tell them not to overeat, get plenty of rest, and by no means to do any drinking. I don't have to worry any more about it—I know they will keep in training."

Miller, in his second year as head coach at the Naval Academy, will use the Notre Dame system of play entirely, employing an offense based on spinners and passes, with an occasional end run.

Enters Notre Dame

FULLBACK KEN STILLEY

Giant fullback of last year's Clairton High School eleven, W. P. I. A. L. champion, who has entered Notre Dame. Stilley, picked as fullback on the all-W. P. I. A. L. eleven by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in 1931, will leave for South Bend tonight. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

DON'S BACKER QUITS SPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Kaye Don, British sportsman, arrived in New York late last night from Toronto, and declined to make any comment whatever on the announcement in London that his sponsor, Lord Wakefield, had decided to participate no longer in motorboat racing.

"I do not care to comment on the matter at all," Don said. "I have nothing to say."

Whether or not Don himself definitely had received word from Lord Wakefield as to the latter's intentions could not be learned.

In his London announcement, Lord Wakefield said that his reasons for withdrawing his support from motor-boat racing, were purely personal.

Gar Wood, who recently successfully defended the Harmsworth trophy against Don, expressed regret at Lord Wakefield's withdrawal from support of the sport, when informed of the Englishman's statement.

"I am sorry to hear of Lord Wakefield's decision," said Wood. "Maybe some other Englishman will challenge for the trophy. I also hear that the Italians are interested."

Ruth Continues To Show Gain

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The condition of Babe Ruth continued to show improvement yesterday. He had practically no fever and the pain in his side, from an inflamed appendix, was decreasing.

Ruth is still in bed, however, and on a diet which has left him rather weak. It will be another day or two, at least, before he can be up and around, said his trainer, Artie McGovern.

It is almost certain he will not play in any more regular league games, but if he continues to improve there is no reason why he should not be in good shape for the world series, McGovern said.

Fight Results

At New York—Benny Leonard defeated Mike Sarko, 6 rounds; Eddie Reilly knocked out Jack Goldfarb, 4 rounds.

CHURCH SERIES RESUMED

The Crafton Presbyterians and Ingram Presbyterians will meet in the fourth game of the series for the championship of the Crafton-Ingram Church League at Crafton this evening. Each team has one victory to its credit, one game ending in a tie.

STILLEY ENTERS NOTRE DAME

By JULIUS LEVIN

Ken Stilley, 220-pound fullback of the 1931 Clairton High School football team, W. P. I. A. L. champion last season, has decided to cast his lot with Notre Dame. Stilley, who played a prominent part in bringing the W. P. I. A. L. championship to Clairton last season, has been working out with the Duquesne University grid squad on the Bluff and will leave tonight for South Bend, Ind.

Joe Bach, line coach at Duquesne and himself a former Notre Dame star, was instrumental in getting Stilley to enroll at Notre Dame.

Stilley's brilliant work for Clairton last season won him a place at fullback on the all-W. P. I. A. L. eleven selected by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Five schools enrolled in the Class AA Interscholastic Football Conference will swing into action for the first time this season next Friday and Saturday against warmup opponents. Two of the contests are Friday night affairs.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh's New Castle eleven will have as its opponent under the floodlights at Taggart Field, New Castle, Friday, Union Township, while at the Charleroi baseball park, Coach Steve Stepanian's Charleroi Cougars engage Ellsworth-Cokeburg.

Wilkinsburg, Turtle Creek Union and Monessen will start operations on Saturday afternoon. Avalon will be the attraction of Elmer Carroll's Wilkinsburg machine at Graham Field, Foxy Miller's Turtle Creek eleven pries off the lid with Pitcairn at the Turtle Creek Stadium, while Preston Ditty's Monessen combine tackles Belle Vernon at Monessen.

These games will help to put the Conference elevens in shape for the important battles to come later in the season.

Scholastic Notes

Coach Forrest Ford, of Leechburg, will present a light but speedy eleven in the opening battle with Springdale a week from next Friday. Few veterans are back from last year and the entire varsity will have to be rebuilt. Springdale, Freeport, Kittanning, Salina, Apollo, Vandergrift and Ford City are on the schedule.

Coach Moy Rubenstein, of Ambridge, has reduced his football squad to 50 members after several weeks of practice. With only six lettermen back, Moy's biggest problem is developing a kicker and passer. Capt. Eddie Gutowski can be called back from tackle to do the booting, but Moy is seeking a backfield man who can hold up the passing end.

Pete Wasovich, captain and fullback at Aliquippa High, is watching the workouts under Coach Nate Lippe from the sidelines due to an injured shoulder. The Ambridge-Aliquippa game is the big objective on Lippe's schedule this fall.

George (Ganzy) Benedict, former Duquesne University star, who is coaching Ellwood City, is well pleased with his squad. The former Duke star has made a big hit with the Ellwood City students.

Johnny Uram or Tom Rambo will call signals for New Castle in the opening battle of the season with Union Township Friday. Coach Phil Bridenbough is working with a fine squad of 65 candidates.

The linemen out for the Vandergrift High eleven have been given some valuable pointers by Joe Gallus, Ohio State grid star. Gallus assisted Coach Ted Rosenzweig before leaving to join the Buckeye varsity.

Bill Campbell's Homestead High eleven will open its season a week from next Friday with the Duquesne University Preps.

Har-Brack Union, under the coaching of Dick Williams, has a football squad of 92 candidates, four of whom are regulars back from 1931. Stowe Township, Rochester, Kittanning, New Kensington, Ford City, Butler, Vandergrift and Tarentum are the Har-Brack opponents this fall.

$1,000 GOLF SERIES

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—The first match of a series for $1,000 between Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrell, American pro stars, and Andy Kay and Willie Lamb, Canadian golfers, will be played at Toronto September 17, it was announced today. The second match will be staged here September 18 and the third at Ottawa on the following day.

RAY TRAMBLIE BEATEN

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—Young Stuhley, of Kewanee, Ill., boasted his seventeenth consecutive victory today. The hard-hitting middleweight outmaneuvered Ray Tramblie, of Rockford, Ill., in the main event of the White City boxing show last night to earn a 10-round verdict.

BOXER BERSERK IN RING AFTER KNOCKOUT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts, Pastorious A. C., McKees Rocks.

A right-hand punch on the jaw made a raging, raving maniac out of a young heavyweight fighter at Hickey Park last night and precipitated a free-for-all battle in the ring that gave the fans one of their greatest thrills in years.

Leo Clements, of Jeannette, was the actor who went berserk in the strange drama witnessed by a near-capacity crowd. He already had been declared the loser by a technical knockout to Carl Gross, of Braddock, after having been on the receiving end from the start against his straighter-hitting opponent in the second preliminary. In the third round a series of body blows sent him down for a count of nine. He got up and fought back until a right to the jaw sent him down again just as the bell ended the round.

FREE-FOR-ALL IN RING

The referee, Joe Zivic, began to pick him up, and Clements, badly dazed, fought him off. His chief second, little Willus Britt, came in to aid Zivic and found himself also embroiled in the melee. They finally got Leo to his corner and Britt began to work on him. He had all he could do to hold the big fellow there as he struggled to bring him around. Zivic took a look at the glazed, staring and unseeing eyes of the fighter and stopped the bout.

As the announcer declared Gross the winner by a technical knockout, Clements, who meantime had been doing some battling in the corner, knocking out one of Britt's teeth in the scuffle, rushed to the center of the ring and instinctively struck a fighting pose and then launched anew into Gross, who fought back, with the referee trying to restrain both. Finally the only policeman near the ring climbed through the ropes, carefully sized up the situation, grabbed Clements around the neck from behind and dragged him away from his opponent.

FIGHTER BECOMES MANIAC

Like a maniac, Clements wrestled and pulled and almost succeeded in jerking himself loose, but the policeman finally won and herded the punch-shocked fighter back into his corner, where he was held with difficulty. After a few minutes the ring was cleared, but the fog continued to hang over Clements' head in the dressing room as he twice tried to renew the fight with Gross. Later he told his seconds he was fighting Gross "next week" at Hickey Park. It was not until the show was over that his mind cleared up, and then he said he had no recollection of what had transpired.

Clements' purse was ordered held by the boxing commission, but, in view of the fact that he was not responsible for his actions, due to his condition, it probably will be given to him.

THOMAS, DATTO WIN

This feature really was the only exciting happening of the night. Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, outclassed Art Giroux, former bantamweight champion of Canada, and won every round of the 10-round main bout, giving the Canuck a severe lacing.

Johnny Datto floored Jimmy Dean, Erie Negro, for counts of nine in the first, third and sixth rounds and cut his right eye and closed his left, but tired under the pace and failed to finish his man, as he did Charley Baxter last week. The Filipino was an easy winner, however.

Between Rounds

The Paul-Pirrone-Roy Williams fight at Greenlee Field Thursday night is out by order of the Boxing Commission, which feared monkey business. Said it had an unfavorable report on a bout between Williams and Tommy Freeman in Cleveland recently. As a result, Greenlee Field will offer instead a card of six-rounders, likely topped by Jackie Wilson, local Negro featherweight, and Phil Zwick, of Cleveland.

McKeesport shows this season, beginning with the opener Thursday night, will be offered at 50 cents and $1, plus the federal tax of 10 per cent, or 55 cents and $1.10. The club assumes the state tax of 5 per cent. Harry (Kid) Wallace, of Philadelphia, and Billy Holt, of Homewood, are in the main bout of the inaugural.

Promoter Eddie Kapphan and Matchmaker Lew Raymond, of the new Arena on the North Side, are tossing a dinner for scribes, managers and friends at the P. A. A. tomorrow night, to discuss their plans for the season.

Tony Shucco boxes Charley Belanger in an eight-rounder. Al Foy meets Vincente Parille and Bob Godwin opposes Red Barry in sixes and Izzy Singer and Tony Walsh are in the four-round opener of the Max Schmeling-Mickey Walker card at Long Island City, postponed from last Monday night to the following Friday because of Walker's attack of boils.

Two benefit boxing shows have been arranged for the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock . . . The first will be staged Wednesday night of next week and will have George Fanka meeting Art Rodenbach, New York heavyweight, and Johnny Datto opposing Joe Marcus in the double windup of two 10-round bouts . . . Rodenbach is the former New York Golden Gloves champion and has boxed Arthur Huttick, Abe Lipschitz, Johnny Grosso, Herman Heller, Barney Baker and Chester Matin, among others . . . The show will be for the benefit of the Salvation Army of the tri-boroughs of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin . . . The second show is carded for September 28, under the auspices of the North Braddock Firemen, for their Christmas basket fund, and will feature a third meeting between Buck McTiernan and Jimmy Belmont . . . John Hernon is the matchmaker of the first show and Jules Beck of the second.

The Tony Canzoneri-Lew Kirsch nontitle bout scheduled at the Queensboro Stadium, New York, tonight has been set back until September 27 because Kirsch is suffering from an infected nose.

Frankie Petrolle boxes Barney Ross in Chicago Thursday night.

They are going to put on the Kid Chocolate-Johnny Farr thing again in Detroit, September 23.

Ray Hatton will box Eddie Judas in one of the bouts on the amateur boxing card of the Chartiers Council, K. of C., at the Crafton Athletic Field tomorrow night. Elmer Layden, Duquesne University football coach, may act as one of the judges.

The indoor season in Philadelphia got under way last night with the Benny Bass-Tony Falco show in Convention Hall. On Thursday night, Al Ettore meets George Giacchino at the Broadway Club, and, on Friday, Gene Buffalo battles Young Ketchel at the Cambria arena.

Arrangements have been made to handle another large crowd at the amateur show of the St. Peter's A. A. on the North Side tonight. Young Gizzy, brother of the Battler, meets Gene Pier in the main bout.

Funeral Plans Set For Martin Nowak

Funeral services for Martin Nowak, 49, former star sandlot football player, who died suddenly Sunday night in Allegheny General Hospital, will be held from St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Nowak played for the Devlins, Wittmers and the old D. C. and A. C. elevens and was a member of the St. Casimir and Sycamore baseball teams. He was a veteran of the World War, having served overseas with Company G, 111th Infantry.

THE BABE

He's the Grand Slam of World Series—Here's His Life Story.

—By EDWARD J. NEIL
Written for Associated Press

This is the second of 10 stories relating the prodigious world series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of his career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps last appearance in the classic.

BABE'S SERIES RECORD

| 1915—Boston | | 1 | 0 | 0 | .000 |
| 1916—Boston | | 8 | 0 | 0 | .000 |

| 1928—New York | | 16 | 9 | 10 | .625 |
| Totals | | 114 | 31 | 37 | .325 |

Babe Ruth

His name was Ruth, he admitted, George Herman Ruth from Baltimore and Jack Dunn's Orioles. A bit earlier Dunn had found him in an industrial school for orphan boys in Baltimore. The priest in charge of the boys' ball team had suggested diffidently that this youngster, already nicknamed Babe, was good enough to be a professional ball player.

This priest, it developed almost immediately, had been excessively conservative. The lanky kid had a pitching arm of rawhide in his thin-waisted, long-legged, 6-foot 2-inch frame and 200 pounds of limitless stamina. In his mind, schooled to industrial trades, was hidden baseball genius.

BECOMES HOME RUN KING

But from the very start his clouting ability vied with his left-handed pitching prowess until finally the first overshadowed the second and sent him to the outfield to become the greatest slugger and home run hitter of all time.

Before that happened, however, he carved himself a lasting name as a southpaw in company that stamped him great.

On the great Red Sox teams of 1914-1918 was an all-time outfield, Duffy Lewis, Tris Speaker, Harry Hooper. Harry Hoblitzel was the first baseman, Jack Barry was at second, Everett Scott, shortstop, and Larry Gardner, third base. Burly Buck Cady caught such pitchers as Ernie Shore, Dutch Leonard, Carl Mays, George Foster and finally Ruth.

EARLY SERIES HISTORY

It took the Babe a couple of years to break into the forefront of such company. In the Red Sox world series triumph over the Phillies in 1915, he appeared but once, as a pinch hitter in the first game Grover Cleveland Alexander won, and he grounded out.

But in the next year, when the Sox downed Brooklyn in five games, the Babe was a regular starting pitcher. In his only start he left-handed the Robins into defeat, 2 to 1, in a 14-inning classic, allowing only six hits over that distance.

He was up five times in that game and failed to get a hit. The Babe was still a pitcher.

Ryan in Chicago For Speedboat Test

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(INS.)—The vanguard of an army of speedboat artists was in Chicago today, preparing for the Central Divisional A. A. U. outboard championship regatta to be held here Sunday. Hank Ryan, of Duluth, Minn., former holder of the world speed record, was the latest arrival.

HARTWIG SHOWS PROMISE IN PITT DRILL

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 13.—Johnny Luch, Pitt's 200-pound fullback, was rushed to the hospital last night with what was thought to be acute attack of appendicitis, but Dr. H. A. R. Shaner, team physician, who attended Luch throughout the night, reported today that after a thorough examination it was fairly certain that it was not appendicitis, although the symptoms of Luch's ailment are similar.

However, Johnny will remain in the hospital for several days to recuperate and for observation. It is believed that his present condition is an outgrowth of stomach trouble he is reported to have suffered with last year.

SQUAD WORKED HARD

Yesterday found the Panthers in the heavy togs for the first time for their morning workout. Considerable time was spent in individual training and dummy tackling in preparation for a long scrimmage that followed in the afternoon session.

Doc Hartwig, 180-pound Wheeling lad, is making it difficult for the Pitt coaches to keep him on the second team. During yesterday's practice, Hartwig, who was playing the defensive guard position, time after time broke through the first string line and threw the ball carrier dead in his tracks.

It is no secret at Pitt that the terminal positions are in a weakened condition. Ted Dailey and Muggsy Skladany thus far have been favored by the coaches, but after yesterday's performance it looks as though Bobby Timmons, North Side boy, will make it uncomfortable for one of the two.

TIMMONS SHINES

Timmons is a lanky 180-pounder and looks like another Joe Donchess in the rough. Although he was a substitute last year and saw very little action throughout the season, Sutherland rated him as the best prospect on the squad.

Izzy Weinstock, sophomore fullback, was given the call over the shifty Heinie Weisenbaugh for the position left vacant by Luch. Weinstock handled the ball well, but his lack of experience hindered him to some extent in showing any signs of brilliance during the scrimmage.

CRAWFORDS WIN

MONROE, La., Sept. 13.—The Pittsburgh Crawfords won the final game of their series with the Monroe club here yesterday, 9 to 6.

OAKMONT STAR GOLF WINNER

Miss Betty Abernathy, of Oakmont, turned in the low gross and Mrs. D. A. Barrett, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, low net in the one-day women's tournament at Stanton Heights today. Miss Abernathy turned in a card of 90-5—85, while Mrs. Barrett scored 101-24—77. Other scores were:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mrs. W. W. College | 114 | 26—88 |
| Miss Anna Wood | 97 | 15—82 |
| Mrs. Emil Loeffler | 114 | 24—90 |
| Mrs. Violet Troutman | 95 | 9—86 |
| Mrs. Carl Van der Voort | 92 | 12—80 |

Mudhen Star Sets Record for Doubles

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Bill Knickerbocker, shortstop for the Toledo Mudhens, established a new American Association record for two-base hits when he slapped out a double in the third inning of the first game of a doubleheader with Louisville here yesterday.

The Toledo shortstop connected with one of Ken Penner's pitches for his sixty-fourth double of the season, exceeding by one the previous record of 63 in a season set by Earl Smith, of Minneapolis in 1924.

ALL OVER IN A. L.

YANKEES MAY CLINCH FLAG TODAY

Associated Press.

The opposition willing, today promised to bring the end of the long, dusty trail Manager Joe McCarthy and his Yankees have trod on the way to Pennantville.

Or, failing that, the Ruppert Rifles can lose and still sew up the American League flag, providing the Athletics and Senators also are taken for a couple of falls in the West.

YANKS WIN IN TWELFTH

The Yanks assured themselves at least a tie by yesterday's 12-inning triumph over Cleveland, 8 to 3. They scored five times after two were out in the last inning.

Lefty Grove was in fine fettle and the Athletics thumped Detroit, 7 to 1. It was his twenty-third victory.

The Brooklyn Dodgers gave no aid and comfort to the Cubs' cause in the National League when they beat the leaders, 4 to 3. The setback reduced Chicago's lead to five games over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were trimming the Phillies, 4 to 2, in the league's only other engagement.

The Cubs strove mightily to make it three straight, but they couldn't do much with William Watson Clark until it was too late. He was hit often during the early innings, but most of the blows came with two out.

Everything looked rosy when Charley Grimm's men came up with two runs in the first of the ninth, but Frederick's shot ruined everything.

CROWDER STRONG

Alvin Crowder was much too good a pitcher for the White Sox to handle and Bill Chamberlain and Phil Gallivan were just what the Senators liked. Crowder held the South Siders scoreless for eight innings and the three Chicago runs came in the ninth after he had eased up.

The Cubs moved on to New York for a doubleheader with the Giants today, while the White Sox had the New York Yankees as their opposition. The Yankees are scheduled for three days and may clinch the American League championship in Chicago.

FERRIS WOULD CUT OLYMPICS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP.)—Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletics Union, suggests editorially in the current issue of the Amateur Athlete, official A. A. U. publication, that the Olympic games be shortened and that personal contact sports such as wrestling, boxing and water polo be dropped. He writes:

"Eliminate from the Olympic program the personal sports such as boxing, fencing and water polo and the games will more nearly meet the ideals and the dreams of those responsible for their revival.

"This is the opinion of many men who have been in attendance at the last three or four Olympic meets and witnessed scenes in the sports mentioned which do not tend to improve the good feeling between the nations and the competitors or the spectators in attendance at the games.

"True, at the games at Los Angeles fewer such demonstrations took place than at previous games, but they were not entirely free from acts by competitors, officials and spectators which must be classed as unsportsmanlike.

"The Olympic program as it stands today includes too many events and is spread over too long a period. Several could be dropped without lessening the interest in the games."

Wood Pitches Tulsa To Win in Series

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The fight for the Western League championship shifted to Oklahoma City today after the Tulsa Oilers won two straight games of the playoff on their home diamond.

Charley Wood's three-hit pitching and the extra-base hitting of Floyd Young, Oilers' shortstop, gave Tulsa the second victory yesterday, 6 to 4. Young hit two home runs, a double and a single.

Occidental Signs Pickard as Coach

LAMASTER COPS SECOND WIN

BECKLEY, W. Va., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Wayne Lamaster, Charleston southpaw, won his second game of the Middle Atlantic playoff series from Beckley last night, 7 to 4, after pulling himself out of numerous holes that resulted from nine bases on balls.

The series count now stands Charleston 3, Beckley 2, as the clubs move to Charleston to play the remainder of the games there.

Three of the Senators' runs resulted from Lamasters' batting, one coming on a sacrifice and two on a single with the bases loaded. His teammates meanwhile backed up his pitching by stranding 14 Black Knights on the bases.

Crist's triple and Byrd's single gave Charleston its first run in the second inning. Beckley tied it up in the third as Chiozza tripled and scored on Harris' fly to right. In the fourth Charleston regained the lead as Whitlock walked, Crist and Byrd singled and Chiozza messed up Johnson's grounder with the bases full. Byrd tripled in the sixth with one down and scored on Lamaster's squeeze bunt.

Longnecker opened Charleston's seventh with a single and was scored by Dan Boone, who rapped the ball over the fence for his fourth homer of the series. A single by Tyler, two bases on balls and Lamaster's single brought in two more tallies.

Beckley made an unsuccessful effort to grab the lead in the seventh, when Groseclose singled to center, Rainey walked and Robertshaw cleaned the bases with a circuit clout. The score:

Indians to Decide Fate of Toledo Club

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The future status of Toledo's Mudhens today confronted the management of Cleveland's Indians.

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Tribe, promised to determine whether the Indians would exercise their option to purchase the local American Association club and operate it as a "farm" for development of baseball talent. The option must be taken up by Thursday.

Buffalo Voted 'Best Hustling' I. L. Team

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The Buffalo Bisons have earned official recognition as the International League's "Best Hustling" team this year. With the honor goes a cash award of $1,000 which will be presented to the Bisons later this week.

The award was authorized last spring by the league directors who decided that an annual award to the club showing the most hustle might go far toward making the league's games more attractive from a spectator's viewpoint.

This year's balloting developed only three contenders for the honor, Secretary William Manley announced, Buffalo, the champion; Newark Bears and Albany Senators. Of the 16 votes cast by the eight club presidents and the official scorers in each of the eight league cities, Buffalo received eight. Newark and Albany split the other eight votes evenly.

AVERAGE TEAM, POP SAYS OF STANFORD

By GLENN S. WARNER

Member, All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

Last week, in discussing briefly the football prospects at Pacific Coast colleges, I said nothing about Stanford's outlook for the coming season. Incoming material has been scarcer each year for the past several years, due, no doubt, to Stanford's high scholarship requirements for entrance, the relatively higher tuition, and to restricted and small freshman classes. The number of entering freshmen is materially increased this year, and it is expected that this will gradually improve the athletic situation by providing more material.

Pop Warner

Stanford's football team this year will not be made up from athletes who were stars in high schools or junior colleges, but very largely from boys who have gained most of their football knowledge since entering the university. They will be players who have graduated from the freshman teams and then were seasoned and further developed on the reserve or so-called scrub squads before promotion to the varsity squad. Very few of them were taken directly from the freshman team after their first year, and most of these have spent at least a year on the varsity squad before they became varsity players.

There are six places left vacant by reason of graduation. Both tackles, a guard, center, quarter and left half will have to be filled with players of little or no varsity experience.

SCRIMMAGE TODAY

Spring practice showed an excellent spirit on the part of the candidates for the team, and enough improvement in their ability to warrant a prediction that the vacant positions will be creditably filled and that Stanford should have at least as good a team as last season. We are hoping that it will be better. About an average Stanford team is all that our adherents can reasonably expect from the material available. With practically all of Stanford's opponents expecting to develop stronger teams than usual, we will have a tough time duplicating last season's record—which was nothing to enthuse over.

Most teams on the Coast will get their first scrimmage today, having started practice only four days ago. In these scrimmages there will be thrown the stored up energy and enthusiasm generated among the candidates since last season.

Last year Stanford played the West Coast Army just four days after practice started. It was the first scrimmage for the Stanford boys, while the Jarheads had been practicing a month and had played two games. The soldiers expected to give the college boys a tough battle, but this, their first scrimmage, the Stanford boys turned loose that stored-up energy and determination to such an extent that the Army team was snowed under by a large score. This simply illustrates how tough the first scrimmages are and with what enthusiasm the players throw themselves into it.

SPIRIT IMPORTANT

As the season goes on some players—those who have the right kind of stuff — continue to play with the same spirit they started out with, but many of the squad begin to slow up. They begin to think their chances of making the team are slim and that there is no use exerting themselves. Others get the idea that they have a place on the varsity cinched and that therefore there is no more use working their heads off. Some are content to be substitutes and others just aim to show enough stuff to get on the varsity squad.

It is really surprising how that first week enthusiasm and determination wears off as the season progresses, although it cannot help but be noticeable that those who keep it up are the players who get in the lineup in the final games.

Will Growth Be Resumed? Facts Reply

By B. C. FORBES

HAVE YOU doubts concerning America's future? Are you worried over the nation's ability to overcome its economic troubles and regain prosperity?

Facts presented last evening at New York Edison's fiftieth anniversary celebration are a tonic for pessimism and pessimists.

Mr. Forbes

President Ecker, of Metropolitan Life, pointed out that New York state life insurance companies 50 years ago owned only $171,485 public utility securities. Life insurance companies today own $1,850,000,000. All United States life insurance companies had assets then of $461,000; today, $20,200,000,000. Insurance then in force was $1,679,000,000; now, $109,000,000,000. Said Mr. Ecker:

"The general development of the country shows remarkable progress. Who in 1882 would have dared to prophesy such growth? Who ventures now to predict what our future growth may be? Who can doubt, in the light of our past experience, that the people of this country will be able to guide the business machine to lasting prosperity?"

Chairman Floyd L. Carlisle, of the New York Edison and Consolidated Gas, told how total employes have increased from 632 in 1882 to 48,549 now; annual payroll, from $391,000 to $90,617,000; taxes from a nominal amount to $32,230,000 last year, or one-tenth of the total paid in the last half century.

Today's president of New York Edison, Frank W. Smith, has witnessed all this phenomenal growth in his 50 odd years' continuous service. If he has seen such progress and expansion within his lifetime, what may the present generation see?

President George B. Cortelyou, of Consolidated Gas, after enumerating pioneer and later activities for the well-being of employes, activities which long ago elicited the most cordial commendation of President Roosevelt, aptly wound up the celebration by quoting these lines;

Men, my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new;
That which they have done, but earnest of the things that they shall do.

Don't, for a moment, doubt that America's best days lie ahead. We are in the birth-pangs of a new industrial, new economic era, an era which is destined to bring greater leisure, greater rewards, greater comforts to workers.

THE OPENING of the week saw the brakes applied to rising securities and commodities. It is well that quotations should not unreasonably outrun actual business recovery. After a stiff march, an army in battle halts to establish a new base, consolidate its gains, draw breath for a fresh forward movement. A rest will do the exchanges no harm. Nothing has happened to suggest a rout.

MERCHANTS REPORT more customers and more inclination to buy meritorious merchandise.

EDWARD N. HURLEY's Machine Company reports distinctly better demand for household appliances. Output is the heaviest in 16 months.

AMONG THE first things many re-employed workers will do will be to purchase necessities on the instalment plan. A very large number of homes urgently need replenishing. Instalment payments have held up remarkably well, instalment buying not so well.

BORROWING ON insurance policies has decreased.

WITHIN A month governmental-sponsored aid for home owners harrassed by mortgages should be forthcoming and should life many a painful [illegible]id.

WHEN IT comes to better times, realization is preferable to expectation.

Money Circulation Lower for August

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—A decrease of $34,285,932 in money in circulation in the United States during August is shown in the Treasury's monthly statement saying total circulation amounted to $5,691,976,332.

At the same time the per capita circulation fell off 29 cents to $45.56.

The nation's gold increased $112,958,484 during August to $4,086,565,292 making the total money in the country on August 31 amount to $9,244,395,478 as compared with $9,109,739,560 at the end of July.

BANKER URGES WORLD CREDIT SOLUTION

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A west coast financier, eager to quicken a revival of international credit, suggests that the United States Treasury accept war debt bonds, payable on call, in place of the existing long term fixed maturities, which were interrupted for one year by the Hoover moratorium.

Contending that uncertainty concerning war debts is casting a shadow over business, George L. Browning, president of the Seaboard National Bank at Los Angeles, in a message to this column, suggests "a way out."

Mr. Rukeyser

"I should like to advance a plausible solution to an already complicated situation. A panacea for economic worldwide trade sickness could be achieved by issuance of bonds by European nations to the United States. Each European nation shall give to America bonds equal in amount to its indebtedness to this country. The bonds shall not bear interest, as no borrower can pay interest from the earnings of funds borrowed unless the funds are to be used for a purpose that will produce wealth; and such was not the case with the war debts. The bonds shall be payable on America's demand, with the proviso that America shall not demand more than 20 per cent in any one year. The bonds shall also provide that when payment is demanded and required the funds received will be spent for goods within the country making the payment.

"Let us restore world confidence, world credit, world purchasing power and we will find the price of commodities will rise, business will prosper and profits will be made which will make taxes not so burdensome and will permit the liquidation of debts both public and private."

Mr. Browning's plan touches on a subject which bankers are discussing privately whenever they get together. I think they are perhaps exaggerating the effect of war debts on international trade.

As for strategy, it seems best for the United States to stand pat on the existing debt agreements, waiting for debtors to make any proposals.

Mr. Browning's statement about the nonproductive character of the spending of the proceeds of the war debts would apply equally to all war expenditures. Yet no one seriously proposes that the Treasury stop paying interest on Liberty bonds because the proceeds were not used to create wealth.

The issue on war debts is whether the cost of this international stupidity shall be transferred from the governments involved to the shoulders of American taxpayers.

Business

Trade Recovery Seems Likely to Be Slow

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RECOVERY of business from the depths of the depression to a point which will give reasonable wages and working time to the employe and a profit to the employer appears likely to be a slow process.

Two months ago, when rising security and commodity prices seemed to herald the end of the business decline, many persons thought that the subsequent restoration of commercial sales and industrial activity would be equally as rapid.

The general idea was that September would mark a pronounced change in business trend. New orders were expected to flood industry and to result in a marked recovery in employment. September is nearly half over and no such change has taken place. Recovery still is a matter of signs and indications except in a few isolated instances.

* * *

Higher Prices Major Factor

HIGHER PRICES for securities and commodities cannot be ignored. They do constitute signs that improvement is not far away, but they must not be accepted as identical with better business. Higher prices are indications that the supply of both commodities and securities for sale is no longer greater than the demand. They probably indicate that deflation is at an end. But higher prices are not synonymous with increased sales, greater production and more jobs.

Most of the recent declarations that business is improving have been devoted principally to recitations of the higher prices established for commodities, stocks and bonds. In respect to actual business volume they have pointed to only isolated instances of improvement.

* * *

Steel Production Typical Example

STEEL OUTPUT is an accurate barometer of general business because steel is used in some form by a major share of the other important industries. Steel mill output increased slightly in the week following Labor Day. Much attention was paid to this in discussions of business which appeared over the last week-end. But in nearly all cases they failed to give weight to the fact that the operating schedules of the mills for the present week show no improvement and in many notable instances show declines.

As near as can be learned from corporation executives who are not whistling to keep up their courage, the uncertain results of the steel industry are typical of those of other types of activity.

Up to the present the fall recovery has been smaller than normal proportions and new inquiries do not indicate any sensational gains.

It is perfectly logical to assume that the advance in commodity and security prices, coupled with the improved bank and credit situation, mark the end of the period of deflation. But the current business volume does not indicate that any sudden burst of prosperity is taking place. If anything, it indicates that the restoration of prosperity will be a slow process which may not be generally apparent until next year.

R. F. C. APPROVES D. R. G. LOAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized a reconstruction finance corporation loan of $3,850,000 to the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad to construct the Dotsero cut-off which reduces the distance between Denver and the Pacific coast 174 miles.

At the same time the commission gave its approval to an agreement between minority stockholders of the Denver and Salt Lake Railway Company and the Denver and Rio Grande by which the time for purchase of their stock by the Rio Grande is extended until December 31, 1934.

The loan is the first large construction loan to a railroad approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission since the reconstruction finance corporation law became operative.

PENNSYLVANIA OIL CUT 15c

The South Penn Oil Company today announced a reduction of 15 cents a barrel in prices of Pennsylvania grade crude oil. New prices are: Southwest Pennsylvania pipe lines, $1.57; Eureka pipe lines, $1.52; Buckeye pipe lines, $1.37.

The Tidewater Oil Company followed the reduction with a similar cut in Bradford district crude to $1.87 per barrel.

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Producers said today that decreased refinery demand, increased production and accumulation of stocks that brought the supply above the demand caused today's 15-cent reduction in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil.

Paying the coal bill simply by drawing a check on your account at the bank and mailing it to the coal company's office is another reminder of the great convenience of a checking account. The postman is your messenger and saves you many a trip to the cashier's window. Besides, it is much safer to deposit money in the bank and pay bills by check than to handle the cash.

STOCKS STEADY AS SELLING WANES

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—The stock market was washed down a steep incline by a torrent of selling in the earlier hours of trading today, but it showed some inclination to climb back, as the selling subsided after midday.

Losses of 2 or more than 10 points were about half recovered in many instances after midday, but the recovery was not well maintained, and the market remained highly unsettled. Selling was general throughout the markets, with bonds, cotton, wheat and other commodities under pressure, although the most severe recession was in shares where the break was the most drastic of 1932.

A wide range of excuses for the setback was mentioned in brokerage quarters, political as well as economic, but the explanation most commonly offered in conservative banking quarters was that the market had gone ahead too fast, and needed correction of a top-heavy speculative situation. At the day's low prices, the market had lost about one-third of the extreme rise from July to September. Chart readers explained that the market could lose perhaps half of the rise without exceeding the limits of what might prove to have been merely a technical reaction, although a loss of a third of an upswing might well constitute a good technical shakeout.

The severity of the decline of the past two days, brokers explained, partly reflected the fact that the market had recently become honeycombed with stop-loss orders. As it became apparent that a good shakedown was in the making, buyers stood aside, and the market sank so abruptly that these orders were touched off in large volume. Some brokers reported fair buying on the decline, although there was a notable tendency to await further news from business and industry. Within the next several weeks, the usual seasonal quickening of business should have reached its peak, and many traders chose to follow a watchful waiting policy.

August Cottonseed Crushings Increase

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Cottonseed crushed in August was reported by the Census Bureau today to have totaled 151,193 tons, compared with 59,377 tons in August last year, and cottonseed on hand at mills August 31 was 265,372 tons, compared with 61,279 tons a year ago.

Daily Oil Output Takes Sharp Rise

TULSA, Sept. 13.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended September 10 totaled 2,150,157 barrels, an increase of 46,853 barrels over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

BUYING TURNS COTTON UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 16-25 lower, in response to lower Liverpool cables and under active liquidation and southern selling. October, 7.50; December, 7.65; January, 7.70; March, 7.78; May, 7.91; July, 8.01.

Cotton continued active throughout the first hour, and at the extreme decline prices were down 23 to 27 points from the previous close and showed net losses of over $10 per bale from the peak of the recent upward movement. There was heavy general liquidation, and it was the prevailing impression that traders had placed a bearish interpretation on the election returns from Maine.

December declined to 7.56, a loss of 24 points, and at the end of the first hour the market was slightly steadier at net declines of 17 to 30 points.

The partial rally from opening declines was followed by a further reaction under renewed liquidation promoted by weakness of the stock market. December sold off to 7.51 or 29 points net lower with the general market registering net losses of 28 to 31 points. Pressure tapered off at these levels and rallies of about 10 or 12 points from the lowest occurred by midday on covering and trade buying.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 13.—Cotton, 4,000, including 3,300 American; spot in fair demand; prices 36 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.65; good middling, 6.40; strict middling, 6.20; middling, 6.10; strict low middling, 6.00; low middling, 5.90; strict good ordinary, 5.70; good ordinary, 5.40. Futures closed barely steady. October, 5.72; December, 5.71; January, 5.72; March, 5.75; May, 5.78; July, 5.81.

Rumania Ratifies Agreement on Oil

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Rumanians announce ratification of the convention drawn up in Paris recently for stabilizing the oil markets, but are asking a delay in execution of the order that arrangements between the various producers may be worked out. They have been invited to attend a conference in Paris on September 20 with a view to hastening execution of the convention.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The curb market experienced its severest slump of the year in active forenoon selling today, but then reduced its losses in a lively rally.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in, omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Millie Takes Valentine on A Shopping Tour and Spends Recklessly

CHAPTER XX.

It was a queer life that went on in the authentic Spanish residence on the hill overlooking the sea.

Outside it resembled its neighbors—other "authentic Spanish homes" set in generous expanses of lawn and garden, partially hidden from the street by flowering hedges and wells.

But there the resemblance stopped. It had no part in the community life. Young matrons with their good looking young husbands ran in and out of the other houses on the wide, tree-shaded street. Nursemaids with tots in sun suits and neat little girls and boys in pink and blue shorts and skirts walked up and down, talking and laughing together.

But Millie knew no one. She looked at no one.

There were two maids in Millie's house, nice smiling faced middle-aged sisters, called Jane and Jerusha. They adored Millie, and vied with each other to wait on her. Millie required a great deal of waiting on.

An elderly "China boy" presided in the kitchen, and prepared monstrous and beautiful meals, beaming with pleasure when they were appreciated, sulking and breaking dishes when no one was hungry.

HAPPY HOUSEHOLD

The irresistible Millie often prevailed on him to let her cook something special for a luncheon dish, or to serve for a midnight supper. Vincent adored it. The inevitable guests applauded, and it was fun to see Millie laughing, seasoning and buttering with a high hand. But it saddened Val a little. Made her think of the kitchen in the little apartment where Millie had cooked for Jim.

But you couldn't be sad very long in Millie's house. Millie awoke late, but once awake she was going every minute.

Breakfast for two usually—just Val and her mother. Vincent drove away earlier in the big car, to reappear sometimes in the late afternoon, sometimes not until the dinner hour.

Sometimes they dressed in the colorful, carefully tailored sport things that Millie affected nowadays, went to one of the public beaches. There they stretched out in the sand, under a huge umbrella. Others might sun-tan, but not Millie.

They lay in the shade of the umbrella and talked. Val, when she could get a word in, talked about her life with Aunt Julia, her plans for Minnesota.

FATHER WAS JEALOUS

"Sometimes I think you don't believe a word of what I'm telling you!"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. Val is left with a man-hating maiden aunt, Julia Macfarlane. Julia clings to the child despite Millie's occasional pleas for her return. Julia says Millie is not a fit guardian. Valentine becomes infatuated with Lester Sherwood, but they quarrel. She then is engaged to marry the more sedate Joe Carey. Joe leaves for Minneapolis, where he has a position as architect. Aunt Julia is opposed to the match and decides it is time for Millie to re-enter her daughter's life. Val goes to Santa Barbara, where she finds Millie in a luxurious home owned by a man named Vincent. Val does not approve of Millie's friends.

Now Go On

"Darling!"

"I don't think you do!"

"Of course I do. I think it's lovely."

"But you don't act as though it were really going to happen."

"Oh, but I do! All girls marry. . . . I remember my first marriage—"

"Millie, were you married more than once?"

"I? No! Just once—but it seems more—that is, having been—well, engaged so much of the time since. But you never take more than the one seriously. I was all wrapt up in your father. I could no more have contemplated separating from him—"

"You didn't, did you? Didn't he die?"

"Oh, yes. He died. Of course, before he died, we did have our little differences. One does. I never mentioned it to your Aunt Julia, but the fact is we were separated when he died. He was very jealous. I had a friend, a musician, a very nice man, who always treated me with the greatest respect, you understand. But your father had a streak in him that was pure New England.

"So—well—we happened to be separated at the time, but I went back to him when I found he was ill. Poor Fred. He said to me, 'Mill'—he used to call me Mil—'Mil, you've led me a merry life, but I don't know as I regret it!' You see, they like it. Don't try to settle down too hard with your boy. He won't thank you if you do. You've got to have your freedom—like me!"

SPEND RECKLESSLY

Like Millie. . . . Watching Millie, Millicent, Val wondered if she were really like her.

"My, but you're the quiet little thing!" Millie would sigh, seeing how silent Val was in the crowd, but when Val looked worried she just laughed. "It's just part of your charm. Always be quiet—and look lovely, and you'll marry well, never fear."

"I don't. I'm going to marry Joe!"

"Of course. Joe. But you don't mind meeting a few nice young men while you are here, darling?"

"N-no. But I AM engaged to Joe!"

"Yes, yes. But I want you to meet some of the men Vincent knows. Men that amount to something. Wonderful men. You'll see when we have a really big party. We'll have one soon."

Before they had the party they must go shopping. Hollywood, Millie said, was the place to shop. That meant a trip, and as Vincent had to go to Los Angeles, it worked out beautifully.

Val was glad enough to go. She wrote to Marjorie immediately, planning to visit her while they were there. But she never saw her.

"Say, Vincent has more money than he can spend. He likes me to buy things. Now say no more about it," Millie said.

VAL IS PLEASED

For herself Millie was affecting a certain bright American beauty pink and magenta, which, with her dazzling white skin and brilliant pink cheeks and lips, was undeniably effective. She wore immense polo coats of thin soft wool, sometimes white, sometimes palest faun color, over sport dresses of brilliant pink or dead white. To please Vincent—who liked tailored things. And to please

For Val, who was naturally pale, she decreed a complete wardrobe of delicate beiges and slate-blues, with accents of black to complement her hair.

Val looked, marveled at herself. She was suddenly as glamorous as Millie! She had never seen clothes like these before. Clothes, before, had been something to wear, something nice, but something practical and not too expensive. These things were pictures. They made one seem unreal, like a girl in a book.

"And I really should know what sort of things I'll be needing in Minnesota, because Millie is determined to buy me more, and I may as well get the right things. Millie says I'll need at least four formals, but I don't think so, do you?"

"The ladies of our social set in Minnesota," Joe wrote back, "wear mother hubbards and sun bonnets!"

And a little later: "Seriously, Val, we aren't too all-fired dressy out here—that is, in our crowd. Nobody terribly rich, you know, and most of the gang spend what little extra they have for shows and that sort of thing.

"You'll knock us all dead. Nobody wears anything very grand. Sure you want to give up the yachts and swell cars and all that your mother seems to want to give you for a two-room apartment and a humdrum existence here with me?"

She wrote back: "Don't be silly. Do you think I care for yachts and cars and all that? Didn't I tell you I love you? Isn't that enough?"

But she sat looking at the letter after it was finished.

It was all true, every word. These things that Millie could give were nothing. But it wouldn't do any harm to stay a little bit longer. As Millie said, there was no rush about getting married.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Katherine Gives Madge a Timely Warning

It was not Hugh's attitude, nor mine, that made me suddenly breathless at his perfectly natural request to know the location of some furnished house near-by, where he and Lee Chow could live until the birthday celebration. It was the thought of Dicky's reaction to this proposal that kept me silent during an interval which I knew must appear highly ungracious to Hugh.

The fact that I knew exactly the house for his purpose did not make my problem any easier. The Larches in which Princess Olina had lived for a most memorable Summer, and which had been the scene of the Brixtons' gay Christmas house party, had stood empty all Summer. It would be too large for two ordinary men, but I knew that while both Hugh and Lee Chow could camp and do without comforts indefinitely when upon one of their secret expeditions, both were luxury-loving men when at leisure, and that a large establishment would appeal to both of them.

But I did not want to tell Hugh of it. I felt more like imploring him to go a long way off—at least a hundred miles—for Lee Chow's convalescence.

A second's reflection, however, convinced me that I might as well "save face," Chinese fashion, for if I did not tell him of The Larches someone else surely would enlighten him as to the suitability of the place.

"I know just the place for you," I said. "For a minute I couldn't think of anything, but it has just come to me—I am sure you would like The Larches."

GETS A SIGNAL

"Isn't that the name of the big place down the road?" he asked. "I think I remember it. Do you mean it is untenanted? And is it furnished?"

"Yes, to both questions," I returned. "I am sure you can get it at any time. Mrs. Ticer is the caretaker."

"Then that means that a short notice will enable me to move in, I am sure."

"Give her one day, and she will have everything ready," I said confidently. "In winter time it would take longer, but this is warm weather, with no furnaces to be put in order."

"Then I will take it," he said, and I caught my breath at the imminence of the problem that I foresaw descending upon my luckless shoulders. "Thank you so much for telling me about it; but I knew I could count on you for aid."

I felt like a hypocrite for accepting the commendation; but, after all, I had been of service to him in the matter, and he need never know how reluctantly I had given him the information upon which he was acting so promptly. I was thankful, indeed, for Katherine's entrance almost as he finished speaking, until a little private signal of hers for haste told me that Dicky must have returned unexpectedly.

"Thanks so much for helping me, Madge," she said, "but I'm on the job again, and you'd better finish that interrupted nap on the front veranda."

DICKY INQUISITIVE

I took her cue, realizing that she was directing me to go through the library door and the living room to the front veranda, instead of leaving by the small study door and the side hall.

"That's advice I'm glad to follow," I told her, and hurried away, gaining the shelter of the front veranda without encountering anyone. I barely had time to ensconce myself in the couch hammock, and to look as if I had been there indefinitely, when Dicky came around the house and up the steps.

"You look comfortable—if sleepy," he said lightly as he came over to me. "Where's the household—what's left of it?"

"Doesn't it seem deserted?" I parried. "I'm sure I don't know where the remnant is to be found. Mother Graham with Faith, I am sure; Katie, I suppose, in the kitchen; my father—I don't know, and Katherine in the library."

"Don't forget the most important of all," he said.

"Jim?" I asked with an ingenious air.

"Why! if here isn't the original smarty with a party!" he said, bending over me with the air of welcoming an unexpected guest. "Welcome, little stranger! But let me tell you that you've mistaken your cue. I don't mean Jim. I'm asking after the whereabouts of that sterling man and soldier, "Maj. Hugh Grantland."

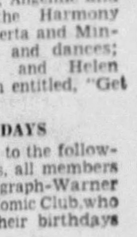
SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB



Almost three months ago, Manager Dick Brown, of the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, organized from among the members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club a Junior Komic Club Orchestra.

This met not only with the approval of the youngsters, but their parents as well, and at the time of organization it was hoped that at least 12 or 14 youngsters would join the orchestra. This, Manager Brown figured, would be sufficient for a good snappy dance orchestra. His expectations were more than filled, because today the 12 or 14-piece orchestra has grown until it is now classed as a symphony orchestra with 40 boys and girls on its roster.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

After the usual ceremonies, which open each and every meeting of the Junior Komic clubs, Manager Brown turned over the program to Miss Mildred Rotthoff, assistant cashier of the Rowland Theater.

Miss Rotthoff called all the children of the club who celebrated birthdays to the stage and presented each with a birthday cake. After the presentation the other members sang "Happy Birthday."

Miss Rotthoff then told the members about the plans for the meetings in the future. Next Saturday, you know, starts the fall and winter activities of the club.

More fun, new acts, new stage shows, games and contests for the members to enjoy. Each boy or girl who is now a member is urged to bring along to the meeting one boy or girl who is not a member, enroll he or she in the club. These new members will receive a membership card and club emblem.

The orchestra then entertained with the following selections: "River, Stay Away from My Door," "Sweet Jenny Lee," "Carolina Moon" and "Star-Dust."

STOCK COMPANY

Manager Eddie Johns, of the Arsenal Theater, is organizing from among the members a stock company. The object of this stock company is to rehearse several plays with different members in the cast so that the members of this chapter will enjoy a new stage show or play every two weeks.

Any member of the Arsenal Chapter who wishes to join may do so by applying to Eddie Johns or his assistant, Russell Nigl.

Saturday the members were entertained by the following youngsters: Josephine Lang in a song and dance; Angeline and Francis Kane—the Harmony twins—songs; Alberta and Minnie Fundi, songs and dances; Rinich McGuire and Helen Sherry in a skech entitled, "Get Your Man."

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Manor: Jane Miller, David Lee Christian.

Enright: Helen Cupps.

South Hills: Arthur Ihrig, Laura Robinett, George Harvey, Roy Maushardt, Dorothy Camp, Mary Jane Nickerson.

Exclusive! First Picture From the Stratosphere!

If you are interested in science (and who isn't?) you'll want one of these pictures showing the earth as viewed from the stratosphere. No doubt you read how Prof. Auguste Frisby ascended 10 miles above the earth in a balloon to make observations. Naturally he took along a camera, and above is the very first print from the very first plate just as he developed it. Prof. Frisby wants you to have one of these pictures to frame, for your very own. All you need to do is send the professor a round trip ticket, and he will call at your home where he says he can explain everything.

Now for a New Deal!

Changes in the Public Service Commission Warrant a Review of Local Rate Cases.

Appointment of P. S. Stahlnecker, Gov. Pinchot's secretary, and Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue, as members of the Public Service Commission, means that a majority of the board now are in agreement with the Governor that the proper function of the commission is to see that the public gets fair treatment from the utilities.

Up until Gov. Pinchot filled the vacancies the policy of the majority of the commission was to protect, not the public, but the utilities. Gov. Pinchot so charged, and the facts supported the charge.

In controversies between the public and the utilities over the fairness of rates the Public Service Commission generally upheld the contention of the utilities.

The Senate, controlled by the corrupt Republican machine, has been subservient to the unfair public utilities companies who have been plundering the people. For the benefit of these unfair companies the Senate has declined to confirm Gov. Pinchot's appointments to the Public Service Commission. It is not improbable that it will refuse to confirm the appointment of Stahlnecker and King.

That means that Pinchot's appointees will go out of office when his term expires. Their places will be taken, if the Republican machine should succeed in electing a Governor to its liking, by commissioners of the old type, favorable to the predatory corporations and unfriendly to the people.

Hence it behooves the Public Service Commission, as now constituted, to accomplish all that it can during the remainder of Pinchot's term to undo the wrong that was done by the old commission.

A review of some of the local rate cases is warranted.

There is justification for the hope that the people of Pittsburgh are to get a new deal and a square deal.

The Vice Campaign

It Is Reassuring to Learn That the Citizens' Committee Has Been Gathering Evidence.

Warned by the publicity that has been given Judge Frank P. Patterson's remarks to the constables, proprietors of many illegal resorts in Allegheny County have closed their places, at least temporarily. County detectives visiting the establishments have found them dark and deserted. This was but to be expected.

There would be some warrant, in the history of other campaigns against vice, for supposing that the present movement is a mere flash in the pan, and that in a few weeks at most the dives, the gambling dens, the speakeasies and kindred resorts would be doing business again. With the constables and city police indifferent to their running, if not actually protecting them, there could be no hope of interfering with their operation.

Some other elements enter into the matter, however, which raise the hope that this is not to be a mere flash in the pan. There is ground for belief that some of these illegal resorts will be put out of commission for good and their proprietors sent to prison.

It is encouraging, indeed, to learn that the Citizens' Committee has interested itself in the situation and has gathered evidence against the resorts.

There is encouragement, too, in the zeal that District Attorney Andrew T. Park and the county detectives are showing.

These things suggest that it does not make a great deal of difference, after all, if the detectives fail to get evidence in the current raids, because evidence has already been obtained that will make it possible to padlock the unlawful places if the proprietors attempt to reopen "after the storm has blown over."

A Huge Open Sewer

The Ohio River Is Unsafe for Swimming Because of Improper Disposal of Sewage.

The county medical authorities of Beaver County have issued instructions against swimming in the Ohio River. They say the river is full of disease-producing bacteria from the sewage that Pittsburgh and other up-river communities discharge into the stream.

We learn at the same time that Avalon has asked the State Department of Health to extend the time in which the borough may discharge untreated sewage into the Ohio. Sewickley and other boroughs are interested because, they, too, discharge untreated sewage into the river and may need an extension of their permits.

Pittsburgh is the principal offender, however, and if it could be induced to dispose of its sewage in some other manner than by discharging it into the river, the smaller communities could easily be made to do their part in protecting the public health.

The Ohio River in the vicinity of Pittsburgh is a huge open sewer, a menace to public safety, and it is high time that the city and other large communities on the river and its tributaries established modern sanitary sewage disposal plants and stopped polluting the stream.

Better Fishing

Thanks to the State's Activities, the Angling Has Improved in the Unpolluted Streams.

Fish Commissioner Oliver M. Deibler, commenting on the interest that Pennsylvania women are showing in angling, reports that Mrs. Myrtle Young, of Warren, has caught the limit of bass in Conewango Creek several times this season. Conewango Creek flows into the Allegheny River at Warren.

On July 1, the opening day of the bass season, Mrs. Young caught the limit of 10 bass in Conewango Creek before 9 o'clock in the morning. Her largest fish weighed 3½ pounds.

This and other reports of like character leave little room for doubt that fishing in Pennsylvania has greatly improved in the unpolluted streams. The commonwealth has brought about the improvement by stocking the streams and enforcing the protective laws.

But with hundreds of miles of stream contaminated much work will have to be done before fishing will be on a parity with hunting.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Love—And Other Trifles

Love is like honey. Once you have known and savored the real thing, the imitations not only don't appeal to you any more—they don't even fool you.

* * *

In a man's life, the first love affair is a sort of miracle; the second an adventure; the third a conquest—and all the rest merely episodes.

* * *

You may turn a Don Juan or a born bachelor into a husband, and a brunette into a platinum blonde—but they are always the same at the roots.

Love is that sudden revulsion of feeling which makes a man think that one kind of woman can make him happy for life—simply because he happens to be deadly bored with the other kind.

* * *

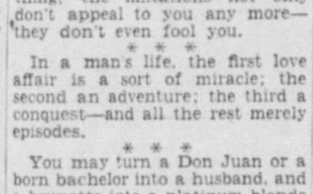
The only way to make the average modern man believe that he is ever going to marry, is to lead him right up to the altar and PROVE it to him.

* * *

One thing that not even a modern girl can understand is the ease and cheerfulness with which a man checks out at the end of a love affair. Even when her love is quite dead, she enjoys weeping at its funeral, and wants to give it the last rites.

* * *

Strange Interlude:—That period of temporary harmony which sometimes exists between two screen stars who are married to each other.



When a young man has just begun coaxing along his first mustache, he scorns to waste himself on any woman under thirty; but by the time he begins brushing his hair across his bald spot, he simply can't SEE any woman over twenty.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Dwellers among dizzy spires flanking all sides of Central Park have usually looked down upon an entrancing vista in the early morning. The park in the pink of dawn is a fairyland. Artificial lakes, wisteria bowers, and meadows slit by graveled paths.

There is the sheep pasture and its chaparral, the ancient herder and his faithful collie. In the center the thin pale upshoot that is the Egyptian obelisk. Clumps of greenery, rocky outcrops, arbored archways, and that elevated path that circles about the reservoir.

Too, the beautiful Shakespeare garden of flowers in marvelous landscaping, the bridle path with its gaily-habited riders flashing underneath quaint foot bridges, the zoo and its cluster of feathers and furs—all in a magnificent panorama for the city bound.

But that picture has been changed for the early risers. Today the scene is splashed with tragedy. In the park these nights an army of the jobless, the hopeless and beaten, bivouac there, moving off sluggishly when the first streak of light sifts across the eastern sky.

Most of them, heavy with sleep, slink to various entrances, look furtively about and vanish with the morning mist. There are many who are professionals, but the larger number are men, sometimes women, who are having their first experience with the submerged.

Amid Luna's witch fires of illusion was a replica of a coal mine. Its realism was enhanced by the presence of an aged, blind donkey from a West Virginia shaft. A press agent named it Pradjadipok. What Frank O'Malley could have done interviewing Pradjadipok for Dana's Sun in what I still insist was the good old days!

* * *

I stopped by one of the two remaining tattoo caves along the Bowery the other evening. The proprietor, with fiercely bristling mustachio, reported business brisker than a year ago. He attributed it to the desire of entrants into freak marathons to be tattooed. "Being before the public," he explained, "they like to be fancied up."

* * *

Incidentally, there is a celebrated tenor who, in student days, expressed a sense of frolic by having a heart of red, lettered with initials of his own and those of a sweetheart, tattooed on his forearm. Their romance dwindled and years later he read of her marriage. He was telling of a friend of their devotion in earlier years and bared his arm to show the initialed insignia of their devotion. But hers had disappeared into a faint smudge. Boo!

* * *

My Grand Central correspondent postcards about a little old lady buying a ticket for Chicago. The clerk inquired: "Want to go by Buffalo?" She sniffed: "Certainly not. I want to go by train."

A couple of paragraphs above was inscribed to the youthful sentimentalities of sweethearts. Nothing in this line touches the closing sentence of an impassioned love letter from young John Keats who wrote: "Before night I shall curse myself for having sent you so cold a letter."

* * *

Radio, curiously enough, has not only been a boon to at-liberty stage stars, but has in one notable instance given a passe stage singer a fresh start on the stage. So extraordinary was his radio success he was booked for 20 weeks over a stage circuit at the biggest salary he ever received.

* * *

There are many instances of new careers out of calamity these days, when so many are stressing gloom. A clerk in a downtown bond house lost not only his job but his 15 years' savings in the same bonds he sold to others. Two years ago when I talked to him he was ready for the river. The other day I saw him in a sporty-looking car of impish red. During the tedium of his long lay-off he had devised a toy for his child. A toy concern paid him $10,000 outright for it and a retainer, twice his bond house salary, to think up other things.

* * *

And, pardon the personal touch, but it was only after everything else fizzled I thought up this quixotic adventure in syndication. Not so much, but it's a living!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Did you ever see Helen Wills Moody?

You will not forget her face easily, if you have.

Her face is something more than beautiful. It is very quiet, and strong, and serene. Yet, when you have seen all that, you still feel that there is something more in those deep eyes which has escaped you.

But what else could there be in that lovely face, or in that lucky young life? Though only 25, she has already found romance, adventure and fame. Surely, she should be satisfied! And yet, is she?

Perhaps Dr. Will Durant was wondering that when he wrote a certain question and sent it to a number of famous people.

"WHAT MEANING HAS LIFE FOR YOU?" was the question.

What meaning need life have, save happiness, for that competent, confident young woman with the quiet eyes? Yet, back came this amazing answer:

"I WANT TO BE RESTLESS!"

Almost a miracle that the happiness and success which ruin so many young spirits should not have blinded her straight eyes.

She sees clearly that thing which some of us never see, which others only see when it is too late:

THE MOMENT WE ARE SATISFIED, THAT MOMENT WE BEGIN TO DIE.

ONLY THOSE WHO ARE NOBLY RESTLESS AND NOBLY DISCONTENTED; ONLY THOSE WHO KEEP STRIVING, KEEP SEARCHING FOR GREATER, FINER EXPRESSION, REALLY LIVE.

Helen Wills Moody could exist with every comfort in a beautiful home. She could go gaily from place to place, enjoying new triumphs. She could see and be seen by every famous person on earth. There is hardly anything which she might ask of life, which is not hers for the taking. And yet—

"For me," she says, "life is interesting, entertaining, happy, if only I can have some activity for the restlessness that is my heart. I want that activity to be ceaseless, never finished, and I would like to have it at almost all times dominating my thoughts.

"I WANT TO BE RESTLESS. I WANT ALWAYS TO BE IN ACTION, AND TO BE TRYING FOR SOME KIND OF BEAUTY AND PERFECTION."

There never yet was a really great life that did not turn its back on comfort and contentment and seek a hard, lean trail.

There never yet was a great thing achieved for the human race that was not bought or won at the price of someone's aching restlessness.

Restlessness! A gypsy song, whispering in the heart. A prophet's passion, pounding in the blood.

It has driven men and women away from cozy firesides and gilded thrones, into the hard and lonely places, into cells and laboratories, prisons and arenas.

But always, whatever the adventure cost, it was worth the price they paid.

And, indeed, that "constant search for some kind of beauty and perfection" is the only thing that does make life worth while. Without that, a human being might as well be a slug. Any kind of a biped can lead a contented life if you give it food and shelter and a mate.

BUT ONLY A MAN DARE TO TURN HIS BACK ON COMFORT, SAFETY AND PLEASURE, TO LEAD A RESTLESS LIFE.

It is the God in man that makes him want to do it—dare to do it. For the restlessness in a man that makes him search for beauty and truth IS GOD MOVING THROUGH HIM—God, still at His job of making a man out of mud.

Intelligent Voting In a Democracy

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The most damning indictment drawn against democracy in America by its enemies is based largely upon the charge that the people in the mass so frequently vote unintelligently, dominated more by unreasoning prejudice than by their own interest. The Hoover High Command is counting upon this weakness this year, as never before. That is the reason for the deceptive if not dishonest ballyhoo about the returning of prosperity.

Within 24 hours the friends of democratic institutions, who still believe they are workable, have had two reasons for encouragement. The New Jersey Federation of Labor has denounced the policies of Mr. Hoover and declared unequivocably for Mr. Roosevelt; and Mrs. Charles Sabin who has fought prohibition consistently and honestly has announced that she will urge the election of the man who stands foursquare on the platform for which the enemies of prohibition have been contending.

* * *

Labor Vote Is Given Warning

There is scarcely a single intelligent reason, based on facts, that can justify, not only the jobless, but the working class, in voting for "four years more of Hoover." The resolution adopted by the Jersey Federation says of the latter:

"He has demonstrated by his acts on legislation such as the vetoing of the Wagner unemployment bills . . . that he is not sympathetic to labor, and labor can expect very little from him if re-elected."

It might have gone much further and been consistent with the contentions of organized labor during the last two years. It has denounced, from time to time, Mr. Hoover's hostility to public building programs to create work; to his stubborn opposition to the use of a penny of federal money for the relief of the starving. It would have been strange indeed had the Jersey Federation of Labor locked arms with Wall street! and for Mr. Green to have paraded arm in arm with Ogden Mills.

Intelligence In Politics

Mrs. Sabin is an intelligent foe of prohibition.

Having taken a position on it, along with all other professed enemies of the "noble experiment," she follows her intelligence into politics and government. And having declared for the program, along with all other foes of prohibition, which the Republican convention refused to adopt at the behest of Mr. Hoover, and which the Democratic convention adopted overwhelmingly, her intelligence makes her course clear.

Intelligence makes clear the duty of every other foe of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. The issue has been made so distinct and unescapable that no foe of prohibition, following his or her intelligence, can follow any other course than that of Mrs. Sabin, who declares for Roosevelt on the prohibition issue.

Voters Must Have Facts

However, it is not quite fair to charge unintelligent voting against the people. They can vote intelligently only when they are in possession of the facts. The policy of the Hoover High Command is to confuse and deceive them on the facts. Thus the organized ballyhoo about the upward trend of business and the early turning of the corner of prosperity.

One illustration: The other day the newspapers of the country carried the story that a great steel corporation had announced its intention to spend $5,000,000 on improvements and repairs. This was conspicuously displayed. The purpose was to deceive the people into believing that this means a great improvement on the year before. More men were to be put to work on improvements and repairs than were engaged last year. More material would be required—and this would mean more work.

Now where is the crookedness in that statement? Just here: This same great steel corporation which is going to spend $5,000,000 on improvements and repairs this year spent $31,000,000 on improvements and repairs last year.

The story as given to the people conveys the impression that a $5,000,000 expenditure means just that much added for business and employment, whereas it really means that only one-sixth as much is to be spent as was spent last year. Instead of being better it is six times worse.

Prejudices Stimulated

The strategy clearly is to deceive the people as to conditions, if possible, by disseminating false information disguised as unpolitical "news" and to mobilize all possible prejudices and hates having no remote connection with intelligent action. The spokesmen of the administration, all secondraters thus far, have resorted to the most reckless misrepresentations; and others, like Senator Moses, are specializing on arousing prejudices having no relation to the issues of the campaign.

Senator Moses is a specialist in this line—he and Mr. Lucas. He was part of the conspiracy, of which Mr. Hoover was cognizant in 1928, to arouse religious and racial prejudices against Al Smith. His notorious letter unhappily for him uncovered him completely in that campaign. When this Senator, with his record, and the part he played in the most infamous of all campaigns has the effrontery to appear in Massachusetts in the role of a friend of Al Smith, the wonder is that he is not hissed from the platform. We who fought for Smith, and stood out against the low prejudices the Moses of that campaign were arousing can only marvel at the impudence of the speaker, and even more at the patience of an audience in Boston that "must have been cognizant of the hypocrisy of his performance."

* * *

Double-Dealing G. O. P. Strategy

Misrepresentation—appeals to prejudices based on falsehoods—and double-dealing with the people—this plainly is the strategy of the high-minded Hoover command. The latter is illustrated in the case of Vice President Curtis' appearance in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Curtis is a dry—dry as dust. He stands enthusiastically and four-square for the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. He makes no secret of his position. Thus his assignment to wet Pennsylvania was unfortunate. Protests were heard, and the party management in that state attempts to reassure the liberals with the announcement that Mr. Curtis will conceal his Anti-Saloon League views while there. Mr. Curtis will hereafter be kept out of the liberal East and be asked to confine his defense of prohibition to dry territory. Imagine Curtis in Boston!

To the student of democracy the reactions of the people to the strategy of Wall street's candidate will be the most interesting feature of the campaign.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

When a friend or associate does something commendable, compliment him.

It is a little for you to do and may mean much to him.

How bright this world might be if every person who has done a fine thing, worthy of consideration, were told about it by his or her friends.

You know, yourself, of innumerable times when you have started to praise another and checked your impulse.

Why was it?

It might be well to ponder this question, and it might make you ashamed of your little meanness.

The real leaders are those who most appreciate the something well done by others, because they are big themselves.

They know how easy it is to make mistakes and how praiseworthy are things that are well done.
